Hoods Killed Youth?

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — The mother of a 15-year-old Ladner boy, whose body was found shot and weighted down with cement here Friday, said Sunday her son had been trying to break away from a gang of juvenile hoodlums.

Mrs. Eileen Mawdsley said in an interview with Vancouver Province reporter Pat Johnson that her son Ross was waiting for admittance to Brannan Lake Boys' School, a Vancouver Island reformatory, after being convicted on a number of charges of car theft and vandalism.

She said he had dropped out of school in an effort to break away from the gang he had been associating with, and his death may have resulted from fear by some members that he would tell police about crimes committed by the gang.

BODY FOUND

She spoke to reporters at her home in Ladner a short time after police released the name of her son.

The boy's body was discovered in False Creek in the heart of Vancouver's industrial district Friday. Police said the body was weighted down with a block of cement and that the boy had been shot in the head several times before his body was dropped into the water.

Mrs. Mawdsley insists drugs aren't involved in her son's death. She said he had learned his lesson after spending some time in hospital two years ago after a bad LSD trip.

Mrs. Mawdsley admitted her son had several scrapes with the law in connection with charges of car theft and vandalism which resulted in the pending training school term.

"But he realized how he was hurting his mother and he was ready to accept his punishment and straighten out," said Mrs. Mawdsley's brother Jim Tupper.

Tupper, like most gathered in the Mawdsley household, was deeply disturbed over the unexpected death. "I'd like to

Yes, Traffic Was Flowing on Sunday

That was a road, that was. Engulfed in a torrent of water, Interurban Road in Saanich was just one of many roads in Greater Victoria made almost impassable by a weekend of non-stop heavy rain. The downpour which flooded many basements, was the wettest on record. (John McKay photo.)

Slides Block Roads, Rails; Three Killed

Times News Services

Three men died in a snowslide north of Hope Sunday as heavy rain hit southern British Columbia and Vancouver Island, blocking highways and rail lines.

The men, employees of Giant Mascot Mines, eight miles north of Hope, about 100 miles northeast of Vancouver, were killed when their truck was hit by a snowslide on a mine access road running off the Fraser Canyon Highway.

The men were identified as Walter Russel Morphy, 51, of Rosedale; Stefan Mista, 46, of Yarrow, and Fred Joseph Wehner, 47, of Hope.

In Greater Victoria it was the heaviest March rainfall on record, with many areas swamped by more than 3½ inches in 36 hours. (See Page 19.)

BASEMENTS FLOODED

Roads became rushing streams as ditches overflowed, and hundreds of homeowners inundated municipal works departments with requests for help as their basements flooded.

Flat lands were turned into miniature lakes, and the Sooke Road was impassable for more than eight hours Sunday.

The Hope-Princeton Highway remained open Sunday night but the Fraser Canyon Highway was closed indefinitely to through traffic because of snowslides.

Farther east, the Rogers Pass was expected to be reopened today after weekend closures.

Snowslides also affected rail travel, blocking both Canadian National and CP Rail lines through the Fraser Canyon. CN's line was blocked for about 14 hours Sunday and a CN passenger train rerouted over CP Rail tracks was further delayed by a slide which derailed two freight cars and blocked the CP Rail line overnight.

Extensive flooding was also reported in the upper Fraser Valley.

The weather office reported 2.45 inches of rain at Abbotsford in 24 hours and 2.80 inches at Hope in 18 hours.

TROUBLED PILOT NOT A NATIVE

KELSEY BAY (CP) — The pilot made a forced landing on a paved logging road in this Vancouver Island community and RCMP Constable Stan Nestibo greeted the five occupants.

"Where are we," asked the pilot.

"Kelsey Bay," was the response.

"Where's that?"

"Vancouver Island."

"Is that Canada or the U.S."

That's how Constable Nestibo describes the conversation, Friday, when pilot Ernie Lampert of Eagle River, Alaska, landed his twin-engine plane after dark, missing overhead wires, bunkhouses and stopping short of a large garage.

On Saturday, pilot Lampert made adjustments, took off on a clear stretch of logging road — and returned five minutes later with more engine trouble.

The language this time was more colorful, but less quotable.

The plane was still here Sunday night, while Mr. Lampert and his four passengers went to Campbell River, hoping to rent a car to drive to Seattle.

'Wave of Revulsion' Follows Belfast Blast

Times News Service

A wave of revulsion swept both Irelands today after the weekend bombing of a central Belfast restaurant, crowded with shoppers, killed two and wounded 136 other people.

The Irish Republican Army, fighting to unite Ireland and to expel the British from Northern Ireland, denied it had anything to do with planting of the powerful explosive device.

The IRA blamed it on Protestant extremists to whip up public anger against the guerrillas.

But police in Belfast claim the bombing was done by IRA terrorists who planted the gelignite charge in the Abercorn restaurant.

A spokesman for Sinn Fein, the political organization of the IRA's official wing, said in Dublin: "We have consistently condemned attacks upon civilian installations and we would very strongly condemn this one."

The blast shocked even the most hard-bitten communities of strife-torn Ulster and provoked a storm of protest from church and political leaders.

Many of the injured were maimed for life—including two sisters who had their legs blown off.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic appealed to the IRA to suspend its campaign of violence in Northern Ireland. But he made clear he was not accusing the underground organization of responsibility for the blast.

Lynch said the tragedy had filled all Irish people with horror and shame.

In Belfast, another bomb exploded in a parking lot behind a big movie theatre in central Belfast today, wounding about 20 persons.

The blast came in mid-afternoon behind the Ritz Cinema at the junction of Grosvenor Road and Great Victoria St., close to the Northern Ireland capital's main railway station.

People rushed screaming from the Ritz and two neighboring movie houses. Fleets of ambulances ferried away the injured, most of them suffering from shock and cuts from flying glass.

The blast blew in windows of the Europa Hotel about 100 yards away. The Europa is Belfast's newest and largest hotel.

Train Cars Dangle

GRAND'MERE, Que. (CP) — Two CNR crane crews were working today to clear away three freight cars that dangled over a bridge following a 17-car derailment Sunday at Grand'Mere, 85 miles northeast of Montreal. Police said one of the cars had slipped over the side of the bridge, rolled down a small embankment and "nearly went into the St. Maurice River," 50 feet below. No one was injured and the cause of the derailment is still under investigation.

Grass 'Impairs'

TORONTO (CP) — Some former users say marijuana can impair the ability to work effectively, a survey released Sunday claims. The survey, conducted by Narconon, a rehabilitation program for drug addicts, came one week after a study by the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation found that daily smoking of marijuana causes no adverse physical, psychiatric or social effects in the short term.

Yves Geoffroy Recaptured

MONTREAL (CP) — Convicted murderer Yves Geoffroy and Carmen Parent, his bride of 10 weeks, were arrested today in Barcelona, Spain, and Canadian and Spanish authorities now are working out details of their return to Canada.

Quebec Provincial Police said the arrests were made at noon, Spanish time, today in the Gran Villa hotel in Barcelona.

A spokesman for Solicitor-General Jeanne-Pierre Goyer said, in the first announcement of the arrests, that the couple was picked up during the weekend.

Mr. Goyer said in an interview here before travelling to Ottawa that he could not say "exactly" when the couple might be returned but police had assurances from Spanish authorities that they "won't be released before we explore all the legal possibilities."

Police said QPP Corporal Sylvano Tendi and Denis Giguere and an RCMP officer, as well as Barcelona police, made the arrests.

Geoffroy failed to return to prison here when granted compassionate leave after serving 14 months of a life sentence for strangling his first wife and setting fire to a bed on which her body was found, in an attempt to make her death appear accidental.

An autopsy showed later she was strangled.

MARRIED HIS MISTRESS

Miss Parent, Geoffroy's mistress, married him Dec. 24, the day he disappeared while out on a three-day pass from nearby St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

In Ottawa, an External Affairs Department spokesman said Canada and Spain have an extradition treaty dating back to 1978 which covers persons convicted of murder.

Miss Parent has been charged with making a false written statement to gain a passport for Geoffroy, providing a document she knew was false, making use of a document she knew was false and illegal possession of a passport.

The spokesman said these charges are not covered by the extradition treaty with Spain.

The spokesman said numerous possibilities were being studied but no request had been made as yet to the Spanish government for extradition of the Geoffroys, as far as he knew.

There was a possibility that Spanish law provided for deportation or persons using a false passport. There is such a provision in Canadian law.

Wind Frees Ferries

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — A change of wind and shifting ice early today allowed three Canadian National ferries to break free of heavy ice in the Cabot Strait where some 18 to 36 vessels were held immobile during the weekend.

Five icebreakers worked through the ice field, opening lanes for about 30 ships that required assistance. None of the ships was in danger.

A CN spokesman at North Sydney said the passenger-and-car ferry William Carson was able to make Port Aux Basques, Nfld., early today and was en route back to North Sydney.

The passenger-and-car ferry Ambrose Shea and the rail-car ferry Frederick Carter were reported en route to North Sydney after breaking free early today when winds changed to the west and the ice moved out.

The Ambrose Shea and William Carson had more than 136 passengers aboard when they became trapped Saturday.

40 Feared Dead After Explosion

From AP-REUTER

BARCELONA (CP) — Rescuers pulled 12 bodies from the debris of a 10-storey apartment house early today after an explosion collapsed the structure. Police feared 20 or 30 more persons were trapped in the wreckage.

The 10-year-old building in a hilly residential section blew up while most of its 50 residents were asleep. Many of the apartment dwellers were believed to be Latin Americans.

The explosion was traced to the fourth floor, and City Engineer Esteban Rifa said he believed a gas leak was responsible.

Three hundred police, firemen and students from Barcelona University struggled with the debris, looking for the victims.

The blast blew out the walls of the building, and authorities said all 10 storeys collapsed. Windows in nearby buildings were shattered.

Each of the 10 storeys of the building contained one apartment, with most of them housing a family of four or more.

CHILDREN FOUND

Bodies of several children were among the first recovered.

The building collapsed at about 1 a.m. after it was rocked by an explosion heard up to two miles away and which shattered windows within a radius of 200 yards.

One man was saved from the eighth floor by a crane. He was spotted clinging to a window in the back wall of the building— the only part left standing after the explosion.

The building split down the middle and crashed to the ground after the blast.

Last September, 1970, a nine-storey apartment building being built in Almeria collapsed when nearly completed, killing 15 workmen.

He said Sunday night that the initial results were too close to indicate a likely outcome.

Indian Leaders Ask RCMP Be Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Indian leaders, angered by the accidental death verdict in the controversial death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt, said Saturday Attorney-General Les Peterson will be asked to lay charges against at least one of two RCMP officers involved in the case.

Clarence Dennis, a spokesman for the Fred Quilt Committee, said legal advisers have informed the committee that, based on evidence at an inquest into the death, there is enough evidence to lay a charge of manslaughter against one constable.

Mr. Quilt, 55, a member of the Stone band of the Chilcotins, died in hospital at Williams Lake Nov. 30 on infection from a perforated intestine.

An inquest jury ruled the death accidental, but others allege he was beaten two days before he died by two RCMP officers from the Alexis Creek detachment in Central British Columbia.

A man's shirt and undershirt stained with what is believed to be blood were entered as new evidence Friday as B.C. supervising coroner Glen McDonald proceeded with a review of the case on orders from Mr. Peterson.

Nixon's Goal Wasn't Peace: Pravda

MOSCOW (WP) — President Nixon went to China to exploit Peking's anti-Soviet policies, and not out of concern for peace in Asia, the Soviet Union's Communist Party newspaper said Sunday.

In the harshest and most authoritative comment yet published here on Mr. Nixon's trip, a commentator in Pravda gave a thoroughly negative interpretation of the Peking summit meeting.

By implication, at least, this kind of commentary bodes ill for Mr. Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union in May. Many Western diplomats contend, however, that propaganda will be forgotten when it comes time to do serious business with the Americans later this spring.

According to Sunday's Pravda, President Nixon's voyage did not alter the American policy of trying to maintain "supremacy" in Asia. In this regard, the paper said, U.S. policy has remained the same "since the time of General (Douglas) MacArthur."

Proof of this, Pravda said, was America's persistence in upholding all the old elements of U.S. policy — "aggression in Indochina, occupation of South Korea, military bases all around the periphery of the Far East and Southeast Asia."

Because these "remain unchanged," Pravda says, "one can suppose that China's anti-Soviet course pushed Washington into this new step (the Nixon trip) more than any concern about peace in that (Asian) region."

Consistent with the Soviet policy of playing down Mr. Nixon's trip, these harsh words appeared near the end of a 2,500-word review of world affairs written by Georgi Ratiani, chief of Pravda's American department. Nevertheless, they are a clear signal to the party workers who study Pravda closely that this is the line they should take on the Peking summit.

Though the Soviet papers have not published major commentaries devoted entirely to the new state of Sino-American relations, an accumulation of evidence — including Sunday's Pravda commentary — has now conveyed a general picture to careful Soviet readers.

That picture contains these elements:

—The Nixon trip was a hostile act to the Soviet Union, because it represented an American attempt to exploit China's anti-Soviet position.

—The trip produced more than was revealed in the communique (which has been fairly summarized but not yet printed here in full). Mr. Nixon's talks with Mao Tse-tung and Chao En-lai were held in utmost secrecy. By implication, the Soviet reader has been invited to conclude that Washington and Peking may have reached secret agreements, perhaps directed against the Soviet Union.

—Mr. Nixon's desire to visit China was connected with this year's presidential elections in the United States.

—By receiving Mr. Nixon as they did, the Chinese leaders have further demonstrated their disregard for the values which "good Communists" (those loyal to Moscow) should respect.

China has been more sharply criticized here than the U.S. since the end of the Peking summit. The Soviet press has not mentioned the theory — popular among Western commentators — that the Americans made significant concessions in Peking. Instead, the papers here suggest that Peking made all the concessions to the "imperialists."

CLC Blames PM for Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress has unleashed a bitter personal attack on Prime Minister Trudeau in its annual brief to the cabinet today.

As it did last year, the Congress stresses that unemployment is the main problem facing the country—1971 was a disaster year, it states, and 1972 will be only relatively better.

"But even more important is the fact that we still do not have an all-out commitment to wipe out the causes of unemployment," the brief states.

"While it is not our intention to engage in recriminations, it is difficult to have confidence in the intentions of a government whose chief spokesman time and again airily dismisses a national problem of such grave dimensions.

"Whimsical statements so lightly tossed off do not engender confidence that the mistakes of the past will not be repeated."

600,000 JOBLESS

The brief picks in particular on Mr. Trudeau's well-publicized comment that unemployed workers have only to look in newspaper want ads to find numerous vacant jobs.

Describing the comment as "gratuitous," the brief notes a report of the manpower department showing about 44,300 fulltime and part-time jobs to be vacant at any one time between July and September last year.

It adds that, with some 600,000 Canadians out of work, the prime minister's comment "raises the question of internal government communications."

The 1.7-million-member congress repeats in the brief arguments for a full-employment budget that would gear fiscal and monetary policies to the actual size of the labor force.

It also urges strongly that current economic expansion not be retarded by the government "because of unnecessary fears over price increases.

"This is a mistake which has been made too often in the past, with unfortunate employment results."

Inflation, the brief adds, should not be a major concern unless price increases in Canada exceed those of principal trading partners.

WILL OPPOSE INJUSTICES

The brief, presented to the cabinet by Congress President Donald MacDonald, is generally considered to be the major communication of the year between organized labor and the government.

The unusual personal attack on Mr. Trudeau may reflect an election-year climate. The 18,000-word document concludes with a warning that labor "will continue to support policies for a just society and oppose measures and governments which perpetuate injustices."

The brief leaves no doubt that the CLC believes unemployment is the greatest injustice of all. It notes that while the national unemployment rate throughout 1971 was 6.4 per cent, the rate in the Atlantic provinces was 34 per cent higher than the national average and in Quebec, 28 per cent higher.

For Canadians under 25, the rate was 11.4 per cent—"the highest on record for the postwar period."

Equally serious was the duration of unemployment for individual workers. "During 1971, when the monthly average of unemployed totalled 552,000 40-per-cent of 219,000 were unemployed over a period of four or more months.

"This was the highest duration rate of unemployment in 10 years."

PRAISES SOME POLICIES

While roasting government on the unemployment issue, the brief does give approval to certain policies and legislation.

It urges the government to continue to press for free trade and against protectionist measures adopted by the United States. It mourns that U.S. protectionists include "groups within the U.S. trade union movement."

Ranging over a number of social issues, the brief is particularly critical of the ceiling placed by the government on the old age pension. The basic pension should be increased to $100 a month from $80 and increased each year to the full extent of increases in the cost of living.

UMBRELLA FAILED to keep the rain off after Aristrocrat's rider took a jump in Johannesburg, South Africa. The horse and rider were testing the wet going on the course prior to horse trials, but the combination of wind and jump proved too much for the brolly, turning it inside-out.

Rail, Air Problems Voiced

OTTAWA (CP) — MPs start their annual recital of grievances against the national transportation system this week as the yearly debate on the CNR-Air Canada financing bill gets under way today.

The routine bill would authorize for the government-owned Canadian National Railways capital expenditures totalling $219,800,000 in 1971, and another $83 million up to July 1, 1972.

It would also authorize government loans to Air Canada between Jan. 1, 1971 and June 30, 1972 to help it pay its debts.

But the debate is always used by MPs to push for rail and air improvements in their regions as well as changes in the national transportation policy.

Suburb Annexation Plan Rather Brutal: Drafter

The Union of B.C. Municipalities today proposed a system of mandatory incorporation into municipalities of all areas exhibiting certain minimum urban characteristics.

The proposals, described as "a rather brutal approach" by UBCM president Ernie Broome, were presented to the legislative municipal affairs committee today.

A key procedure in the new system would be to make plebiscites for extension of municipal boundaries dependent on a 60-per-cent over-all approval of voters rather than approval in each territory affected.

Broome said this would end the historic injustice under which one vote in the unorganized suburbs could cancel out 100 in the municipality seeking to annex it.

The UBCM proposals, however, also call for an inquiry to be appointed by the government to study proposed incorporations or annexations with the power to order that no changes be made. This would take account of special situations, the brief states.

Broome said there is no question that "we are going to have to step on some corns" if the complex problem of deciding how to end urban fragmentation and the related ills is going to be solved.

The committee has been wrestling with the problem of criteria under which reluctant areas could be required to incorporate or malagamate.

Last week, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said he doesn't intend to ignore the political reality of any group of suburban people who strongly oppose such a move.

But Broome said today the democratic rights of the people living in municipalities, which in effect subsidize adjacent areas, must be given their proper weight in relation to the rights of the minority on the fringe.

The UBCM said peripheral areas should be subject to an inquiry about incorporation or amalgamation when the areas reach an assessment of $1,500 per capita and a population of 800 or one-twentieth of the adjacent municipality, among other standards.

The group also recommends automatic incorporation for isolated communities when they reach a population of 800 with the $1.500 per capita assessment (excluding school purposes), a total assessment base of $1.2 million and an adequate land base.

A density of one person per acre would also be required.

The tug is believed to have done down in about 600 feet of water.

A new oil slick was sighted in the area late Saturday and the Nekton was diving at this point at noon.

In western Washington the rains caused mudslides, flooding areas of Seattle and pushed rivers to flood levels.

Seattle was hit by almost 2½ inches of rain in a 24-hour period that started Saturday afternoon, and heavy rain and showers were forecast to continue today.

The wettest spot was Olympia, which was soaked with more than 3½ inches of rain in the same period. Hoquim received just under three inches of rain and Bellingham had 1⅛ inches.

Seattle police began closing some streets and intersections in the city's north end Sunday after as much as four feet of water collected in low spots when storm sewers backed up.

Police said two mudslides had blocked some streets in West Seattle.

A mudslide on Vashon Island southwest of Seattle destroyed a $48,000 home and pushed it partially into Puget Sound, according to the island fire department. The occupants escaped safely.

The U.S. weather service said several western Washington rivers were expected to rise above flood stage today but no serious flooding was forecast.

In another interview, a young girl who was afraid to disclose her name said Mawdsley was not killed because it was feared he would talk to the police.

'WOULDN'T TALK'

"Ross, he wouldn't talk," she said. She felt Mawdsley was killed because he "had something someone wanted."

She said it was known around the area that Mawdsley owed money to certain elements and that he had been very edgy to avoid "someone who was looking for him."

The girl speculated that the someone caught up with Mawdsley before he was sent away.

"A couple of his friends could tell the police some things about all this," she said. "But nobody is going to talk. Everyone's afraid. In something like this, who knows who could be next.

Mawdsley's high school vice-principal, Colin Campbell, said drugs could have been involved in the slaying. "This town isn't clean," he said. "The drugs are here, but this could have happened anywhere."

'NICE HOOD'

Campbell said: "I must admit it would have come as no surprise to learn he (Mawdsley) was in trouble, but I wouldn't have expected anything of this nature."

He said that although Mawdsley could be a discipline problem in the likeable person on a one-to-one things about all this," she classroom, he was a very

EMPTY CAN LAW CUTS 200 JOBS

Up to 200 B.C. jobs will be lost as a result of amendments to the Litter Act effective March 11, a spokesman for Pacific Reclamation confirmed today.

The amendments make it mandatory for retail outlets to refund money on soft drink bottles and cans of brands sold by them, thus making the depot service redundant.

The Vancouver firm runs 175 depots across the province. The vice-president of one of them, Lloyd Schopp, of Coast Container Refunds Ltd., Namaimo, estimates that about 200 jobs would disappear.

The Pacific Reclamation spokesman today confirmed the estimate and pointed out that in the past year his company had processed 25 million cans.

They had also been experimenting, in co-operation with Anaconda Copper's Brittania Mines and the University of British Columbia, with the use of soft drink cans in the copper leaching process.

They found that for every two pounds of tin they could precipitate one pound of copper in the process, the spokesman said.

"But I guess that's all a dead issue now," he added.

Ferry Runs Halted By Hydro Repairs

All ferry sailings between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen were cancelled after 6 p.m. Saturday due to a combination of wind, darkness and lack of room to dock at the mainland terminal.

The docking area was cut down by an attempt by B.C. Hydro to repair underwater cable just outside Tsawwassen. This involved the use of the ocean-going tug Sudbury II and many buoys.

The restricted space presented no problem during the daylight hours but was a threat to safety when darkness fell and winds grew to more than 25 miles an hour.

Highways were clogged near the terminals and nearby hotels housed many of the delayed travellers.

B.C. Ferries traffic manager reported today that although traffic was unusually heavy Sunday, no extra sailings had been needed to take care of Saturday's overload.

Couple Survive Crash

A Calgary man and his wife were found alive today after spending all night by their crashed plane near Fort St. John, B.C.

A Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre official said today that Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Nabors were picked up by a civilian helicopter this morning and taken to hospital in Fort St. John.

Neither Nabors nor his wife was seriously hurt.

Their Comanche twin-engine plane went down about 7 p.m. Sunday evening.

A rescue plane was despatched from CFB Comox and located the site of the downed plane through its electronic beacon equipment.

The rescue of the couple, however, was held up until today because of snow and darkness.

'Sect Probed Before Grant'

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the federal manpower department said Sunday the Church of the Final Judgment, also known as The Process, was carefully investigated before it received a $25,900 grant under the Local Initiatives Program.

Cam Mackie, who assesses L.I.P. projects for the department, said the study was ordered a month ago by Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey, not because the group's beliefs were "weird or suspicious," but to understand "why it offered such a quality service and had a degree of commitment others don't have."

The Process received its grant to hire 12 unemployed people for its free food and clothing stores, toy repair shop, coffee house and drop-in centre.

"Because of the name of the organization and its public image we checked very carefully," said Mr. Mackie.

"We're not the least bit worried about their religious beliefs although we don't support proselytizing."

Father Malachi, one of the "masters" of The Process, said it has 2,000 members in Toronto and plans to move into Montreal and Vancouver.

He explained in an interview that the sect considers Satan one of the aspects of God.

"Satan as our final enemy is not evil," he said. "He is a prober or tester to present our weaknesses to us. Then it's up to us; we can accept them and go on to beat them."

Father Malachi emphasized that The Process is a Christian religion and a high degree of discipline is required of its ministers, including a ban on alcohol, drugs and personal possessions.

He said the sect derives its income from sale of literature, donations and tithing—each disciple contributes one-tenth of his income.

Highway Tangle Seen With Reform

A bureaucratic nightmare and a tie-up of highway development would result from proposed reforms of B.C.'s expropriation laws, a special legislative committee appeared to agree today.

The reforms as proposed by the B.C. Law Reform Commission "would just about bring to a standstill" highway construction because of extended delays in settling claims, Highways Minister Wesley Black warned.

REAL PROBLEMS

Robert Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) said he agreed and also warned of "real bureaucracy problems" and a "field day for lawyers" in the complicated system of procedures recommended to protect persons with land being expropriated.

Most committee members agreed when Scott Wallace (PC—Oak Bay) asked whether the members were saying that the commission had gone too far in an effort to correct current failure of expropriation laws to protect landowners.

The committee is studying the 275-page Law Reform Commission report which was tabled a few weeks ago in the legislature. No action on the report is likely this year.

Williams suggested a "sort of sub-ombudsman" would be a better way to protect the landowner rather than to provide him with an elaborate system of subsidized legal assistance which could invite people into court unnecessarily.

The commission's recommendation of market value plus relocation costs as a basis for compensation appeared to find general agreement with committee members, with Williams stressing the need for using the replacement value approach carefully to protect people where large urban renewal projects have caused the loss of property.

The committee decided to call Richard Gosse, member of the Law Reform Commission, to appear at a later meeting.

Train Kills City Woman

An inquest will be held into the death of a Victoria skier who was killed by a freight train Sunday near Whistler Mountain.

An RCMP spokesman at Squamish said today Mary Heather Lawson, 21, of 1500 Shasta Place, was walking along the PGE track in the Alta Lake district with two companions at about 7:15 a.m.

Police understood the three were on their way up the mountain to ski. Investigation is continuing.

WHERE ELDERLY CAN GO TO APPLY FOR TENANT AID

Tenants over 65 can apply for their $50 annual grant starting this week at the provincial department of finance at the Legislative Building.

G. S. Bryson, deputy minister of finance, said today applicants can apply in writing or come to the office personally to get application forms.

He said the grants will not be distributed until the legislation is passed, which is likely to be in April.

DRUG 'RELIGION'

OTTAWA (CP) — Kenneth Beales of Burnaby, B.C., argued today that laws forbidding the non-medical use of LSD and Marijuana infringe his freedom of religion.

He told the Supreme Court of Canada that a religion he had founded uses the drugs as sacraments.

The court reserved decision on his motion seeking the right to appeal his conviction and that of his wife of possession and marijuana.

Both were convicted late last year in Burnaby of possession contrary to the Narcotic Control Act and the Food and Drugs Act. Sentence was postponed pending the outcome of their appeal.

Lawyers for the Crown said only the Beales and their infant daughter are members of the religion founded by Mr. Beales.

They also argued that religious sects, such as the Hutterites, are not absolved from obeying federal, provincial and municipal laws because of their religion.

TAX TIPS

Tips for filing your 1971 income tax are provided Times readers in co-operation with the department of national revenue.

For further assistance readers may contact the Victoria district taxation office, Vancouver Street, public information service, at 388-3551.

Q. I will be eligible for a pension under the Old Age Security Act in 1972 and intend to apply for same. Can I continue to contribute to the Canada Pension Plan on my self-employed income until I reach 70 years of age?

A. The fact that you will be in receipt of a pension under the Old Age Security Act has no bearing on your liability to contribute to the Canada Pension Plan. Therefore until you reach 70 years of age you will be required to contribute to the plan on your self-employed income.

* * *

Q. I am divorced and receive alimony payments from my former husband. Do I have to report these payments as income on my tax return, and if so, where on the return do I enter the amount?

A. Yes, these payments must be reported as income. Enter the total received in the year on the line for "other income" on your return.

* * *

Q. On my personalized income tax return, a number is printed on the label with my name and address. What is this number and should I quote it if I have to get in touch with the income tax department?

A. The number which is printed on the form with your name and address is a special account number which is made up from letters of your surname, your date of birth and other identifying factors. This number enables the taxation department to positively identify you, and also enables the computer to match your return with that of last year and thus speed up the processing of your current return. Your social insurance number is also shown on the income tax return and, in corresponding with the taxation department, it is important to use the account number or social insurance number so that any unnecessary dealy will be avoided.

* * *

Q. I am now receiving pension payments from the Canada Pension Plan. Is the money I receive taxable, and should I include it when I report my income?

A. Yes, the income you are now receiving from the pension plan is taxable and should be reported on your income tax return.

'Put Onus on Unions To Prevent Strike'

The president of Construction Labor Relations Association today put the onus on building trades unions to prevent a period of labor strife similar to the summer of 1970.

Charles Connaghan said CLRA has not lost confidence in its ability to negotiate anew the 44 contracts expiring March 31, but getting agreement will be tough "and the possibility of another summer like 1970 is there."

"We are still hopeful we can conclude these negotiations without a work stoppage, but it is up to the unions more than the contractors," Connaghan said.

He stressed that unions must make substantial concessions, retiring some of the outdated clauses in construction union contracts.

Connaghan said he did not think the public would support building trade wage demands for a $130 million increase over two years, especially with unemployment at 8.7 per cent in B.C.

MAKING DEMANDS

"Instead of just listening to the unions' demands, we're making some demands of our own," he said. Delays and poor productivity are as great a problem as high wages, and "the unions should be willing to eliminate certain work restrictions and practices that have plagued the contractors over the years and have led to inefficiencies."

Connagahn said CLRA contractors "feel we need relief from these restrictions which might have been justified when they first appeared in collective agreements many years ago, but aren't justified any more because of changing circumstances."

Aspects of the union hiring hall which raise costs unnecessarily were cited. The hiring hall has been used as a punitive measure against contractors and employees, Connaghan said.

The right to withdraw men from a job due to the presence of other union members not belonging to the right trade association was another area pinpointed.

VULNERABLE

Contractors today find themselves in a vulnerable position, suspect in the minds of many for their ability to produce within prescribed time limits at an efficient level.

Connaghan said there have been more than 40 negotiating meetings since bargaining began in January.

"Nobody is panicking. But we do feel the situation is rapidly growing more serious."

In 1970 bargaining broke down after four months of meetings and major construction projects were shut down for three months.

Cyclist Avoids Serious Injury

A 16-year-old boy escaped serious injury today when he walked out into the path of a car on the Island Highway.

Danny Barron, 1435 Courtland, was wheeling his bicycle on the highway just north of Helmcken when he decided to cross, RCMP said.

Police said he didn't look to the left and was struck by a car driven north by Frederick Debeck, 3217 Service.

The boy suffered a bruised right leg.

A Wrench in the Gears

Rehabilitation Minister Gaglardi has finally admitted, in a press interview, that he rejects the recommendations of the citizens' committee which spent a year and a half on a study of social welfare operations in the Capital Region area of Greater Victoria.

The study was made at the request of the Capital Regional Board and partly financed by the provincial government, and the whole purpose was to see how methods could be improved, and how much duplication and unnecessary effort could be eliminated by a better organization of the administration and the grass-roots services of the whole complicated social welfare mechanism here. The volunteer group of citizens was helped by an advisory committee, some members of which were officially appointed by the provincial government.

Among Mr. Gaglardi's elected colleagues and the professional experts of his department are strong supporters of the eventual recommendation that the welfare services of Greater Victoria and nearby areas could be greatly improved by integrating the benefits of provincial and local financing and management under the body which can speak for the whole region which is being served: the Capital Regional District Board.

The Regional Board and the participating municipalities have approved the concept, and the advantages seem pretty obvious to anyone who looks at the report. There are, for instance, four administrations now dealing with social services in the Region, merely because they grew up that way over the years: Victoria City Welfare, the Saanich Social Services, the provincial government's district offices and the Family and Children's Service, which is the legally appointed arm of the government in part of this area. The regionalization report says, among its recommendations, that these should all be put under one administration, not only for the benefit of the system but for the benefit of the people whom the machine is supposed to serve.

Mr. Gaglardi has tossed all this aside, and the superficiality of his criticisms leads one to wonder if he really understands what he is dealing with. The manner of his refusal carries heavy overtones of rivalry with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, the previous Minister of Welfare who encouraged the study and its findings. What it boils down to is that almost everyone is out of step but Mr. Gaglardi — and he seems to be marching to a drummer who has nothing to do with the real purposes of welfare or the public interest.

It is grossly unacceptable that one man's personal hang-ups should be permitted to negate a reasonable and very promising trend in the more efficient and humanitarian provision of health, recreation and welfare services.

If Mr. Gaglardi cannot be persuaded to change his mind there appears to be only one recourse — to persuade Premier Bennett to change it for him. Obviously the local Social Credit MLAs are useless in a situation like this where conscientious spokesmen for the Greater Victoria area are required.

As Alderman Mrs. Edith Gunning — a tireless worker for improved public services of all kinds — says: "A satisfactory program cannot be developed and maintained with fragmented administrations planning in isolation. . ."

The regionalization proposal, with its attendant plans and safeguards, was offered as a strong forward step. How long must we wait for the Minister, who should be leading, to catch up?

A Light Dawns

Opposition members of the Legislature awoke Friday to a fact that the two Victoria newspapers have been trying to hammer home at considerable cost to themselves: that the Social Credit government's attitude to liquor and tobacco advertising is cynically inconsistent.

Laws banning such advertising have been flouted every day since they came into effect in September, 1971, though not by the newspapers. The penalties provided in the acts have never been invoked. Only one disciplinary punishment has been meted out. When the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist tried to bring the situation into focus by publishing a cigarette advertisement, they were told that they were no longer eligible for government advertising. They cannot find legal grounds for the boycott.

Enter NDP leader Dave Barrett, waving a copy of the current issue of Time magazine before his fellow-MLAs. Look, he said, at this magazine, printed in Vancouver and circulating widely through British Columbia. It contains one full page advertisement for cigarettes, one full page advertisement for whisky, and one full page advertisement for the B.C. government. Was Time being rewarded for something, he asked, using a word that the Attorney-General had employed to explain how government advertising is allocated. Liberal leader Pat McGeer also spoke up and denounced "the absurd double standard we have sunk to in B.C."

The government had no reply.

Family Planning

The minister of health and welfare, Mr. John Munro, announced recently at a national conference on family planning that his department would dispense more than $1 million in the coming fiscal year for family planning projects. Half of this sum would go to voluntary agencies while the other half would go to demonstration projects and the cost of training people in family planning services.

While disclosing this financial help the minister made clear the policy of the government on this delicate but urgent matter. Family planning methods should, he said, result from "an informed and responsible choice based upon adequate knowledge and . . . there must be no hint or suggestion of coercion."

Such funds as Mr. Munro indicated will help to make a greater degree of choice possible among all income groups. Confirmation once again that the government will not intrude into the bedroom — that, in other words, citizens can be trusted to use their own intelligence in limiting families — is particularly reassuring at a time when the modern state displays disturbingly meddlesome traits.

A 'Deal' Made in Peking?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — There may indeed have been "no secret deals" in Peking. But there is, as a result of the Nixon-Chou talks, an unstated arrangement, an implicit understanding, which — translated from the idiom of diplomatic indirection — may come close to being a "deal."

China and the United States have implied that there is a link between peace in Vietnam and a complete American withdrawal from Taiwan (Formosa).

If Peking can and does influence Hanoi decisively toward a settlement in Paris, Washington will remove its military-intelligence presence from off the coast of China.

This is the real significance of the phrase in the Peking communique which refers to American withdrawal from Taiwan "as the tension in the area diminishes." Other sources of "tension in the area" are peripheral by comparison with Vietnam.

Secret Deal

There is only one circumstance in which the United States would get out of Taiwan short of peace in Vietnam, and it is unlikely to come about. It is a "secret deal" between Taiwan and the Mainland which included provision for such an American withdrawal.

It is United States policy to encourage a negotiated settlement between Mao Tse Tung and Chiang Kai-shek. But for such a settlement to take place while the Generalissimo lives, and the Vietnam war is in process, is such a remote contingency as to be all but irrelevant.

For Peking, the route to a reunified China almost certainly must lie through Hanoi. Only by persuading Hanoi to accept a government in Saigon not under the control of the North could Peking obtain from the United States decisive help in reunifying China.

There is not a "secret deal"; it would be a deal only if China met the precondition, and the United States responded with the promised quid pro quo. But the basis of a deal advantageous to the United States has been laid.

China wants very much to see American forces hastened out of Taiwan; it is, indeed, one of her principal foreign-policy goals, second only to security from Soviet nuclear attack. Without the American shield, in visible form, Taipei almost certainly would seek to negotiate an end to the Chinese civil war, even if this meant — as it would mean — submitting to the authority of Peking.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK
. . . remote contingency

Nor is this the only reason why it would be tempting for China to deliver on her part of the proposed bargain with Washington.

China also wants American forces, including residual air forces, out of Southeast Asia. She knows that access to the submarine bases on Taiwan will be of strategic advantage to China if and when she builds a Polaris fleet. Taiwan has been a centre of intelligence operations which, although no longer of great importance in the era of the reconnaissance satellite, are still of some concern to Peking.

Moreover, on the other side of the coin, China has little selfish interest in seeing Hanoi in control of South Vietnam. The continuing partition of Vietnam, an area historically cool or hostile to China, is not at all a disservice to Peking. A reunited Vietnam could be China's Yugoslavia.

Self-Interest

Reasons of cold, Machiavellian self-interest therefore converge to tempt Peking toward fulfilment of her part of the potential bargain with President Nixon.

Whether she has the leverage in Hanoi to deliver is another question. It would be a drastic step to cut off supplies for Hanoi's war effort; China would be profoundly vulnerable to Soviet criticism in such an event. And short of such a step, Peking may not be able to make North Vietnam accept less than victory.

At some later stage, however, if Hanoi fails to overwhelm the South Vietnamese armies — fighting, as they soon will be, without American ground support — the time could come when some in Hanoi would be amenable to a compromise settlement. Then a nudge from China might be decisive.

It is useful for the United States to give Peking additional incentive for such a nudge. Until or unless China delivers, the United States can adjudge "the tension in the area" too severe to allow of a total withdrawal from Taiwan.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Into the Dirt

"The supply of truth has always been in excess of the demand for it." I do not recall who said this, but it applies with striking emphasis to the current "name-calling" controversy, and with equal force to the courageous stand the Victoria Times and The Colonist have taken in challenging the legality of the government's law to ban tobacco advertising. Your position is well-founded on the principle of responsible corporate and private citizenship.

Similarly, when Prime Minister Trudeau referred to Premier Bennett as a bigot he stated an obvious truth. The substantive response of NDP, Tory and even Liberal politicians who should have applauded the PM's stand was to "dissociate" themselves from this simple truth. Premier Bennett has no such inhibitions. When he goes in for name-calling he does it in the grand manner by smearing his bigotry with religous hokum, as when he slandered the NDP as "Godless Socialists."

No responsible citizen wants to indulge in "name-calling." But what is wrong in calling a bigot a bigot? It still holds true — as the Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker told me when I discussed with him the disinclination of public leaders to "call a spade a spade" in dealing with the slander, boycott, press gag law, etc., of the Socreds in Alberta — that "if you want to clean a pig-sty you have to get down into the dirt." But seemingly our B.C. opposition politicians prefer to "let Pierre do it." — J. J. Zubick, 4982 William Head Rd.

To Be Pitied

I don't know whether Saanich's MLA, Mr. Tisdalle, who is opposed to the teaching of evolution, has any children. If he has, they are to be pitied.

The bookshops — even the supermarkets — are full of well-devised books and encyclopedias describing and explaining evolution in simple terms. Any museum — our excellent Provincial Museum included — has exhibits about evolution. No biologist has any doubts about evolution being a fact.

Agricultural and medical sciences have to take account of evolution all the time when dealing with insecticides or antibiotics, because insects and bacteria can evolve new forms to evade our attacks. TV programs take evolution for granted.

The strain on any young person growing up in this world of scientific knowledge when his parents are telling him it is wicked to believe in evolution must be immense. Mr. Tisdalle and his friends are creating mental illness and delinquency by their ignorant remarks.

No reasonable person will take any notice of Mr. Tisdalle's dogmatic statements. But one does wonder how the people of Saanich elected anyone so ignorant to represent them. — J. Lloyd Brereton, 1337 Fairfield Rd.

Birthright

May we, through your paper, express our gratitude to the many people whose moral and financial support has made it possible for our organization to function with some measure of success.

During the past nine months, our members have made over 600 visits to distressed pregnant women, to assist them to sort out their problems and work out a solution other than abortion. We have already seen five babies, who might otherwise have been aborted, given the right to live, and we are expecting more each month.

We would like to thank the professional people who have given so generously of their time to assist and to advise our counsellors. It is impossible to put a price tag on human life, but without the generosity of those who have supported us with financial donations, it would be impossible for us to operate. We would also like to thank the kind-hearted people of this city who have opened their homes to pregnant women and those who have made and donated baby clothes and maternity apparel.

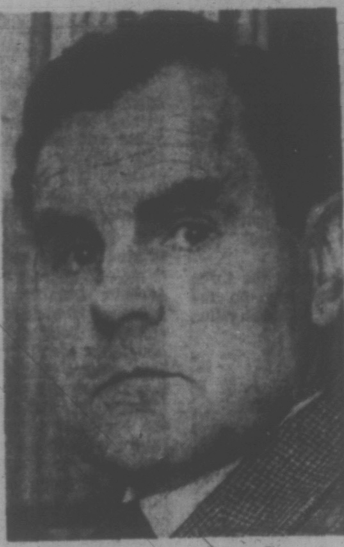
With our expanding services, there is always a need for more volunteer workers, and the need to obtain office space is becoming more immediate.

It is this continuing help and support that makes our work possible. — Director of Counselling, BIRTHRIGHT (of Victoria), P.O. Box 173, Telephone number: 384-1431. (Mrs.) L. Shandley.

School Costs

In principle I support the 108 per cent position the Minister of Education announced in October, 1971. But I feel it was ill-timed, in that the edict came after teachers had been hired, timetables set up and the whole operation geared to go. It was too late to make just, fair, well-thought-out adjustments to the total system.

The 7.6 per cent teacher salary settlement cost this district $1.1 million. Had our teachers accepted 6.5 per cent a saving of $161,191 would have been made.



PETER BUNN
. . . "yes"—but no repeats

Had our teachers accepted a 5 per cent increase then there would be no need for a referendum.

I shall support the $412,000 Referendum not on the basis of making well paid teachers richer — (a classroom teacher can now make nearly $15,000 for a 196-day year and we have 18 principals making more than $20,000) — but because I don't want to see the children of this district "clobbered," on the one hand by a "panic button" Department of Education and on the other by a rather greedy teachers' union.

To me this Referendum is a "One shot deal." This year — YES — but no more — no repeats!

We have had due warning of a 108 per cent position for next budget, let us adjust to the economic facts of life.

Administrators, principals and teachers must realize once and for all there is no "money tree" nurtured by the Department of Education and fertilized by the trustees, producing an ever increasing crop. There is just so much money to go around and in the last 10 years education has become a "fat cat." Perchance the time has come for some educational fat-cutting. We've received a message and I think we'd all be wise to heed it. — Peter G. Bunn, School Trustee, Greater Victoria.

Patient Sufferers

It seems a pity that the patients in Sandringham private hospital should be the sufferers in the dispute over union take-over of the help.

The union bosses' drive to power has been ruthless to the elderly for I have noticed over the past two decades that every round of wage increases has been followed by an increase in the cost of goods and services, of which one example is our municipal taxes. The professions follow along and the gap between the worker and the profession remains constant. One wonders how long the destruction of the value of our money can continue. — Another Old Man.

Asks for Poll

Bruce Hutchison's "Unendurable Vacuum in Policy" in your March 1 issue should be a dire warning to every one of us, including both unions and government.

Canada is now in direct competition with enormously able and vigorous countries, in particular Japan, China and Russia.

Canadian raw materials as well as manufactured goods have to sell in world markets at competitive prices or there will be no work for anyone and certainly no viable Canadian nation.

I believe that the time is ripe for the government to take a trans-Canada poll so that the common sense of the Canadian public may be enlisted to guide them in this time of peril.

This is what "participation" means — the sense of the people can lend guidance and courage for the sake of the country as a whole.

The poll might read:

In view of Canada's present trade position and outlook for the future, do you think the annual demands of organized labor for increased wages and benefits without a fully compensating rise in production

(a. Make common sense?

(b. Help management to provide more jobs?

(c. Are fair to the consuming public who pay the prices?

(d. Are fair to unorganized unemployed and pensioners?

If the answer is "Yes," God help this country and others in the same box.

A resounding "No" would give the government all it needs to govern both the labor unions and the country. — W. R. Madden, 6249 McCleery St., Vancouver 13, B.C.

No Beach

According to an official of the department of transport the removal of the unauthorized rockfill now covering Barnard Beach would detract from the appearance of the apartment being erected there by Diamond Development. The real reason, perhaps, is that such an endeavor could prove to be both expensive and inconvenient. Expensive because of the cost of the actual physical removal of such a substantial quantity of rock, and inconvenient because without this additional land the building would be too big for the lot.

The proposed compromise, a promenade along the seafront leading to the Barnard Estate, is a sorry apology for a beach. One wonders how willing the government would be to compromise with ordinary individuals under similar circumstances.

In view of the fact that Diamond Development has clearly filled in publicly owned property of significant recreational potential, without proper authorization, we suggest that the department of transport fulfil their obligation to the public and have Diamond Development remove the rockfill as soon as possible. — Harry Collie, President, SPEC, Victoria Branch.

The Liberals of Victoria will meet on Monday evening to nominate candidates for the legislature. The convention will be open to all members of the Liberal organization in the city.

This was the decision of the mass meeting of Liberals held in the Liberal rooms, Cormorant street, last evening to hear the delegates who had attended the convention in Vancouver. The gathering was one of the largest held in the rooms, and the utmost enthusiasm was manifested by all.

Gastown Discipline 'Travesty'

THE SUN
An Editorial

So — one lowly policeman has been demoted one grade, or $77 a month's worth, as a result of the police commission inquiry into the force's conduct during the Gastown riot.

That's it. The works. One constable, officially unnamed, bounced from first-class to second-class rating. And that's because the constable, naughty fellow, didn't file the "appropriate reports."

"... I certainly hope this ends the Gastown incident," says Mayor Tom Campbell, chairman of the police commission.

* * *

What a hope! What a police commission chairman! What a police commission! — that can take the indictment of the Dohm investigation, and its own police chief's recommendation for more severe discipline, and fashion from them a travesty such as this.

The reasoning public was not after blood. But it deserved justice, openly arrived at, a clear sign that police are not above the law.

By not expunging the stain of the Gastown riot, the commission has ill-served both the police it is supposed to administer and the public it is supposed to serve.

TOWARD A NEW CONSTITUTION

THE TORONTO STAR
An Editorial

The fact that 20 MPs and 10 senators, representing all parties and drawn from all regions of the country, have reached substantial agreement on the outline of a new constitution is as important as the details of their proposals.

They are demonstrating that there is still a national will to renew the Canadian confederation, a will which overrides partisan and sectional differences.

Four years ago, then prime minister Lester Pearson opened the first federal-provincial conference on reform of the constitution with stirring words which expressed both the seriousness and the optimism of the occasion: "There are times in the life of a country when the assurance of good intentions, the discharge of normal duty and acceptance of routine responsibility, are not enough. What such times demand is the exercise of courage and decision that go far beyond the needs of the moment. I believe that this is such a time for Canada."

Through the following years of tedious negotiation, that brave spirit faltered. The politicians grew weary of the business of rewriting the British North America (BNA) Act. Public interest yawned and turned aside to what seemed more practical matters, such as unemployment, poverty, pollution and foreign ownership, not realizing that the confusion in our consitution, the overlapping of federal and provincial powers, made them all far more difficult to solve.

By last summer, when Quebec rejected the Victoria charter of draft amendments to the BNA Act, the process of negotiations and reform seemed to have come to an end.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau shrugged and foresaw no further talks with the provinces; the provinces shrugged and went about their daily business. The letter of the constitution did not matter that much, after all, said the experts, and perhaps the ills of confederation could be solved by administrative changes.

PEARSON
. . . he started it

Perhaps Trudeau had been too inflexible, perhaps Quebec and other provinces had been too intransigent, perhaps we were all too stuck in our 100-year-old national ways to make the bold changes which were needed to build a new confederation. The national will flickered in fatalism.

Now, from an unexpected quarter, there is a new spark. As it visited 47 cities and heard 1,486 witnesses, the Special Senate-Commons Committee on the Constitution often sounded confused, and there were reports that it would never be able to produce anything approaching a unanimous report. But apparently it has.

Spurred by the Pearsonian awareness that Canada is "in the midst of the most serious crisis in our history," the parliamentarians are producing a blueprint for a new constitution, with only minor reservations dividing the members.

We have, so far, seen only a leaked summary of the report and shall have to wait for the complete version before fully understanding and assessing what is proposed.

However, the committee appears to be suggesting a radical redistribution of powers, and although the members are all federal politicians, they are prepared to transfer a good deal of Ottawa's authority to the provinces.

The essence of the idea is that the provinces would have more control over social policy, ranging from welfare to educational television. This would enable them to fix their own priorities in light of their own stage of cultural and economic development, without interference from Ottawa.

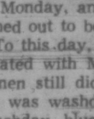
The federal government would seek in return more control over the national economy. It will be a neat trick if the parliamentarians can show us how to do it.

If the provinces are to have more social spending power, and the taxes which must go with it, how can Ottawa retain enough fiscal strength to manage the economy? Are the provinces in fact prepared to surrender any economic control to Ottawa?

We don't know, but at least the parliamentary committee is reopening a vital national debate and making suggestions for breaking the deadlock. Its recommendations will force a response from Trudeau and from Quebec and the other provinces, and may become an issue in the forthcoming national election — if our leaders can be reminded of Pearson's urgent challenge:

"Here the road forks. If we have the resolution and the wisdom to choose now the right course and to follow it steadfastly, I can see few limits to what we may achieve together as a people. But if we lack the courage to choose, or if we choose wrongly, we will leave to our children, and our children's children, a country in fragments, and we ourselves would have become the failures of Confederation."

The End of Blue Mondays?



RUSSELL BAKER

There is a lot of evidence suggesting that the Monday we all grew up with and learned to hate may be on its last legs.

For one thing, people with jobs of routine drudgery are getting in the habit of just not showing up for work on Mondays. The figures on Monday absenteeism in production-line jobs are a sociologist's nightmare.

It is said that automobile executives in Detroit take care when acquiring new cars to get models made in the middle of the week, when there is less likelihood that the pistons will be left out.

People with fancy jobs, of course, have always had a high absentee rate on Monday. Congressmen, for example, stay away from the capital in such multitudes on Mondays that connivers have always found it the best of all days for slipping a piece of dirty business unnoticed through the House of Representatives.

Among the drinking classes, the three-day weekend is an old tradition; and in England, which is years ahead of us in the general distaste for working, the four-day weekend is commonplace.

What is new here is the common working stiff's quiet, unauthorized, yet insistent claim to yet another day of rest. This will doubtless worry those who think the country is bound for perdition, for Monday is the most quintessentially puritan of all days.

The Puritans first tried to seize Sunday, but lost it when King James, in a decree for which every football widow in America may be thankless, declared the Sabbath a fitting day for exercise, games and sport.

In the end the Puritans had to settle for Monday, and a happy settlement it turned out to be.

To this day, the word most often associated with Monday is "blue." When women still did household labor, Monday was washday. They suffered from "washday blues," because laundering — Monday's task — was the deariest, most backbreaking of all the dreary, backbreaking labor that filled the housewife's week.

For men as well, Monday has traditionally been the day for everything unpleasant. A day for putting the nose to the grindstone, for going back to that miserable problem that was left on the floor when the quitting bell rang Friday. One is supposed to think of paying bills, of five full days of honest, hard, dull, drudging work, days that stretch out endlessly through thousands and thousands of hours until the next weekend.

It was — is — very puritan, at least in the sense that Puritanism is understood by those, like President Nixon, who talk about "the puritan ethic" when they exhort us all to take pride and pleasure in toil.

These people who are so fond of "the puritan ethic" are often presidents — of large profitable enterprises, if not of the United States. The toil in which they take pleasure tends to be exciting, fascinating, intellectually challenging, gratifying to the ego and rich in social encounter. The toil of persons who carry bedpans, to cite an occupation that President Nixon has singled out for honorable mention, tends to be less stimulating.

These persons may applaud a rousing speech about "the puritan ethic," but come Monday morning they may also punch the alarm clock and go right back to sleep on the philosophical assumption that you can become bored just as nobly by four days of bedpan-carrying as you can by five.

If you really worry about "the puritan ethic," the country's changing attitudes toward work must be alarming. With the dollar fading and the old Saturday Evening Post dead, what will be left if "blue Monday" becomes part of a three-day weekend?

A three-day weekend? More likely a four-day weekend, because there is also a lot of evidence that Friday too is nearly finished. In Washington, the capital of white-collar labor, it used to be that if you waited until 1 o'clock in the afternoon to go to lunch you could find a ready table in any restaurant downtown, the drones having eaten and gone back to work.

Nowadays, however, on Friday afternoons the restaurants are still packed at 2 and 2:30, with people just rising from the bar to sit down to pizza. Assuming they get back to the office by 3 or 3:30, what can they do in that time besides sober up?

Maybe the three-day work week is a good idea; maybe not. The question may be academic. Without waiting for Congress or commerce to grant it, the American working man, if that term is not an overstatement, seems well on his way to making the three-day week a reality.

Strikes: Public Aroused But Politicians Stymied

By ANTHONY WESTELL

OTTAWA — At the Speaker's reception for the opening of the new session of Parliament, a senior Tory from the Maritimes was speculating — like everyone else crowded around the bars, set up in the cavernous railway committee room — about the coming election. The one campaign he would really fear to fight, he said, was against the government if it decided to do something about strikes. Never, he thought, has the public been more fed up with strikes ond ready to support a government that promises to end them.

Other MP's I have spoken to agree that strikes are potentially the most explosive political issue in Canada today. It is mostly a buried issue for the present because no party knows quite what to say about it.

More Than Share

The damage that strikes do to the economy is often exaggerated, and the fact is that last year was relatively peaceful after a bad spell. The number of man-days lost through strikes and lockouts was about 3 million, compared with 6.5 million in 1970 and 7.7 million in 1969.

There is also the argument that some of the most publicized strikes in the federal service were at least as much the fault of the government's bargainers as of the unions.

But interference with such national services as the post office, air travel and television, causing inconvenience rather than hardship, seem gradually to have built up a head of public irritation — reinforced by the suspicion that union members are grabbing more than their fair share of the wealth. In addition, Canadians have probably shivered through recent weeks in sympathy with Britons suffering the rigors of the coal miners' strike, and they have heard U.S. labor leader George Meany say that strikes are an out-of-date way of settling disputes.

It is easier for the politicians in all parties to sense the angry public mood than to know how best to respond to it. They are small-l liberals, in the main, brought up in the political tradition that unions are good and progressive or at least not to be attacked in public. They accept the right to strike as a basic liberty, and most of them would probably think it hypocritical to pass a special law ordering strikers back to work except where there is clear evidence of damage to the national interest, rather than mere discomfort.

The outgoing federal labor minister, Bryce Mackasey, one of the most popular men ever to hold that difficult post, is more inclined to brag about his success in reducing the number of strikes last year than to worry about the outlook. His labor bill, which is now ready to be reintroduced to Parliament by the new minister, Martin O'Connell, widens rather than curbs the right to strike by permitting unions to reopen contracts when they are threatened by technological change.

The Conservatives had little to say about industrial relations at their recent policy conference, and the New Democrats are wedded to the union cause and dependent on organized labor for political funds.

Special Machinery

Few MPs seem even to remember that the federal Task Force on Labor Relations, in its 1968 report, proposed special machinery for dealing with disputes that threaten the public interest. The idea was to form a special three-member Public Interest Disputes Commission reporting directly to the prime minister and responsible, as a last resort, for recommending when necessary ways to end a work stoppage. These might range from compulsory arbitration to seizing the industry or placing it under trusteeship.

The task force, incidentally, destroyed the popular idea that compulsory arbitration can be forced on workers by law as a general substitute for strike action. It pointed out that in Australia, where arbitration is compulsory, there are normally more strikes and lockouts than in Canada, although they are likely to be of shorter duration.

In Sweden, by contrast, unions very seldom exercise their right to strike because there is a sort of social contract, in which employers share, to settle disputes by negotiation and compromise.

MACKASEY
. . . brags of success

The task force concluded after a lengthy study that collective bargaining, backed by the right to strike and lockout, despite its obvious drawbacks, is still the best way to resolve industrial disputes, and this remains the view of the government and most MPs. There is thus very little chance that any of the parties will try to meet public opinion with proposals for new labor policies before the election, however much they might like to catch a popular tide.

There seems, however, a good chance that the government will seek to exploit the issue from another angle, by proposing wage and price controls. A ceiling on wage increases would probably be very popular with the non-union public and would presumably discourage unionists from going on strike because it would be impossible to win large settlements.

Warning by Bank

Are there grounds for thinking that the government is in fact reconsidering the idea of controls? No activity is visible, but there is circumstantial evidence. The Bank of Canada warned in its January review of persisting inflationary pressure and this concern has recently been reflected in cabinet discussions on economic policy.

Having created unpopular unemployment to fight inflation, and having claimed credit for some success in 1970 and 1971, the government can hardly sit back in this election year, admit defeat, and watch inflation resume unchecked. But what to do?

The cabinet will no doubt receive conflicting advice on what all the statistics mean. Within the totals and averages, in fact, there is some evidence that the rise in labor costs per unit of output is tailing off, although the rate of increase is still high.

But if the new finance minister, John Turner, decides that he must take some action, what remains except controls? The government has tried voluntary restraint and squeezing the economy.

A budget in March or April freezing the economy for 90 days followed immediately by an election in which the government would ask for a mandate to impose guidelines on incomes and prices, might have broad popular appeal, particularly for a government that needs a bold new image.

It would be a campaign, anyway, that my Tory friend would not particularly enjoy fighting.

Tilden car rental rates are lowest of the Big Three, because only Tilden includes gas.

Do it yourself. Fill in the blanks. YOU compare car rental rates in your city on a Chevrolet Impala or other similar car.

Car Rental Companies	One Day	200 miles	Gas (15 m.p.g.)	Cost
Tilden	$14	$28 (14¢ a mile)	NO CHARGE	$42
Company "A"	$	$	Gas charged at local price	$
Company "H"	$	$	Gas charged at local price	$

You will see by the chart above that, compared with other car rental companies in the Big Three, car for car, mile for mile, you save money when you rent from Tilden. Because Tilden is the only rent-a-car company of the Big Three whose car rates include gas.* (Savings are proportionate on lower or higher mileages.)

Gang War Slays Biker

ANAHEIM, Calif. (Reuter) — An uneasy peace reigned between motorcycle gangs in this city 20 miles southeast of Los Angeles Sunday after a spectacular biker funeral Saturday led to 34 arrests.

The gang war has pitted the Hangmen and their allies, the Hessians, Devil's Disciples and Nuggets, against a beachside gang call the Seekers.

More than 200 membtrs of the Hangmen and their girlfriends turned up at a funeral ceremony for murdered Terry Chuck Powell, 24, and more than 100 cyclists dressed in gaudy club outfits roared in a cortege behind Powell's hearse.

Powell was killed two weeks ago when unidentified motorcyclists shot him on an Anaheim street corner, also injuring one of Powell's friends and a 13-year-old boy.

The incidtnt touched off an apparent revenge shooting Friday when 19 bullets were fired into a wooden house, seriously wounding Dennis Decker, 25, a one-time Hells Angel and Hessian who recently affiliated with the Seekers.

HOME OF DISNEYLAND

Police, tipped off about the funeral Saturday, followed groups of bikers as they rode noisily around this city, best known as the site of Disneyland.

The bikers were dispersed each time they attempted to congregate in bars. At one bar, they found the entrance blocked by police with rifles.

The largest number of arrests came at an Anaheim home late Saturday where the bikers held a party. They were ordered out into the streets and told to lie face downwards on the lawn and footpath before being taken off in police wagons.

Altogether, 23 men and 11 women were arrested but five women and six men were later released.

Charges against the others included possession of narcotics, traffic offences and resisting arrest.

Oil Report 'Stupid'

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, interviewed on a Sunday television program, dismissed as "stupid" a government report that said his department is allowing oil exploration in the Northwest Territories to take precedence over the interests of the local inhabitants.

Mr. Chreitien said the matter of resource development in the North must be kept in perspective.

"On Banks Island you have to look at the facts very coolly."

Trappers were preoccupied that oil exploration on the island would disturb their trap lines, he said. "I went there and I discussed ways and means to do both." And a year after oil exploration started, "they had their greatest year ever . . . in trapping.

"It's quite evident that the seismic work didn't hurt the trap lines."

Mr. Chretien was asked if the report, prepared by Dr. Peter Usher, a department official, is "nonsense."

"Yes," he replied, "but I never claim that all the people that work for us are very bright. Sometimes they make mistakes."

Asked if Dr. Usher was "stupid," he said: "His conclusions were, yes."

Con's Kiddies Burn

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Three children of a convict burned to death Sunday in what officials said was an unexplained firebombing of their grandmother's home.

Officials identified the three as Cynthia Warren, 9, and her brother and sister, Lawrence, 8, and Marlene, 7.

They were staying with their grandmother, Ruby Jamison, 62, while their mother, Vickie Warren, had gone to visit the father, Robert, serving a prison term for a cheque fraud conviction.

Later, arson investigators reported finding gasoline spilled in the back yard and said the fire was started by a gasoline bomb.

Jail, Then Marriage For 107-Year-Old

VITORIA, Brazil (CP) — A 107-year-old man has been handed a six-year jail term.

Pedro Pereira da Silva was accused of having a son-in-law killed by hired gunmen. He made headlines last year by disclosing in prison that he was engaged to marry Maria Rosa Moura.

She's a 24-year-old prisoner who had been accused of killing her husband.

His conviction doesn't change the wedding plans. They say they'll marry after he's freed, at the age of 113.

Brazil has lenient legal punishment for those over 70. But in Da Silva's case the prosecution asked for a tough sentence because he was found in perfect physical and mental shape at the age of 104 when he was indicted.

His lawyer plans an appeal for acquittal or a lighter sentence because of his client's age.

Muskie's Use of 'Canuck' Called Insult to French

MANCHESTETR, N.H. — The Union Leader reproduced a letter from a Florida resident in its Saturday edition, contending it showed Senator Edmund Muskie had insulted Franco-Americans by use of the word "Canucks."

The letter said someone at the meeting asked Muskie what he knew about blacks because Maine did not have any. "A man with the senator said: 'No, not blacks, but we have Canocks (sic),' " and when asked what was meant "Mr. Muskie laughed and said, 'Come to New England and see'."

VASSAR, Kan. — Mr. and Mrs. William Henrry Wendland didn't quite hit off when they first met.

Mrs. Wendland says she hit her future husband in the face with a pie "because he was so cantankerous." Mrs. Wendland, 91, and her 94-year-old husband celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary Sunday.

LOS ANGELES—John Ball, 45, left for New York Sunday, hoping to run the 3,000 miles in 55 days.

Ball, a champion South African marathon runner, hitched up his faded red trunks, bounced down the steps of city hall and jogged eastward, planning to arrive in Manhattan before the end of April and break the present record of 64 days for the distance. The slim, greying father of three, a sign painter in Johannesburg, said he has run 10,000 miles in training during the past three years, readying for his assault on the transcontinental record.

DACCA — Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman returned home today from his five-day official visit to the Soviet Union to a typically exuberant welcome from thousands of shouting and shoving Bengalis.

About 10,000 of the sheikh's followers crowded the walls around Dacca's airport and perched on buildings and balconies when the Russian Ilyushin 18 turbojet transport carrying Mujib and his 25-member party landed during the afternoon. The sheikh showed evident annoyance as he was jostled by Bengalis who were trying to deposit garlands of flowers around his neck. He gestured angrily and at one point pushed people from his path when they prevented him from moving forward.

SAN FRANCISCO — Evel Knievel, the daredevil motorcycle stuntman, broke his left ankle after he soared his cycle over a world record 15 cars and then hit a post.

A hospital spokesman said Knievel, 33, was in "very satisfactory condition" after the Friday night accident at the Cow Palace. Knievel was able to address the 10,000 persons in the audience before being carried off in a stretcher. "If someone breaks this indoor record by jumping more than 15 cars, I'll jump 16 or whatever the number — even if it kills me," Knievel told the audience.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Pat Nixon, calling California's capital "the most beautiful in the whole wide wohld," ignored demonstrators shouting obsenities and planted a new blush pink Pat Nixon Camellia in the state capital park Saturday.

Mrs. Nixon, escorted by Gov. Ronald Reagan and his wife Nancy, opened Sacramento's 18th annual camellia festival from the capital steps as about 50 demonstrators, carrying Viet Cong flags and placards, yelled obscenities.

MELBOURNE, Australia — Greek composer Mikis Theodorakis has quit the Communist party and hopes that a new left-wing movement can be created in Greece.

The 47-year-old composer, known especially for his score of the film Zorba the Greek, said Sunday night between concerts he quit the party after 30 years membership. He lives in Paris since his exile in 1970.

JERUSALEM — Alfred Cortinez, identified by police as a Canadian tourist, was jailed for four months and ordered deported Sunday after being convicted of shooting a woman and assaulting a policeman during a shooting incident at a hospital.

Police said Cortinez, 50, sprayed pistol shots around the hospital last month when he was trying to remove his sick child from the hospital because he didn't believe in medicine.

LIMA — Peruvian police are hunting in the jungles here for Nazi war criminal Josef Mengele — the "executioner of Auschwitz" — in connection with the murder of a rich industrialist.

Police sources said Mengele has been wanted since a judge interrogated a number of ex-Nazis a few days ago about the murder of fishing magnate Luis Banchero Rossi.

VALLEJO, Calif. — The FBI reported Saturday a $1-million bomb-extortion plot against Union Oil Co. and the arrest of a 43-year-old man.

Two typewritten letters contained threats to bomb Union Oil's Rodeo refinery, just south of here unless $1 million in cash was delivered, said an FBI agent. Jesse Victor Jackson, 43, was arrested Saturday morning and held for investigation of federal extortion charges, the FBI said.

SYDNEY, Australia — The manager of two U.S. pop groups, 23-year-old Mersin Doko Zagari of San Francisco, was ordered Monday to leave Australia within a week or be given six months hard labor in jail.

Zagari was charged with having two stolen airline tickets in his possession when he arrived at Sydney airport from San Francisco last week. He pleaded guilty.

DETROIT — Jay (Tiny) Smith stands 6-feet-8 and weighs 423 pounds. He has had about 50 wrestling bouts, but he still hasn't pinned Victor.

Victor is a bear that Smith has his matches with at the state fairgrounds here. "I can lift an oil drum . . . but I can't move Victor," Smith said. "No matter how well you plant yourself, when he decides you're going to go, you're going to go."

Cafe Owner Took Shares In Return for a Meal

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Charlie Chow, 86-year-old multi-millionaire recluse and pioneer of this area, died here Saturday.

Mr. Chow, owner of Charlie's Hotel, a land mark on the main street of this Northern Ontario town since 1924, died after a lengthy illness.

He came to Canada in 1900 from Hong Kong. He arrived in Kirkland Lake in 1916 to open a restaurant to feed prospectors and hard rock miners.

Reliable sources put his fortune in cash stocks and bonds at $8 million. His will will be read later this week.

He is survived by a wife, son and six grandchildren.

He started his fortune by accepting mining shares instead of cash from miners for food and drink. Miners at Lake Shore Mine were being paid in shares worth 50 cents at the time, instead of cash.

They would take them to Charlie's Hotel and he would give them food and drink valuing each share at 30 cents.

When the main vein of gold was found by the late Sir Harry Oakes, the shares jumped to $64 each.

Another example of his wealth came to light one day during a heavy snowstorm 15 years ago. The train carrying money for the Royal Bank in Kirkland Lake was delayed because of the storm and hundreds of miners were waiting to be paid.

The bank manager asked Mr. Chow for a short term loan, Charlie obliged by coming up with $250,000 in ones, twos, five and tens from his safe.

BLACK PANTHERS BARRED

SEATTLE (AP) — Twenty persons, some of them believed to be Black Panther party members, left for Hong Kong Sunday. The Panthers' lawyer said they were bound for mainland China.

The group left from Seattle-Tacoma International Airport aboard a Northwest Airlines flight after being refused entry into Canada at Vancouver.

Charles Garry, the Panthers' lawyer in San Francisco, did not identify the members of the group.

Sources in Vancouver said the group included Garry's law partner, Allan Brotsky; Panther justice minister Raymond Hewitt, culture minister Henry Douglas and Dr. Tolbert Small, an Oakland physician whose patients have included Panthers and black militant Angela Davis.

Huey P. Newton, Panther leader and co-founder, visited Peking last October and met Premier Chou En-lai.

The group arrived at Vancouver International Airport on a CP Air flight from San Francisco. They were to change planes at Vancouver and board another CP Air flight to Hong Kong.

Canadian immigration officials said they refused to let half the group into the country, even to change planes, after the members refused to answer questions.

The entire group then left Vancouver after making arrangements to board the flight from Seattle to Hong Kong.

Tories 'Tearing' Country

EDMONTON (CP) — Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson compared Canada today to Nigeria at the time of the Biafra crisis when he said in a Saturday speech to Liberal party fund-drive chairmen that selfish political interests are "fanning the flames of division."

The Conservatives, he said, have resorted to widespread attacks on French-speaking ministers and to criticism of ethnic issues such as replacement of the initials RCMP with the word police on the force's cars and buildings.

While "tearing at the heart and soul of this country, the Conservative party is tearing itself apart as well."

Essay Prizes Offered

The department of travel industry is offering 30 prizes of $100 each to Grade 12 students for essays that might be used as travel stories.

Essays will be assessed on originality of ideas, and should be not more than 1,000 words. The project is open to all Grade 12 pupils in the province's public and private schools. Entries should be sent to Harry P. McKeever, Director-Publicity, 1019 Wharf Street, Victoria, post-marked May 31, 1972, at the latest.

Recreation Minister Ken Kiernan said the prizes will be awarded the winners for new ideas and approaches to the development of attracting tourists to see British Columbia. Freshness, literary ability and knowledge of the province are further factors that will be considered.

"We would also like to think that the prize money will encourage our senior students to attend university next year," the minister said.

The Terms of Reference were stated in a letter from the Prime Minister dated January 10th:

Layoffs Continue Across the Nation

By IRVING C. WHYNOT
The Canadian Press

Layoffs and production cuts continued to add to Canada's jobless totals during February, traditionally one of the worst months for unemployment.

Still to come are a number of major cuts already announced.

A Cross-Country Survey by The Canadian Press shows layoffs—mostly minor—hitting a variety of industries.

Latest unemployment figures, those for January, showed 665,000 without jobs, up 135,000 from December. Unemployment in January was 7.7 per cent of the labor force of 8.58 million.

The first three months of the year normally are the worst for unemployment in Canada. In February of 1971 the unemployment role was 8.1 per cent.

Across the country, this was the picture during February:

ATLANTIC

Fraser Companies Ltd. announced closing of its Atholville, N.B., mill Feb. 27 for inventory adjustment, affecting about 250 men. There was no word on how long the shutdown would last.

About 70 workers were without work for eight days during a partial shutdown at Nova Scotia Forest Industries Ltd., at Point Tupper, N.S. Mill officials said they could not rule out a second shutdown during the first half of the year.

In Halifax, J. K. Bell, secretary-treasurer of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labor, said the worst situation in the province has been on the Halifax waterfront where only about 500 of the city's 2,500 freighthandlers and longshoremen have been getting work.

Still to come is the loss of jobs for almost 200 when a copper mine near Springdale, Nfld., closes June 3.

QUEBEC

About 150 were laid off from Bombardier Ltd. in Valcourt, a snowmobile manufacturer. Company officials said about 80 will be rehired in two or three months.

Production of Renault cars at St. Bruno resumed after being suspended late in January because of a drop in orders from the United States. A company official said 460 of the original 550 workers were back on the job. The others either found other jobs or were laid off.

A union official reported that 75 fitters and linesmen, employed by sub-contractors for Hydro-Quebec, were laid off late in the month for an indefinite period because of lack of contracts.

The Quebec forest products industry, olready hard hit, faces new problems in the near future. About 1,800 workers of Price Co. paper mills in two centres will be laid off for nine days in March. The plants were closed for similar brief periods earlier and the company says the shutdowns likely will be repeated each month until May.

Talks continued, meanwhile, in an effort to avert the planned closing at the end of May of the pulp-dissolving mill of Canadian International Paper Co. Ltd. at Temiscaming. The closing will leave 875 without jobs.

Industry officials told the provincial government that 13 companies last year closed pulp and paper plants for an average of 25 days each, with 9,000 workers affected. They said they did not think 1972 would be much getter.

ONTARIO

About 750 were without work for a week during temporary closing of a Thunder Bay newsprint operation, and International Nickel Co. started layoffs under a previously-announced staff cut in the Sudbury area. The latest cuts followed two earlier reductions and mean a total loss for company employees and others on contract of about 2,750 jobs.

About 170 will lose their jobs when a Domtar paper plant closes in Cornwall late in April; 100 will be without work when Penmans Ltd., manufacturers of knitted goods, closes a hosiery mill in Paris by March 31; and 200 will be jobless when Findlay Foundry Ltd. closes its plant at Carleton Place in the spring.

International Harvester has announced a nine-week closing of its Hamilton plant, affecting 1,400 workers, and Falconbridge Nickel Mines will start curtailing operation in the Sudbury district April 16, affecting 175 employees and another 50 on contract work.

WEST

About 50 were laid off when Dent's Canadian Foods Ltd., a meat-specialty plant, closed in Winnipeg Feb. 9. Seventeen were laid off from the Prince Albert, Sask., pulp mill, and 60 employees of two British Columbia electrical firms were laid off due to lack of orders.

Burns Foods Ltd. announced it will close its Regina slaughtering operation April 28, leaving about 100 employ es out of work.

Officials of Federol Grain Ltd. of Winnipeg said sale of the company's grain assets to the three Prairie wheat pools likely will mean about half of 1,420 employees will be laid off.

Geographers To Hold Meet

Malaspina College will play host to the Canadian Association of Geographers, western division, on Saturday and Sunday.

It will be the first time the association has held its annual conference in a college, rather than a university.

Paper sessions will take place Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4 p.m. with the annual general meeting being held from 4 to 6 p.m.

The annual dinner will take place at the Nanaimo Fish and Game Club at 7 p.m. on Saturday. Speaker will be T. C. Douglas (NDP — Nanaimo-The Islands) and his subject will be The Problem of Foreign Ownership of Canadian Industry.

One of the events will be a steelhead fishing party arranged for dawn Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Forrester, geography instructor at Malaspina is co-ordinating arrangements for the meetings.

Hearings Resume

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Mediation Commission hearings in a contract dispute between the Hospital Employees Union and the B.C. Hospitals Association reopens here Tuesday. Commission chairman John Parker said Sunday he hopes settlement can be reached within 10 days.

Daughter Took Father's Boodle

NANAIMO (CP) — A 92-year-old man has won the return of more than $20,000 from his eldest daughter, plust interest at 4.5 per cent.

Mr. Justice Tom Berger issued a court order Friday setting aside the transfer of assets of Edward Morgan Taylor, formerly of New Westminster, to Mrs. Dorothy M. Whistle of Salmon Arm, B.C. He also directed that interest of 4.5 per cent be calculated for each of the five transactions, dating from February to June, 1968.

Berger held that Mrs. Whistle exercised undue influence on her father in the transactions. Taylor now is in a nursing home in Nanaimo.

Berger said he was not convinced by the woman's testimony that her father had made the transfer of assets freely. He noted that a $1,000 deposit had been made on a Dairy Queen operation in Salmon Arm and $25,000 towards a Burger King franchise.

Board Faces Teacher Cut

LADYSMITH — The school board here may have to cut 11 teachers in the fall and reduce its bus service if Ladysmith, Chemainus and rural taxpayers turn down a $94,653 operating referendum on March 18.

R. W. Ovenden, board secretary-treasurer, said today these are the alternatives if taxpayers don't go for the 3½ mill increase.

LEFT TO PARENTS

The total operating section of the budget for the Ladysmith school district, including the proposed referendum, is $2,013,192. Last year's budget total was was $1,815,217. The $94,653 referendum is for the amount this year's budget is over 110 per cent allowed by the Department of Education.

Trustees maintain that the referendum must be passed if the district is to maintain the quality of education it wants.

If bus service is cut back to the walk limits set by the department of education, parents will have to be responsible for their children's safety on the highway, Ovenden pointed out. Currently the school board looks after this area.

Trustee Beafty Davis said Ladysmith school board is considering amalgamation with the nearby district — Duncan and Nanaimo.

"We feel that the way the budget is going the quality of education is going to deteriorate as money decreases," he said.

Another trustee said certain sections of the budget can't be pared much finer than they are now without substantial reductions in service.

Plane, Home Destroyed By Fires

LADYSMITH — Two separate fires over the weekend destroyed a Nanaimo resident's aircraft here and a Ladysmith family's home.

Early this morning the Sea-Bee aircraft, valued at $8,000, belonging to Norman Webster of Nanaimo was destroyed by fire while it was sitting on the Cassidy airport field, about six miles north of Ladysmith. The North Oyster fire department attended.

The Fernand Charette family, of French Street, returned home Friday evening after visiting to find their home gutted by fire. Charette is a millwright at a Nanaimo sawmill. Ladysmith fire department attended.

Causes of both fires was unknown.

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures advanced nearly 4 cents early on the Board of Trade but some of the gain was trimmed in the closing minutes under profit taking.

Soybean oil advanced 25 points but this was cut, while soybean meal closed 50 cents a ton higher.

The buying in the soybean pit turned strong after an irregular opening.

Commercial selling was light in wheat, corn and oats. After it had been absorbed, new buying entered the three pits.

AB KENT – EDITOR

Gannett

The Gannett Co. has reached agreement in principle to purchase the El Paso, Tex. Times for $20 million in Gannett stock.

Purchase is subject to approval by the directors of both companies and a definitive agreement.

Gannett owns 53 newspapers, plus broadcast and newsprint interests in the U.S., Canada and Guam.

The company bought the Nashville, Tenn., Banner earlier this year after acquiring 17 daily newspapers in 1971.

GPI

Addition of $1.1 million to the working capital of Great Pacific Industries Ltd. results from the sale last week of its Doric Howe Motor Hotel property in Vancouver for $1.6 million.

Other areas with growth potential will be given attention, GPI said.

Purchaser of the hotel is a group of Vancouver businessmen headed by hotelman Ernie Tretch.

Traders

Better trust business by its associate Guaranty Trust Co. of Canada and significant improvement in its insurance operations gave Traders Group Ltd. $14 million ($1.50 a share) earnings in 1971, including $7 million in extraordinary income.

The previous year earnings were $4.58 million ($1.03), with no extraordinary income.

Before the extra item, net profit was reckoned at $7.9 million ($5.77 million), from which there was further reduction both years for interest and preferred share dividends.

Total consolidated income last year was $106.36 million compared with $99.75 million.

Rapid Data

Sales of $5.49 million were more than double the total of a year earlier, reports Rapid Data Systems and Equipment Ltd. for the six months ended Dec. 31.

In 1970 the company had $2.2 million in sales but ended the period with a net loss of $77,634.

In the last six months net earnings totalled $294,532 and working capital amounted to $2.8 million, up $1.76 million from that time a year earlier.

Chapparal

An issue of 25,000 shares in Chapparal Mines Ltd. has secured the Vancouver company a 12½ per cent net interest in three sections of land in the Medicine Hat gas field.

A well on the acreage indicates possible gas in three zones.

Chapparal also must pay 25 per cent of the cost of bringing the well to production.

Results of tests on three previously-drilled wells in the same area are expected next week.

IUC

Income rose 37 per cent to $50 million ($3.28 a share) last year on an 11 per cent rise in sales and revenue to $1.1 billion, reports International Utilities Corp.

In 1970 the conglomerate earned $36.4 million ($2.39) on gross income of $998 million (restated).

Fourth quarter earnings were $13.2 million (87 cents) compared with $10.9 million (73 cents) on sales of $295.5 million and $259.5 million, respectively.

Neonex

A new plant fot the manufacture of holiday trailers will be put into operation by Neonex International Ltd. at McMinville, Ore., the company's first U.S. venture.

California and the northwestern market for trailers will be served by the facility, with 50,000 square feet of factory floor 35 miles from Portland.

Neonex has four Canadian trailer plants.

Maher

Unaudited net earnings of Maher Shoes Ltd. for the year to Jan. 31 went from $571,199 ($2.37 a share) to $662,773 ($2.70) on a sales increase of 9.1 per cent to $17.59 million.

The company's fiscal year was changed from Jan. 31 to Dec. 31, effective last year, which will be reflected in a subsequent report.

N. Can. Oils

North Canadian Oils Ltd. increased its net income during 1971 by 25 per cent to $1.8 million (30 cents a share).

In 1970, the company earned $1.44 million (24 cents).

Gross income was up to $5 million from $4.6 million.

The increases were attributed to higher natural gas and oil production along with price rises.

Husky

Three recent financial transactions have placed Husky Oil Ltd. in a stronger position to follow active exploration and production programs and to upgrade operations, reports president Glenn E. Neilson.

In a letter to shareholders, he detailed the sale of Husky's 55 per cent interest in Empire State Oil Co. for $25.77 million, the U.S. offering of $25 million in debentures and the Canadian offering of $15 million in debentures, both of which are convertible of bear warrants.

Funds were used to virtually cancel short term debt and reduce long-term borrowings.

NW Sports

Gross revenue jumped $493,000 to $2.52 million in the six months ended Dec. 31, reports Canuck hockey team owner Northwest Sports Enterprises Ltd.

The company and its subsideries showed net income of $305,900 compared with $221,000 or 29.38 cents a share against 26.58 cents, fully diluted.

Expenses rose from $1.5 million to $1.77 million, while working capital fell from $1 million to $26,800 by the end of the year.

Slater

Both divisions contributed to higher sales and earnings of Slater Steel Industries Ltd. for the three months to Jan. 31.

Net sales totalled $7.88 million up from $6.7 million, while net income amounted to $481,685 (14 cents a share) compared with $332,900 (nine cents) a year ago.

The company does not expect the rising trend of the first quarter to extend through the remaining nine months of 1972.

PARENT FIRMS BUYING SUBSIDIARY STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The monthly report of the Ontario Securities Commission indicates United States parent corporations were active during January in buying shares of their subsidiaries.

In the report the commission said Standard Oil Co. New Jersey of New York bought 40,600 shares of Imperial Oil Ltd. of Toronto to hold 90,100,580 of about 129 million issued shares.

Other major insider transactions reported in the publication were:

—Ford Motor Co. of Detroit bought 141,510 shares of Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., Oakville, giving the U.S. company 7,281,100 shares of the 8,294,800 issued;

—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, bought 655 common shares of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada Ltd., Toronto, to hold 215,233 of the 257,260 issued.

Peat Moss Used To Absorb Mercury

MONTREAL (CP) — Researchers at the University of Sherbrooke said they have developed a water treatment procss to remove mercury and other metal pollutants from industrial waste at one-tenth the cost of existing methods.

Chemist Jean-Marc Lalancette and Bernard Coupal, a chemical engineer, told a news conference the process — in which peat moss is used to absorb the metal—removes more than 99 per cent of mercury from industrial effluents.

It permits cheap recovery of the mercury and also produses usable byproducts, said Lalancette, a chemistry professor at the university.

Lalancette, 37, said a prototype of the system is to be completed later this month. The process should be ready for application to industry later in the year.

The two-stage process calls for the absorption of the mercury into peat and burning of the peat to extract the metal.

The mercury is absorbed with the help of agents such as sodium sulphide which converts the mercury into mercuric sulphide.

The mercury content of the waste water can be reduced from five per cent to a negligible one part per billion. Lalancette said he developed the use of peat as a mercury absorption material in 1971.

JOINT EFFORT

He then joined forces with Coupal, 38, professor of chemical engineering who holds a doctorate from the University of Florida.

Copper, cadmium and other metals with toxic properties can also be removed from waste water using the peat-absorption method.

After the burning step, mercury vapors and sulphur dioxide are eliminated in a scrubbing tower of limestone and sulphur.

The scrubbing process produces non-polluting carbon dioxide and byproduct, calcium sulphite, a chemical used by the paper industry in the conversion of pulp into paper.

Cominco Hikes Price for Zinc

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cominco Ltd. announced its base selling price for zinc will be increased by one cent to 18 cents a pound, effective today.

The company said the new price, applying to sales in Canada exports to the United States and reflects tightening supply, higher prices in markets outside of North America and strong demand for zinc in all world markets.

Revolution Still Goal, But Panthers Alter Aim

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — It's not the same as beating swords into plowshares, but there are signs that the Black Panther party is keeping its promise to roll back its militaristic profile.

"We've rejected the rhetoric of the gun; it got about 40 of us killed and sent hundreds of us to prison," says co-founder Huey Newton. "Our goal now is to organize the black community politically . . ."

That sounds like a big switch for the six-year-old organization that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called the "greatest internal threat to the security of the country" a little more than a year ago.

But for all their efforts to build a new image, the Panthers take pains to make it clear that they still believe that the solution to black problems in the United States lies ultimately in armed revolution.

BELIEVES IN ARMS

The Panthers' community service programs are aimed at winning a broad base of support within the ghettoes.

In a recent magazine interview, Newton put it this way:

"Armed struggle is my belief and always will be. We have to get it to that point! We're building and organizing an army to finally get people to the point where we'll fight, because we believe that the only way we will resolve the final contradition is through armed struggle."

The Panthers old image of leather jackets and guns helped make "right on" and "off the pigs" and "power to the people" popular phrases in American street culture, and in doing so "almost destroyed the party," Newton has said.

Panther leadership was particularly hard hit. Newton spent two years in prison and went through three trials before charges that he murdered a policeman in 1968 were dismissed.

MOST WERE JAILED

Eldridge Cleaver fled to Algeria to escape arrest. Subsequently, Cleaver broke with Newton on the change in policy, continuing to insist on armed revolution now, and was expelled from the party.

Chairman Bobby Seale, Chief of State David Hillard and almost all the leaders of major Panther chapters have spent considerable time in jail.

"When I got out of jail in 1970, we couldn't even call a rally where one-third of the people who showed up were blacks. Ninety-nine per cent of the rallies were attended by white radicals."

Now, with money and manpower depleted, the Panthers are moving into bread-and-butter programs for feeding the hungry, clothing the poor, tending the sick, and forcing businesses that thrive on black trade to turn some of their profits back into the community.

A potentially greater problem for the Panthers than their lack of money is the depletion of their ranks. While the Party has never released membership figures, government reports from the House Internal Security Subcommittee and the FBI placed membership at its maximum of 1,500 to 2,000 in 1968, and only 1,000 in 1971.

Scientists Study Arctic's Cycle

WINNIPEG (CP) — Scientists from the University of Manitoba are studying the complete cycle of life in an area of the high Arctic as part of a world-wide project aimed at taking stock of man's resources and putting them to the best possible use.

Dr. W. O. Pruitt, a professor of zoology at the University of Manitoba, says the aim of the study is to take an inventory of the world's resources on an energy basis.

For its part, the Manitoba research team is concentrating on the hunting patterns of Eskimos and the eating habits of foxes, weasels, wolves, polar bears and musk ox in the area around Devon and Bathurst islands, about 1,800 miles north of Winnipeg.

When the study is finishsd, probably sometime in 1973, the information will be fed to computers at the London, England, headquarters of the International Biological Program.

The Manitoba team is headed by Dr. Roderick Riewe, a post-doctoral fellow with the zoology department who spent eight months in the Arctic last year, trapping four arctic foxes in the process.

STUDIES EATING HABITS

The foxes now are housed at the Manitoba experimental fur farm, where their eating habits are being given closer scrutiny. "The tests will tell us the number of calories a fox must have to survive," says Dr. Riewe.

He plans to return to Devon Island with the foxes next spring for further studies.

In essence his study of foxes and other animals examines how energy comes from the sun and how it is then parcelled out to plants, plant-eating animals and carnivores, or meat-eaters. It also takes into account what amounts of energy the animals replace through waste materials and eventual decomposition of their own bodies.

Dr. Riewe has taken a close look at how the Eskimo population affects the environment through hunting, spending four months last year with the Eskimo population of Grise Fiord on Ellesmere Island, the most northern settlement in North America.

He travelled some 2,200 miles by sled and power toboggan on hunting trips with the natives and discovered that although the community of 80 persons is almost solely dependent on seal herds for food, they do not seem to be threatening the species.

However, his studies have also shown that caribou herds are becoming depleted in the area. Hunters once could get all the caribou they needed within a few miles of the village but now have to travel 150 to 300 miles.

Bars Shut Down

SAIGON (Reuter) — The mayor of Saigon has ordered all bars in downtown Saigon and nearby Cholon closed on instructions from South Vietnam's president, Nguyen Van Thieu. The owners of more than 100 bars are being given four months to move their premises away from the city centre to sites on the outskirts near the large U.S. and South Vietnamese base of Tan Son Nhut.

Hijackings May Rise

GENEVA (AP) — The International Air Transport Association said today it has warned its 120 member airlines that more hijackings may happen, following last month's pirating of a Lufthansa airliner in Aden.

An IATA spokesman said the organization's Geneva headquarters sent a message last week to airline presidents "giving certain information and including certain warnings," but declined to elaborate.

He said IATA receives information regularly from the individual airlines and passes this on to all other members through a special committee acting as a security news distribution centre.

In the Aden hijacking, all passengers and crew were eventually released but Lufthansa had to pay a $5 million ransom for the plane.

Three Recaptured

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three of six men who escaped from the Bird's Hill Rehabilitation Centre at knifepoint early Sunday have surrendered voluntarily to police authorities.

GRANT MONEY FOR AGITATION

HAMILTON (CP) — A high school dropout who received $40,000 from the federal Local Initiatives Program says he will use the money to produce "agitational propaganda" in the form of two pro-Communist plays for high school students and other audiences.

Rod Stewart, 24, of nearby Dundas said in an interview his Scene After Scene Free Theatre, for which he has hired 17 persons, will present two plays by Bertold Brecht, the German Communist playwright.

He said the first play, The Exception to the Rule, has 39 bookings in schools, libraries, union halls and church basements.

"It's not my intention to tell people to smash the state," he said "That's not what I'm into. I'm not trying to get these kids to tear down their schools or throw out their principals."

He said the play, The Exception, says: "Where you recognize an abuse, find a solution. To some people it will be obvious — that the solution will be other than through the courts."

Antiques Soar As Blue-Chip Buy

By MILES A. SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — The bull market in American art and antiques, which has accelerated swiftly during the last 10 years, is headed even higher. One forecast is for a $1-million price tag on an outstanding American painting within two years.

As an investment, say the experts, art and antiques of the 18th through the early 20th century are a better growth stock than many of Wall Street's pet glamor issues, provided the works are of blue-chip quality and condition.

A growing number of collectors, greater scholarly attention and an increasing number of museum exhibitions have played a part in the upswing. Art dealers say that once such a trend gets under way there is a built-in fever factor—the investor's desire to get in on a good thing.

"Within two years we'll see the first American picture to break a million," says Lawrence Fleischman, a former Detroit collector who now is a partner in New York's Kennedy Galleries, specialists in the American field.

"John Singleton Copley, Thomas Eakins and Winslow Homer will be the first painters through the $1-million mark and they probably will be followed by Charles Willson Peale."

FIGURES NOT DISCLOSED

Not every dealer would be as bullish as Fleischman, but some of them have noted that once the works of an acknowledged master get past the quarter-million level they often escalate sharply to high figures.

The highest prices usually result from private transactions between dealers and collectors, or museums. There are no announcements of the money involved, and usually only a few insiders kow the figures.

The sharpness of the market's rise is impressive. About eight or 10 years ago a fine landscape by 19th-century artist Thomas Cole would have cost the buyer about $35,000. Now the estimate is more than $100,000.

What has happened in American art also has happened in the best grades of American astiques.

PRICE SOARED

About 10 years ago a John Goddard bonnet-top highboy sold privately for $34,000, and when it went on the auction block last May at Parke-Bernet there was speculation whether it would double that amount. It set an auction record for a piece of American furniture at $102,000.

One factor cited by dealers for the price surge is economic. The French School—Impressionist, Post-Impressionist and Modern—seems in many cases to have priced itself out of the market, "and who wants to buy at the top?" So buyers look around for a school that is on its way to the top.

Then there is the factor—scarcely tangible, perhaps psychmlogical—of a "return to the past," to "the good old days." It seems to be partly nostalgia, partly a fondness for a quieter life style and partly an intuitive need to recognize a heritage.

the prairies

NO FARM PROTECTION, BLAKENEY CHARGES

REGINA (CP) — The federal government traditionally has exercised its powers in agricultural policy to maintain a cheap food supply for consumers and has not protected the producers, Premier Allan Blakeney said during the weekend.

He told a meeting of the Saskatchewan Young New Democrats, the New Democratic Party's youth movement, they should work toward bringing in a solid provincial slate of NDP candidates in the next federal election.

If Otto Lang, the province's only Liberal MP, were defeated, he said, it would force the federal government to take more notice of the province and make more concessions to the Saskatchewan farmer.

Both federal and provincial governments have jurisdiction over agricultural areas, the premier said, with matters of marketing, transportation, export and price control exclusively in federal hands.

"Any radical change in the present structure is obviously beyond the provincial and economic powers of the province," Blakeney said. However, the provincial government is trying to encourage and expand grain, dairy and livestock production in Saskatchewan.

'Control Lost'

CALGARY (CP) — Robert Stanfield has lost control of the federal Progressive Conservative party and groups within the organization are resorting to anti-French bigotry for political gain, Minister of State Pat Mahoney said here.

"The so-called official opposition is not a national party and has no chance of forming a government," Mahoney said after he was renominated as Liberal candidate in Calgary South for the next election.

Council Formed

SASKATOON (CP) — A prairie rapeseed council was formed at a weekend meeting of representatives of rapeseed growers associations from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

It will consist of the president and vice-president of each of the three prairie organizations.

Don Valleau of Aylsham, Sask., president of the Saskatchewan association and chairman of the weekend conference, said the council will greatly improve co-ordination among the prairie associations while presenting a more effective voice on matters of mutual interest.

Submission Rejected

WINNIPEG (CP) — Donald Wayne Zawacky, 20, of Dauphin, Man. (was sentenced in magistrate's court to nine months in jail after he pleaded guilty to unlawful possession of explosives.

Zawacky was arrested after four sticks of dynamite were left in a washroom at Winnipeg International Airport last November. Chief Magistrate Harold Gyles told the court he could not accept Zawacky's submission on why he left the dynamite at the airport.

Restraint Urged

CALGARY (CP) — Seismic crews have been asked by the provincial government to consider limiting their exploration work in the foothills to the winter months to minimize land disturbance.

The request was made this week by officials of the lands and forests department at a meeting with operators, including 40 members of the Canadian Petroleum Association geophysical committee.

Dirty Gimmick

EDMONTON (CP) — Psst. Wanna buy some dirty river?

The Alberta Fish and Game Association has come up with the sales gimmick, to finance a two-year, $50,000 study of pollution in the North Saskatchewan River.

The association is selling the river from its headwaters at Rocky Mountain House to the Saskatchewan border for $50 a mile. Each buyer will receive a certificate showing his contribution although it won't show ownership because rivers canot be sold.

Reason Demanded

EDMONTON (CP) — Dave foreman of Edmonton said Saturday he wants to know why he was fired by the department of culture, youth and recreation.

Foreman said in an interview that he met Friday with department officials, including Deputy Minister C. L. Usher, in an effort to determine the reasons for his dismissal as a project development officer. He said "only vague reasons about me being unco-operative were thrown around the table, but they couldn't even tell me what unco-operative meant."

Ruth League Adds Weight

NORTH VANCOUVER — Babe Ruth baseball in British Columbia more than doubled in size Sunday when the B.C. juvenile baseball organization amalgamated with the Babe Ruthers.

Two juvenile representatives — Bill Wocknitz of Nanaimo and Daryl Martin of Delta — and two from the Babe Ruth League — Peter Holmes of Victoria and Roy Collings of Coquitlam — were appointed to work out details of the merger.

Juvenile baseball, formerly the Connie Mack League, was for boys in the 16-to-19-years age group.

There were 35 Babe Ruth 16-18 teams operating last season and the amalgamation is expected to result in at least 70 teams this year.

Ross Scott of North Vancouver was elected commissioner of the expanded league, and Ted Church of Ladysmith was named director of the Babe Ruth 13-15 division.

Bill Daniels of Victoria was named chairman for B.C. Babe Ruth baseball, and Al Health of North Vancouver was named section commissioner for Babe Ruth baseball in the northwest region, which includes B.C. Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Alaska and Japan.

MOSHER SPARKS WIN IN BANTAM TOURNEY

CUMBERLAND — Doug Mosher scored 23 points in the final game Saturday to spark Lansdowne of Victoria to a 78-26 triumph over Saanich Peninsulas in the final game of the Vancouver Island bantam boys' basketball playoff.

Mosher, who notched 58 points as Lansdowne romped to the title with three straight victories, was selected to the tourney's first all-star team along with clubmates John McNaman and Ben Shotten. Rounding out the all-star squad were Larry Stanfield of Saanich and Pete O'Brennan of Sayward."

Lansdowne, which advances to the provincial tournament at Salmon Arm, March 17 and 18, trimmed Peninsulas 61-33 and bounced Sayward 56-22 in earlier games of the double-loss elimination event.

Saanich reached the final by nipping Sayward 36-33.

Lansdowne Girls Triumph

Favored Lansdowne cruised to a pair of convincing victories Saturday to capture a second successive championship in the Vancouver Island junior high school girls' basketball tournament.

Playing on their home court, the Lansdowne girls got a 14-point performance from Linda Saunders as they trimmed Campbell River 40-20 in the title game after holding a 20-10 lead at half time.

Earlier Saturday, Debbie Donaldson and Shelley Godfrey fired 13 and 10 points to pave the way for a 42-25 Lansdowne triumph over Dunsmuir in the semi-final round.

Theresa Marcin tossed in 15 points as Campbell River topped Mount Prevost of Duncan 34-28 in the other semi-final contest. Cathy Stavrakov notched 17 points for the Duncan school.

Mount Prevost took third place by winning a 35-33 thriller against Dunsmuir, which would up in the fifth spot. Cedar Hill tripped Woodlands of Nanaimo 38-25 to finish fifth.

In morning games, Woodlands, the sixth-place finisher, edged Cedar 24-22 in an all-Nanaimo duel, and Cedar Hill shaded Colquitz 26-24.

Sailing Victory

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Sorcery, a 61-foot Canadian-built sloop owned and sailed by James Baldwin of Locust Valley, N.Y., crossed the finish line first in the 184-mile Miami-to-Nassau yacht race.

Sangster Swim Squad Retains Times Trophy

For the second successive year, Sangster holds the team championship from the annual Victoria elementary schools age-group swimming meet.

Sangster compiled 271 points, 35 points more than second-place Glen Lake, in the 26-school meet before more than 1,000 spectators Saturday night at Crystal Pool.

Sangster received the Times Trophy as aggregate winner and also captured the Hibberson Trophies for winning the boys' and girls' freestyle relays.

St. Michael's University School took the private schools' trophy and Glen Lake won the Archie McKinnon Trophy as the novice aggregate leader.

Barb Packford of View Royal was the only triple winner, taking the 50-metres freestyle, backstroke and breastroke events in the novice class for 11 and 12-year-olds.

Several competitors were double winners.

Ted Packford of View Royal won the backstroke and butterfly in the club events for nine and 10-year-olds; and Nicky Borrelly of Richmond took the backstroke anl breastroke in the 11-and-12 club events.

Girls' double winners were Carey Bushfield of Willows (backstroke and butterfly) in the 11-and-12 club events, Laurie Wells of Glen Lake (freestyle and backstroke) in the nine-and-10 novice events, and Ellen Raap of Campus View (breastroke and butterfly) for 9-and-10 club events.

STOP THIEF!

That could be what Oak Bay's Dave Anderson is shouting as he vainly pursues Belmont's Jack Munsch, who cradles ball for layup shot after breakaway dash in Vancouver Island high school basketball final Saturday night. Oak Bay players did most of chasing in second half as Braves broke loose for 52-39 triumph and Belmont's first-ever crown in annual Island tourney. Both clubs will compete in B.C. tournament in Vancouver later this month. Victoria High earned third Island berth in provincial meet. (John McKay Photo.)

Braves Bounce Bays In Island Hoop Final

By JACK KEATING
Times Staff

There must be some disadvantages to being tall.

But neither Belmont Braves nor Oak Bay Bays could name one handicap on Saturday night.

The advantages, though, were quite evident as the Braves dumped the Bays 52-39 to win the 22nd annual Vancouver Island senior high school boys' basketball crown before about 1,000 fans who squeezed into the University of Victoria gym.

It was Belmont's first Island title and earns the number one Island berth in the B.C. tournament March 15-18 in Vancouver.

"We worked so hard to keep them off the boards in the first half and we got tired out," offered Bays' coach Don Harwood later.

He was referring to the difficult task of containing Belmont's towering six-six centre Lee Edmondson, who despite being double-teamed by the bays 1-2-2 defence managed to gobble up 24 rebounds and score 14 points.

The chore was handled by Chris Trumpy and Mark Anderson, who give way five and six inches, respectively, but still collected 17 rebounds between them.

The checking strategy worked in the first half. While Edmondson managed just one basket on five shots, the Bays were gunning from outside.

Mark Campbell swished four out of four and Dave Anderson made good on four of five shots to give the Bays a 23-22 edge at the half.

But Edmondson's double coverage opened up the outside and the Braves' 17-year-old forward John Hunter met the challenge. The six-one senior potted 15 points as the game's top scorer. Jim Merz threw in 10 points.

"When they were covering on Lee it left me open," explained Hunter.

Edmondson finally broke loose to sink three baskets in the third quarter and the Braves entered the final frame with a six-point margin, 37-31.

"It's not over yet — it's just starting now," said Harwood, whose Bays have qualified as the number two Island team in the provincials.

South Island teams snapped up all three berths when Victoria Totems took the third spot. Kevin Townsend rifled in 16 points to spark the Totems to a 50-46 upset over Reynolds Roadrunners in the consolation final.

Mike Finlayson scored 18 points for the Runners, who led 37-33 going into the fourth quarer.

Courtenay slammed Nanaimo 63-40 to finish fourth.

BELMONT (52) — Garry Davidson 2, Jim Kupiak 7, Dan Salmons, Ken Lidstone, John Hunter 15, Clive Haas, Scott Allen, Jack Munch 4, Jim Merz 10, Rich Denman, Lee Edmondson 14.

OAK BAY (39) — Chris Trumpy 3, Mark Anderson 7, Mark Campbell 11, Grant Boland 8, Dave Anderson 10, John Burrows, Thad Newman, Kane Straith, Ed Forbes, Mal McConechy, Brian Sutherland-Brown.

VIC HIGH (50) — Kevin Townsend 16, Steve Rothwell 13, John Hampton 12, Sean Flynn 4, Jim Griffin 3, Vanni Barbon 2, John Lynch, Tony Flynn, Doug Irving, Nick Schulleri.

REYNOLDS (46) — Mike Finlayson 18, Dan Ireland 11, Brian Montgomery 8, Leon Mitchell 8, John Speller 3, Rich Jones, Terry Bains, Tom Jones, Barry Scroggs, Doug Klingspohn.

THREE BRAVES, TWO BAYS ON FIRST ALL-STAR TEAM

Lee Edmondson, who sparked Belmont Braves to their first-ever Vancouver Island senior high school boys' basketball championship Saturday, was selected as the winner of the Times Trophy as the outstanding player in the 22nd annual Island tournament.

Edmondson, who received his trophy from deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace at the conclusion of the tourney at the University of Victoria, scored 56 points in three games, including 14 in the final, and hauled down dozens of rebounds.

He was joined on the first all-star squad by clubmates Jim Kupiak and John Hunter. Edmondson and Kupiak were also selected to the squad last year.

. . . outstanding player

Completing the first all-star selections were Oak Bay stars Grant Boland and Mark Campbell.

Members of both the first and second all-star teams received trophies presented by the Victoria Times.

Mike Finlayson and Dan Ireland of Reynolds, Kevin Townsend of Vic High, Mark Anderson of Oak Bay and Scott Littlejohn of Nanaimo were named to the second all-star team by a five-man selection committee.

Steve Rothwell of Vic High and Mike Smith and Wolf Ilmer of Courtenay drew honorable mention.

Nanaimo Hubsters was chosen the most sportsmanlike team.

Curling Final 'Horse Race' Duguid Favors West Rinks

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Canadian curling championship shapes up today a little like the Newfoundland weather: unpredictable.

"The Brier will be a horse race," says a man who should know, Don Duguid of Winnipeg, twice winner of the world and Canadian titles. "Everyone is looking around to find the team to beat, but nobody knows yet.

"Experience is a big factor."

And experience is the one thing lacking in the 1972 championship. Only eight of the 44 curlers competing, including two skips, have played in the national final before.

The two skips who know what it's about are Bill Kent of Montreal, making his third trip to the final, and Kip Ready of Charlottetown, back for the second consecutive year.

"I have to rate Manitoba, British Columbia and Alberta as the teams to beat," Duguid says.

"The Big 'O,' Orest Meleschuk, won the Manitoba title this year by beating my old rink and he'll be heard from.

"Bernie Sparkes curled with Ron Northcott of Calgary before winning B.C. and he knows what the Brier is like. And Alberta is always tough."

B.C. was to play Northern Ontario and Prince Edward Island in today's two draws.

TRAVEL TROUBLES

The championship had trouble getting off the ground Sunday as freezing rain, fog and snow delayed flights and the curlers' arrivals.

The western rinks made it to about 1,800 feet above St. John's airport Friday night, but a radar equipment failure forced them back to Toronto.

Eldon Coombe and his Ottawa crew were diverted to Gander Saturday and arrived by bus Sunday at 2 a.m. Barry Shearer of Halifax was the last rink to arrive — at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The lucky rink was Ready and his Islanders. They landed at Gander Friday afternoon and took a bus to St. John's that night. The early arrival gave Ready the opportunity for the quote of the day:

"For a while, it looked like we were going to win this thing by default."

B.C. WRESTLING BERTHS FOR HRYB, SOUTHWELL

NEW WESTMINSTER — Mike Southwell and Taras Hryb of Victoria topped their weight divisions Saturday at the B.C. Olympic wrestling trials and gained places on the B.C. team in the Canadian championships.

The 30-man provincial team will compete at the national final March 17-19 at St. John's, Nfld. The Canadian Olympic team for Munich will be selected from the national meet.

Southwell, 21, competing for the Victoria "Y," won the 123½-pound class and Hryb, now a student at Simon Fraser University, took the 180½-pound division.

Ed Ashmore, wrestling coach at Victoria's S. J. Willis Junior High School, will referee at the Canadian championships.

Dowling Takes Crown

SAN FRANCISCO — Victoria's John Dowling captured the "B" class title in the Pacific Coast squash championships here Sunday with a 3-2 win over Jim Bradley of Seattle.

Dowling, an "A" class player, although still a junior, was entered in the "B" competition because he started the season in that class. The Victorian advanced to the final with an easy 3-0 victory over Jim Proctor of Seattle in the semi-finals.

Two other Victoria players entered — Doug Hawkes and Stan Heard — lost out in the "B" Vet quarter-finals.

Mike Dessaulniers emerged as the only other Canadian winner by beating Ken Mackenrot 3-1 in the all-Vancouver "C" final.

Alec Eichman of San Francisco won the "A" title with a 3-0 win over Steve Gurney of Los Angeles while Don Stove of the University of Berkley captured the "D" crown with a 3-1 decision over Alan Dinner of San Francisco.

Pre-Deadline Deals Help Blues, Penguins

By CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Sabres were mathematically eliminated from the National Hockey League's East Division playoffs Sunday night, leaving in their wake some hastily-approved trades that may help unscramble the West Division post-season snarl.

The Sabres, whose playoff hopes have been dwindling steadily since the season opener, made it final with a 6-2 loss to St. Louis, then completed a deal that could give the Blues more depth along the blueline in their late-season drive.

Defenceman Chris Evans, drafted from St. Louis in June, 1970, by the Sabres, returned to the Blues in a straight player exchange for winger George Morrison. The trade just beat the NHL's midnight Sunday night trading deadline.

The previous night, Buffalo dealt Eddie Shack to Pittsburgh Penguins for rookie centre Rene Robert. The 35-year-old Shack will rejoin coach Red Kelly and defenceman Tim Horton, teammates of Toronto Maple Leafs Stanley Cup era of the '60s.

The Sabres, with 41 points, have 12 games and a possible 24 points remaining in the season but trail Toronto and Detroit Red Wings by 26.

FLYERS LOSE

Philadelphia Flyers and Pittsburgh, in a four-way battle to decide the final two playoff spots in the West with St. Louis and California Golden Seals, suffered Sunday defeats.

Montreal Canadiens laced the Flyers 4-0, goaltender Ken Dryden ringing up his eighth shutout of the season, and Detroit Red Wings dumped Pittsburgh 6-3 to improve their own status in the East.

Elsewhere Sunday, Los Angeles Kings surprised Boston Bruins 2-0 and Minnesota North Stars nipped Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 in a pair of upsets while New York Rangers routed Vancouver Canucks 6-1.

Yvan Cournoyer scored three goals in a game for the fourth time in his career as Montreal overwhelmed the Flyers at Philadelphia en route to their sixth straight win.

The Penguins lost an opportunity to tighten the playoff race in the West when Ron Harris' first goal of the season snapped a 2-2 tie and sent the Red Wings away to a 4-2 lead after two periods.

Two goals by Mickey Redmond, his 38th and 39th, by the midway point of the third period padded the Detroit lead ended a two-game elosing streak and moved the Wings into a fourth-place tie with Toronto.

With Gilles Marotte manhandling former Boston teammates in front of the Los Angeles net, Gary Edwards turned aside 38 Bruin shots to make early goals from Juha Widing and Ralph Backstrom stand up.

Chicago, firmly entrenched atop the West, lost more than the game at Minneapolis when scrappy Lou Angotti slid headlong into a Minnesota goalpost.

The veteran centreman, removed to a city hospital with a separated shoulder and lacerated head, was kept overnight for observation.

At New York, Brad Park joined an elite corp by becoming only the third defenceman in modern NHL history to score 20 goals in a season.

The first, Flash Hollett, did it with the Red Wings in the 1944-45 season. Boston defenceman Bobby Orr has made it almost an annual achievement since he joined the Bruins in 1966.

Two other Rangers hit the 20-goal plateau against Vancouver, Walt Tkaczuk and Bobby Rousseau, the former Minnesotan who scored only four goals all last season.

DENNY McLAIN
. . . goes to Oakland

Denny McLain left Texas Rangers Sunday to join Oakland Athletics, ready to work every fourth day on the mound and at the organ the other three if that's the way his new bosses want it.

McLain, his organ and the problems that go with them, went to the American League West Division baseball champions in a baseball trade, in which Senators acquired only two minor league pitchers — Don Stanhouse and Jim Panther — for the one-time 31-game winner.

That fact, however, didn't disturb McLain. He couldn't have been happier, joking with Oakland owner Charles Finley in a telephone conversation about playing the organ and firing a parting shot at the Rangers.

"I'm delighted I'm going to have a chance to pitch again with a contender," McLain said.

SUSPENDED TWICE

A 31-game winner and most valuable player in 1968 with Detroit, McLain was suspended three times during the 1970 season — twice by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and once by Tigers' general manager Jim Campbell.

At the end of the season, he was traded to Washington in an eight-player transaction engineered by Senators' owner Bob Short. McLain has been grateful to Short for that ever since.

McLain was neither the winner nor the attendance draw Short expected and, with the club moved to Arlington, Tex., McLain apparently had to be dropped.

Irina Rodnina of Russia may be unable to defend her pairs title with partner Alexei Ulanov at the world figure skating championships, starting Tuesday in Calgary.

Miss Rodnina, who won the Olympic pairs with Ulanov in February, was injured Saturday while practising for the five-day event.

Nichollas van Veen, Russian liaison officer, listed her as a "tentative" starter for the pairs.

She was released from hospital after a 24-hour stay. She "suffered a slight concussion and was a little shaken," van Veen said.

The accident apparently occurred when Ulanov dropped Miss Rodnina while trying an overhead lift. It was reported she fell on one shoulder and the side of her neck.

It resulted from his world record seven minutes and 9.8 seconds in the 5,000 metres, plus clockings of 39 seconds in the 500 metres, 1:58.8 in the 1,500 metres and 15:16.8 in the 10,000.

Erhard Keller of Wese Germany set a world record in sprint skating — the 500 and 1,000 metres — with an aggregate 155.800 points.

Schenk, winner of three gold medals at the Winter Olympics, lost one of his world marks Saturday when Keller covered 1,000 metres in 1:18.5.

Nicklaus Shoots 64; 'Old Guys' in Fight

MIAMI (AP) — It's a Nicklaus-Trevino gunfight at the O.K. Doral with the Over-the Hill Gang in grizzled pursuit.

"I'd better shoot a 67 Monday," said Lee Trevino, "or I'm a dead Mexican. Jack Nicklaus is the best that ever picked up a club . . . and what about them old fellows? When they gonna quit?"

Last year's two leading money winners sloshed into today's final 18 holes of the rain-hampered $150,000 Doral-Eastern open golf tournament in a deadlock at 10-under-par 206.

Nicklaus equalled the course record with a 64 and Trevino took 5½ hours to complete his rain-delayed third round—a 68.

"It's rained so much here, I feel like I'm wading across the Rio Grande," said Tre-Trevino.

SNEAD SHOT 68

Sam Snead, 59, shot a 68 and stood one shot behind Nicklaus and Trevino at 207 after 54 holes.

Paul Harney, a 42-year-old club pro, stood with Slammin' Sam as he, too, fired a four-under-par 68.

Bob Rosburg, 45, was only four strokes behind after finishing a Sunday round of 70. His putter's shaft snapped four holes from the finish and Bob one-putted all four with the sub club.

Julius Boros, 52, shot 70 to stick within striking range at five-under-par 211 along with Art Wall, a man of 47.

Nicklaus dropped nine birdies in one of the hottest rounds of the year. He had rounds of 71-71-64 and Trevino was 69-69-68.

CONTROVERSY ERUPTS

Ben Kern of Toronto shot a 71 and had a three-round total of 217.

A double round of 36 holes had been scheduled for Sunday when Saturday's play was washed out. But the long delay made it impossible for officials to complete two rounds — even with the trimmed down field of only 52 players.

A major controversy erupted Saturday when Jack Tuthill, director of the tournament players division, invoked a never-before used regulation and arbitrarily trimmed the field from 82 players to 52 in an attempt to get in a double round Sunday.

Some said they would not return to this tournament.

The 30 players cut from the field were those with 36-hole scores of 147 and 148. Each received $187.50. Many were opposed to the decision.

Among the 30 was Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, who had 148.

Forrester Sparkles In West-United Win

Tom Forrester slammed in three goals Sunday to keep Victoria West-United within easy striking distance of first place as the capital city club rallied to trip Intr-Italia 4-2 in a Pacific Coast Soccer League match in Vancouver.

In the other Sunday encounter, North Shore Labatts posted a 3-1 upset victory over Paul's Canadians to move into a tie for the lead with the latter club, two points ahead of West-United.

Westminster Blues blanked Gorge Molsons 1-0 at Royal Athletic Park in the lone Saturday match.

Forrester slipped in his first goal before the intermission to open scoring for West-United, which trailed 2-1 after the first half.

The speedy centre forward also collected the tying and winning goals on headers in the second half to bring his total to 10 goals this season and regain the league scoring lead from Sergio Zanatta of Paul's, who has eight.

Dean Stokes, who placed Forrester in position for the winning tally with a free kick, Ranjit Dillon and Jim Irvine turned in outstanding games for United.

Ron Thompson scored the other United goal while Bruce Wilson and Neil Ellett replied for Inter-Italia.

Several regular players were missing from the Gorge lineup as the Victoria club bowed to Blues, who are tied for the last place with Vancouver Firefighters.

PHILLIPS SCORES

The lone goal of the game was scored by Ken Phillips, who is also a punter for the Canadian Football League's B.C. Lions, during the first half.

Westminster goalie Robin Davies earned his shutout but was helped by the inaccurate shooting of some of the Gorge players.

Darryl Hooker, John Blissett and Doug Marshall all fired the ball by the post or across the goalmouth with Davies seemingly beaten.

Terry Brown, Ron Hilder and Bobby Smith scored for North Shore while Bill Young replied for Paul's.

Hulme Wins Grand Prix

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) — Denis Hulme of New Zealand Saturday won the South African Grand Prix, the second event in the 1972 world driver's championship series.

Emerson Fitzipaldi of Brazil was second and Peter Revson of the United States third.

Hulme, driving a Yardley McLaren Ford-Cosworth, roared past the finish well ahead of the Brazilian ace, who held second place in his John Player Special Ford-Cosworth for most of the race.

VOLVO INTRODUCES A SPORTS CAR THAT REALLY HAULS.

Our new Volvo 1800ES is basically a Volvo 1800E sports coupe with a stretched roof. Same fuel-injected 125 h.p. engine. Same responsive handling. Same reclining leather seats. But the end effect is different. Inside, it gives you a cargo area 5'x 4'x 22". Enough room for a long vacation. And since it's built like a Volvo, enough car for the long haul.

GREG ROBINSON

Blades, Tigers Trip Road-Weary Cougars

The rigors of a gruelling road trip caught up to the Victoria Cougars at the weekend.

That made it easy for Medicine Hat Tigers and Saskatoon Blades.

Tigers, erupting for five goals in the final period, topped the Western Canada Hockey League tourists from the West Coast 8-1 Saturday. The Blades, catching Cougars as they played their eighth game in nine days, defeated Victoria 6-2 Sunday.

HOME TUESDAY

The Cougars wind up their final Prairie swing in Swift Current tonight but continue a strength-sapping schedule run by playing Calgary Centennials in a two-game Memorial Arena series on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Victoria's weariness showed in the third period at Medicine Hat and for most of Sunday's game at Saskatoon.

Tigers out-shot Cougars 22-6 in the final period Saturday. Saskatoon controlled play most of the way Sunday as they out-shot Cougars 47-22.

The Blades even managed to blanket Gary Donaldson. The over-worked Victoria scoring leader, who scored his 14th goal in eight games to spoil Leo Karchie's shutout hopes Saturday, was held off the scoresheet by Saskatoon's Sam Clegg on Sunday.

Greg Robinson, ending a minor scoring slump, scored both Victoria goals Sunday.

Rookie centre Bob Bourne paced Blades to their seventh straight home-ice victory by connecting twice against busy Darryl Fedorak.

Victoria's on-ice weariness was emphasized by their penalty count. The Cougars drew only two minors — both in Medicine Hat — in the two weekend games.

Elsewhere, the absence of high-scoring Ron Chipperfield and Robbie Neale continued to have a telling effect on Brandon Wheat Kings. Flin Flon Bombers rallied for a 7-6 victory over the Kings on Saturday and Edmonton Oil Kings dealt Brandon a third straight loss, 7-4 on Sunday.

In other Sunday games, Swift Current Broncos upset Medicine Hat 7-4, Winnipeg Jets jolted the Eastern Division-leading Regina Pats 7-1 while Calgary, the Western front-runners, embarrassed the Bruins 8-2 before 3,685 fans — New Westminster's largest crowd of the season.

Castaways Back on Top

Winger Craig Dalziel and his Castaways clubmates apparently figured they might as well make the best of uncomfortable conditions Sunday in their Victoria Rugby Union match.

Dalziel sloshed to three trys and his mates provided ample support as Castaways blasted Cowichan 36-0 in a first-division game played in mud and pouring rain at Duncan.

Gillie Greig, Al Oliver, Mike Ohman and Rick Price each scored one try and Cliff Yorath booted four conversions for Castaways, who snapped a first-place deadlock with James Bay Athletic Association.

James Bay had pulled into a temporary tie at the top Saturday with a 21-6 romp past Saanich Velox at Macdonald Park.

Winger Bernie Sinclair dashed for two trys, Al Foster collected nine points on a try, convert and penalty goal, and Bob Overgaard notched one try for JBAA.

Velox points came on John Howe's penalty goal and Darryl Noulette's drop goal.

It was a similar situation in the second division when CFB Esquimalt moved back into sole possession of first place Sunday by topping Castaways 16-9 at Colville Road as Gordie Reekie notched a try and two converts for the winners.

UVic Saxons had pulled into a tie for the top Saturday with 12-7 win over Oak Bay.

James Bay blanked Velox in another second-division struggle Saturday and Castaways drubbed Oak Bay 39-0 in a fourth-division game.

FIFTH VICTORY of day at Santa Anita track in California Saturday gave jockey Bill Shoemaker 92nd triumph of riding career in race valued at $100,000 or more. Shoemaker, who last week set record with 555th stakes win, piloted Turkish Trousers to victory in $100,000 Santa Margarita Handicap as Convenience was second by head with favored Typecast third in field of 12 older fillies and mares. Shoe's all-time career mark now stands at 6,305 winners overall.

Vikings Dodge Disaster On Late Penalty Goal

University of Victoria Vikings neatly sidestepped disaster at Centennial Stadium Saturday when a late penalty goal by stand-off Chris Mills lifted the UVic crew to an 11-10 victory over University of Washington Huskies in a Northwest Intercollegiate Rugby Conference struggle.

Mills drilled his winning kick with about three minutes remaining after the Huskies had forged into a 10-8 lead and seemed destined to protect the margin after outplaying the Victorians since the sides had reached half-time in a 4-4 deadlock.

Vikings, now with two victories and a draw in four conference contests, collected their first-half points on a try by Rod MacDonald while the visitors counted on a try by Peter Giese.

Huskies, safer in the handling of the ball and playing with greater aggressiveness, appeared in command until Mills lowered the boom.

Frank Carson tallied a second-half try for UVic and Washington moved in front on a try by John Shurtz and a conversion by Giese.

In another contest at UVic, winger Eric Partridge collected three trys as UVic Norsemen romped to a 36-4 win over a less-experienced U of W side.

SHIELDS WINS CROWN

Dave Shields of Victoria Sunday won the juvenile division crown of the Alberta indoor speed skating championships at Calgary.

The 13-year-old member of the Esquimalt Speed Skating Club won the 400, 600 and 800-metre events and finished second in the 200 metres.

ROADRUNNERS RAMBLE TO CUP SOCCER SEMIS

Inside-right Robert Gutierrez staged a four-goal scoring outburst at Heywood Park Saturday to spark first-division Roadrunners to an 8-3 drubbing of London Boxing Club in a second-round Jackson Cup match.

Runners, who romped to a 7-1 lead in the opening half, are the only squad to reach the semi-finals of the annual Victoria and District Soccer League competition. League officials reported that all Sunday's scheduled Jackson Cup and league games were postponed because of soggy field conditions.

In the only league contest played Saturday, Carol Olson scored twice as Saanich Braves stopped Lake Hill 4-1 in a second-division duel at Beacon Hill. Castaways earned a third-division win by default over Falcons.

Victoria Bowler Bantam Leader

Merlyn Bunnage of Victoria and Ken Masters of Nanaimo are Vancouver Island representatives on the B.C. team for the National Youth Bowling Council fivepin finals, April 8 to 11 in Sudbury, Ontario.

They were the lone Island winners in provincial rolloffs Saturday on Lower Mainland lanes.

Bunnage, competing for Town and Country Lanes, took the bantam boys' singles event by 57 points over Lloyd Germaine of Grand Forks. Bunnage rolled a three-game series of 625 at Middlegate Lanes in Burnaby.

Masters won the boys' singles event of the senior division rolloff with a 713 total, beating Doug Harding of Kelowna by 63 points.

Trach Huclack of Burnaby won the girls' singles, Port Coquitlam won the girls' team event and Port Moody took the boys' team award in the bantam class.

Other senior winners were Lyn McBratney of Burnaby (girls' singles), Burnaby's Lougheed Lanes (girls' team) and Port Coquitlam, which nipped Town and Country Lanes in the boys' team event.

Vancouver Island bowlers failed to advance in the junior division as Kippy Chung of Surrey and Cathy Morgan of Richmond won the boys' and girls' singles crowns.

Vernon defeated Victoria 2,900-2,982 in the boys' team rolloff and Richmond won the girls' team contest.

Cubs Topple Timbermen To Gain Final

Earl O'Hara rammed in three goals and Mel Bridgeman fired a pair Sunday as Victoria Cubs outscored Port Alberni Timbermen 10-5 in the deciding game of the best-of-three Vancouver Island Junior "B" Hockey League semi-final at Memorial Arena.

Barry MacLachlin, Brent Patterson, Cris Riddell, Al Stocks and Dave Archibald notched singles for the Cubs, who advance to the final against Nanaimo. The best-of-five series begins tonight in Nanaimo.

Charlie Shaw scored two goals and Steve Yesowick, Gord Unger and Allan Martin had singles for the Timbermen who were outshot 51-23.

Ohba Keeps Title

If all your economy car has to offer is economy, you're wasting your money.

Many so-called economy cars aren't so economical when it comes down to what you get for what you pay.

Especially when you consider what you get with a Corolla. For the same money.

Unlike most other economy cars, the Corolla 1600 looks good.

Unlike most others, Corolla offers lots of big car comforts. Like leg room. Reclining bucket seats. A heater that heats. Fresh Flow ventilation. Things that would cost extra on theirs, but come standard on ours.

Unlike most others, Corolla offers a cross-flow engine as standard. The most efficient 1600 cc going.

Unlike most others, Corolla brings a high resale value. (Consistently higher than other economy cars.)

And last, but certainly not least, Corolla offers economy. Just like the others.

Paris Mimics Things Foreign

IN PUBS, DRUGSTORES

PARIS (Reuter) — The French have a passion for mimicking things foreign, but their latest crazes—the American style drugstore and the British-type pub—show their talent for adding a Gallic touch to almost anything they import.

The first drugstore in Paris—at the top of the fashionable Champs Elysees—was opened in 1958 and since then about 20 more have been built or are being planned.

The pub boom started late, when a stately private home just off the Champs Elysees was converted into the Winston Churchill Pub in 1966. Since then about 20 plus, including Le Cockney tavern and Le Red Lion, have sprung up across Paris.

The Winston Churchill offers its smartly-dressed customers a pint of English draught beer and a "city lunch" of roast beef and yorkshire pudding. But there the similarity to the British pub ends.

SERVE BREAKFAST

The Churchill stays open from 8 a.m. to 2 a.m., serves a breakfast with "le rice crispies" and has 10 delicate varieties of tea for the afternoon clients. British pubs, restricted by licensing laws, are only open for about nine hours a day.

The colorful drugstore, just 200 yards from the Churchill, would not disappoint the American expecting to find anything from a packet of aspirins to a banana split.

In addition to a pharmaceutical section and a snack bar, the French drugstore serves smoked salmon and caviar and boasts a cinema, a record shop and a clothes boutique.

Its decor is modernistic and it is always crowded.

The French version has been so popular with American tourists that in 1966 a "drugstore a la Francaise" was opened in Los Angeles. The owners of the Champs Elysees drugstore also exported one to Madrid.

KNOWS HIS HAMBURGERS

The French often scorn American cooking as stodgy and starch-ridden, but the manager of the Champs Elysees drugstore has realized the commercial possibilities of that symbol of American cuisine—the hamburger.

The pubs often cater to rich young businessmen in search of a place to take a client or a girl-friend. Until the pub's appearance on the Paris scene, the only alternatives were the glaringly neon-lit cafe or the American-style bar, which is often so dimly lit it is difficult to find a chair.

The Winston Churchill—with a menu that offers such traditional pub fare as English sausages or veal and ham pie—show the French have developed a taste for English cooking which they previously abhorred.

HEATH POPULARITY PLUMMETING

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government is plummeting in public popularity, an opinion poll suggested Saturday.

A Louis Harris poll in The Daily Express reported Labor had surged to a 14-percentage-point lead, from six in January.

"The swing to Labor and the sharp slump in the government's popularity clearly reflect the public's attitude to the miners' strike and the power cuts," it said.

Britain's first country-wide coal miners' stoppage since the general strike of 1926 starved power stations of fuel and brought massive electricity cuts throughout the country.

The latest party figures, Harris said, were: Conservatives 39 per cent, Labor 53 per cent, Liberals and others eight per cent. In January, they were 43, 49 and eight respectively.

On these statistics, Labor would sweep to a landslide victory if a general election was held now. But in normal circumstances, the next one is not due for three years.

BURTON TO PLAY IL DUCE

NEW YORK (NYT) — Mama mia! Guess what that rare Welshman Richard Burton is up to now: He's going to play the late Italian dictator Benito Mussolini.

Burton, who recently completed movies in which he appears as Trotsky and as Tito, has signed to play Il Duce in "The Last Days of Mussolini," a Leo Peccarolo-Italo Zingarelli co-production to be filmed in English under the direction of Carlo Cotti.

The original screenplay is by Mario Soldati and Cesare Gargoli, and shooting should begin in Italy in the fall — after Burton returns from Budapest, where he'll be living it up with the likes of Raquel Welch, Ursula Andress and Joey Heatherton in "Bluebeard."

And you'll never guess which glamorous, unpredictable star they've persuaded to portray Claretta Petacci, the mistress of Mussolini.

If you guess Elizabeth Taylor, you go to the head of the class. Miss Taylor and Burton, you may recall, began a long professional association in 1963 when they acted another flamboyant historical couple in "Cleopatra."

Since then, they have costarred in nine films, including the still unreleased "Under Milk Wood" and "Hammersmith Is Out." They have also married.

Taxes In Arrears

CARMAN, Man. (CP) — Manitoba's standing committee on agriculture was told here that property owners in at least one Southern Manitoba rural municipality have fallen more than $440,000 in arrears during the last three years.

Reeve George Froese of the rural municipality of Stanley told the committee that taxes in his area are $173,988 in arrears for 1971, with another $152,000 for 1970 and $115,000 for 1969 still outstanding.

Offer Made On Hotel

Owner Len Ingraham of the Ingraham Hotel, 2915 Douglas, said he has received an offer to buy the premises built by his father 13 years ago.

Ingraham was commenting on rumors the hotel had been sold and that he has undertaken new responsibilities.

The offer to buy the hotel is under consideration, although several offers had been made by various interests lately, he said.

The current offer could be accepted or rejected by the end of March, he indicated.

THEY'RE OFF AND RUNNING in Central Saanich's fifth annual cross-country run (above) with 370 competing. Waist-high waters face two men seen below as they head into raging Hagan Creek.

Thorne Slogs To Win

Charlie Thorne, Victoria's top cross-country runner, did it again Saturday.

For the third year in a row he won Central Saanich's 5½-mile cross-country run.

Thorne and his University of Victoria team-mate, Adrian Jones, crossed the finish line in Saanichton Fair Grounds together, having completed the water logged course in 30 minutes and one second.

Officials later, however, placed Thorne first.

Thorne's defending champion team, UVic "A," again carried off the title; Larry Corbett, a previous winner, finishing third, and the remaining team member, Jim Powell, fifth.

Royal Roads Military College "A" team's Bob Tease came fourth and the team second. In third place was the CFB Esquimalt team.

This was the fifth annual cross-country run and the toughest one to date. This year's torrential rains and snows had turned Hagan Creek into a raging torrent.

A field of 370 runners was whittled to 355 by the time the course was completed and the creek, with its waters waist-high in places, faced twice.

Commando-style, a rope was strung across the creek to help the runners heave themselves out of the water. Officials in waders stood by to help those who, crossing too fast, were in danger of being swept away.

In spite of the exceptional hazardous conditions there were no casualties.

Thorne's brother, Jim, of the Evergreen Track Club, won the under-18 boys event, beating out clubmate Richard Kirkham by two seconds.

the under-16 boys' race was won by Gordie Evans of Elizabeth Fisher junior high school. Don Reid of Richmond took the under-14s.

First one home in the open womens' race was Jill McLeod of North Saanich. Bev McLennan led a strong Richmmond team over the line, placing first in the under-14 girls' event.

The special Masters' Race for runners 35 and over was won by Michael McCurtrie of CFB Esquimalt. In second place was Dr. Derek Ellis of the UVic biology department.

. . . through the splash

Whipping up a shower as he splashes through the swollen waters of Hagen Creek one of the competitors in Saturday's cross-country testing heads for the churning waters ahead cheered on by a gallery of spectators. This winter's snow and torrential rains turned the creek into a hazard.

Zoo Birthday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Zoo has had something of a population explosion. A black rhinoceros and possibly as many as four leopard kittens were born Sunday. Weighing in at about 30 pounds, the little rhino is in full view in company with a 4,000-pound mother. Zoo officials haven't determined whether the new tenant is a male or a female.

This Boat, I Thee Wed —But Not With a Buddy

The perverse and beautiful thing about the human race, said he, tapping the dottle in his pipe, is its capacity for dreaming the impossible dream.

You'll forgive the old philosopher — won't you? — but that was the thought I brought away from a visit last week to the Vancouver Boat Show and the discovery that certain builders of small craft are still trying to sell their products on The Buddy System. It was, I need hardly add, the only thing I brought away.

So you've led a protected, sheltered life and haven't yet heard of The Buddy System? Then tip-toe quietly away before the idea starts to appeal to your better nature and your sweet, shining faith in the essential goodness of mankind. Because believe me, mate, The Buddy System is Russian Roulette played with boats.

It is all explained in one of the brochures given out at the show by a hard-selling yacht brokerage and, like most cases of unpremeditated homicide, it seems simple and innocent enough on the surface.

"You and your best buddy decide to purchase one of the great variety of power cruisers or sailing vessels that we offer for discriminating yachtsmen," the message goes. "Under The Buddy System you split the costs of purchase, operation, wharfage, monthly payments. Family Number One uses the boat one week, Family Number Two the next. For no more outlay than you intended you become co-owner of twice the boat you had in mind. Ask about our convenient Buddy System of financing . . ."

★ ★ ★

That was all I required to read before my head was fairly dancing with images of buddies slowly shoving other buddies beneath the harbor ripples, of shots and muffled screams in the soft summer nights, of cherished friendships dissolved in bickering, barratry and burial at sea.

Not once, but twice in the innocent days of my youth I shared co-ownership of sea-going craft, one a Bermuda-rigged Newfoundland dory, the other a submersible ketch of no recognized design, and saw the eternal flame of friendship cool, flicker and flutter to extinction. It may be fairly said that friends who share a boat need no enemies.

I would suppose that next to sharing a wife nothing is more calculated to lead to cold-blooded murder as readily as sharing a boat. If it were a new boat — "twice the boat you had in mind" — it might be an even deadlier arrangement.

There is, to begin with, that well-known, immutable law that decrees that a half-owner of anything will manage to wreck it.

Just the contemplation of buddying-up with a man as possessive as the average boat-owner and you can visualize every cruising ground as one unending series of reefs, shoals, deadheads, tidal waves and a wide assortment of the perils of the deep that await Family Number One.

I can hear myself, cast in this role, babbling. "Well, it's your week, buddy. You'll find her up on Race Rocks, just below the lighthouse."

Even if such a fate might be avoided a thinking man could anticipate the swift erosion of a lifetime of compatibility through those attitudes of proprietorship that are so characteristic of yachtsman, the kind of thing that transforms Caspar Milquetoast into Captain Bligh the instant he steps aboard anything afloat that measures over nine feet in length.

★ ★ ★

I keep thinking of my buddy Tom Ayres, a prince ashore, a martinet in command of his 21-footer. We've been bosom pals for years, but the moment I step aboard his face goes all cold and distant as he bends over the maze of charts he seems to require for a boat that draws 18 inches and grunts, "You can cast off the lines, Whatever-your-name-is."

Along with the visions of human assault and battery and the buddy ship slipping smoothly to the bottom I can imagine subtler consequences in the form of dialogue.

Here, for example, is the head of Family Number Two, taking over the bridge, as it were, for his week of ownership and, smiling much too broadly, remarking, "Galley's in a bit of a mess, eh, old buddy? Guess we ought to have a sort of agreement about not putting the empty clam-shells under the mattresses, eh, old buddy?"

Or the head of Family Number One, the type with a flair for mechanics who often spend an entire summer hunched over a motor, drawing back his lips in a ghastly grin and remarking, "Running a bit rough, isn't she, old buddy? I hear you've been pounding her full out to Long Harbor. Of course, that's your privilege old buddy, but . . ."

If it isn't that it will be the ladies, chuckling and adamant in their conflicting choices of blue polka-dots or green striped curtains in the cabin.

Either way lies the predictable path to mayhem, the logbook drenched in human blood, the gallant little ship sawed neatly in two amidships as the final settlement, the Buddy System on the rocks.

1 Dead 5 Hurt

One man was killed and five others injured in a grinding two-car collision at the corner of Fort and Oak Bay about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Ronald Morriss, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Morriss, 2720 Foul Bay, died at 9:10 a.m. after emergency surgery for head injuries at Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was a passenger in the car at left.

Injured were the dead man's brother, Alan, 17, with minor bruises; Mark McLeod, 18, of 2154 Windsor, head injuries; David Anderson, 17, of 2671 Dufferin, head injuries; Tim Soutiere, 19, of 1189 Roslyn, face cuts; and the driver of the car at lower left, Wayne Trueman, 25, of a downtown motel.

Anderson and McLeod are in good condition in hospital.

Soggy Sunday: It Was a Day To Muck About

By PAUL MOSS and PAT DUFOUR

It was the wettest weekend yet in Greater Victoria's continuing winter of discontent, and the weathermen say it was probably the biggest March downpour on record.

Incessant heavy rain, at times almost tropical in intensity, turned low-lying areas into lakes, swamped and closed roads, caused mudslides and washouts and left hundreds of homeowners struggling knee-deep in flooded basements.

Weatherman Allan McQuarrie said today comparative figures weren't immediately available, but added: "I guess you could say it was a record rainfall."

From mid-afternoon Saturday when the rain started, to early this morning, most of Greater Victoria, had squelched and soaked under a minimum three-inch downpour.

Although the Gonzales weather station showed a mere 2.77 inches, at Tillicum it was 3.77 while the Dockyard area recorded 4.18.

But Sooke residents had it worst of all. There the weekend rainfall measurement was a massive 4.34 inches.

The Gonzales station recorded 2.35 inches in the 18-hour period from 10 p.m. Saturday to 4 p.m. Sunday, and more than an inch of that fell in the six hours from 4 to 10 a.m. Sunday.

Two or three feet of water on the Sooke Road, in the vicinity of Kangaroo Road, forced the road to be closed for about eight hours Sunday afternoon and evening.

At first traffic was able to use East Sooke Road as a detour route, but that road itself flooded until it became impassable by 7 p.m. Sunday.

So for three hours, until both roads were reopened at about 10 o'clock, Sooke area residents were cut off from Victoria.

Happy Valley Road was also flooded, and washouts or partial washouts affected several minor roads in the Sooke and Metchosin areas.

Overnight, St. Mary's Priory Hospital at 567 Goldstream was without heat as 18 inches of water in the basement made the furnace unusable.

Once again, Saanich was the core municipality to suffer most. Normally, Sunday emergency calls for the public works department are handled by Saanich police, but Mayor Hugh Curtis said a special switchboard was kept open all day Sunday and handled some 400 calls.

Curtis kept a personal watch on the municipality's task force efforts throughout the day, and toured some of the trouble spots with Ald. Les Passmore and Ald. Edith Gunning.

Nine full crews were working at the peak of the crisis, clearing debris-clogged ditches and answering residents' calls for help.

Acting municipal engineer John Cowlin said "a whole string of houses" on Olivia Place, east of Shelbourne and north of Cedar Hill Cross Road, was affected by flooding.

"We dug down to the drain and broke it, and it was like letting water out of a bath."

Another badly-hit area was McKenzie at Blenkinsop, where some houses were marooned by miniature lakes. A spectacular washout on Royal Oak Avenue eroded the shoulder of the road, producing a hole "big enough to put a bedroom in," Cowlin said.

At Hartland Road, leading to the Greater Victoria area's garbage dumping grounds, a pump was kept working all Sunday night to prevent a stream washing away the road. A washout Jan. 21 swept away a 70-foot section of the road.

In the city it was "pretty grim," said city engineer Jim Garnett.

The largest storm drains — five and a half by three and a half feet — were absolutely full, with the result that an uncountable number of basements must have been flooded.

Both Victoria and Oak Bay received more than 100 calls from residents. Engineering officials agreed that drainage systems worked well, but said there was simply too much water for them to handle.

Holdups Admitted By Young Gunman

An 18-year-old city man who admitted being a heroin user for more than two years pleaded guilty in provincial court today to a raft of charges, including two armed holdups last month.

Allan R. Francis, of 2735 Asquith, was remanded to Tuesday morning for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Francis admitted two store holdups in which he threatened female cashiers with a .22-calibre pellet gun, his face covered with a scarf.

He got $133 from Don's Food Market, 99 Menzies, Feb. 3, and $2 from Shelbourne Grocery, 2672 Shelbourne, Feb. 7. Francis also admitted breaking, entering and theft at two homes and a service station late last month, in which loot included $1,000 in jewelry, a $500 color television set and cash.

Constable Lou Truesdale noted Francis had been a popular athlete and student before his heroin addiction began 2½ years ago.

Judge William Ostler commended the officer for his sympathy, and noted the accused was already on probation for other offences when the February crimes were commited.

"It's simply a matter of heroin," the judge said, "when fear of prison is transcended by the agony of doing without the drug.'

HELLYER TO SPEAK HERE AGAINST TRUDEAU POLICIES

Paul Hellyer, leader of Action Canada and a former Liberal cabinet minister, will address a public meeting Saturday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior High.

Hellyer, member for Toronto Trinity, is expected to speak on legislation enacted by the Trudeau government in 1969 which "effectively precludes the establishment of official recognition of any new political party in Canada."

Developer Fears Big Financial Loss

An office and medical building proposed for downtown Victoria has been caught in the gap created by the city's plan to limit the size of new construction.

The six-storey structure is planned for the northwest corner of Blanshard and Humboldt facing the Queen Victoria General Hospital.

In a letter to city council, G. H. Wheaton Ltd. says it "could be subjected to a considerable financial penalty" if the construction plans are not completed.

The letter also claims the company understands from city officials that the building may be allowed despite the fact the plans run counter to the proposed zoning changes.

Measures to be adopted by council on Thursday allow city hall to withhold issuing building permits for a 30-day period while the new laws are considered by council.

The letter from G. H. Wheaton company says its project was "favorably received as being complementary to the hospital precinct and convenient to nearby high-density residential area as well as downtown."

The project did not receive a building permit but did get "approval in principle," the letter says.

"We now seek your confirmation of this approval, since the development would not be feasible under the proposed regulations."

The letter says the company has made commitments to developers and to consulting engineers.

Pampered Painting Arrives Here Wednesday

Around-the-Clock Guard to Watch Masterpiece

Pampered in a heated van, heated and equipped with full temperature and humidity controls, one of the finest paintings in the world will arrive in Victoria Wednesday.

Colin Graham, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria director, said it is the most important and valuable painting to be exhibited in Victoria. It will be on view at the gallery until March 20, when it will go to the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Graham said that special guards would protect the painting 24 hours a day during its stay in Victoria. The painting will also be covered by special insurance.

El Greco's canvas "Saint Francis and Brother Leo Meditating" is one of the major masterpieces in the National Gallery at Ottawa. Its appearance in Victoria inaugurates a trans-Canada tour of a select groups of civic galleries.

Graham said the work is considered the finest of some 30 known versions of the theme. It was virtually unknown until it was sold about 1927 from the church of Cristo de las Aguas a few miles from the Spanish town of Toledo where the master worked during the main years of his creative life. It passed to a London dealer and was acquired by the National Gallery in 1936.

The work dates from the opening years of the 17th century when the artist was in the last decade of his life and at the height of his powers. It represents the great religious leader with Brother Leo, his favorite disciple, meditating on Mount Laverna in Tuscany, Italy.

El Greco was born on the island of Crete, studied under Titian in Venice, and then settled in Toledo. Famous during his lifetime, El Greco's reputation declined after his death and it was not until the early part of this century that critics began to realize that he is one of the major genuises of European painting, of a stature equal to Valesquez and Goya.

A feature of the display will be the availability of "Acoustiguides," electronic devices containing a recorded talk on the painting which visitors to the Gallery may carry with them in viewing the work.

Myron Laskin, the National Gallery's research curator and expert on old master paintings, is coming to Victoria to lecture at the gallery Wednesday night, at 8:30, on El Greco's place in 16th century art. The lecture is open to the public without charge.

Cramped Liberals May Quit Office

Liberal MLAs may move out of the Legislative Buildings next year if they don't get better office quarters, the government has been warned.

In a letter to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, party president Mel Couvelier says the party will be forced to look elsewhere for office accommodation unless improvements are made.

Among his complaints are "a shameful absence of privacy, telephone services, working space and visitor reception areas."

★ ★ ★

"Working space is so limited that if two MLAs sharing an office are both conferring with visitors, phrases, knees and ashtrays are so intermingled that total confusion is the inevitable result," the letter states.

"Visitors to our caucus room not only do not have chairs to sit on there is literally no place to stand out of the line of traffic. If you were to provide us with a chair there would be not place we could put it," Couvelier wrote.

★ ★ ★

Couvelier also complained that three telephones were inadequate to serve five MLAs and four staff members.

The facilities are being occupied by the Liberals for the first time following renovations to the second floor of the legislative building last year. Previously, only women MLAs had offices.

Come In, Funlover, Your Time Is Up

DEAR ABBY: My husband just turned 60. We have been married for 18 years. A year ago he took up with a widow he used to go with 40 years ago. She broke up with him when the doctor told him he would have to have his foot amputated. She said she couldn't bear the thought of marrying a man who couldn't dance. She married someone else and moved out of town.

When her husband died last year she moved back to town and made contact with my husband. That's when he started seeing her behind my back.

My husband took a week's vacation and he and this lady went off on a honeymoon together. Meanwhile I was home laying the bricks for our patio.

When I found all this out I told him to make a choice. Her or me. He said he "loved" me and was only having "fun" with her.

How much more "fun" should I let him have before I kick him out? — Stay-At-Home Wife.

DEAR STAY: I would say that he has had more "fun" than he's entitled to already. Tell him to shape up or ship out.

DEAR ABBY: Already I am worried about our next summer vacation.

My husband gets three weeks off, and he wants to take me and the children on a picture-taking trip to the Western Parks region, as he is a camera buff.

Our children are 7 and 10, and they do not get along with each other, so you can imagine what an automobile trip with them is like for three weeks.

I realize that my husband works hard all year and deserves the kind of vacation he enjoys, but I don't relish the idea of being referee for the kids while Father pursues his hobb ywhich involves looking for places to photograph and endless waiting for perfect sun directions.

What is your advice? — Planning Ahead.

DEAR PLANNING: Why not compromise and spend part of your vacation doing his thing, and the other part doing whatever you prefer?

A suggestion: On long motor trips with kids who don't get along, instead of putting them both in the back seat, let one sit in front wih Dad, and keep the other in the back with you. Then switch.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

INTO CORNER, HANDY MAN

By PAULINE GRAVES

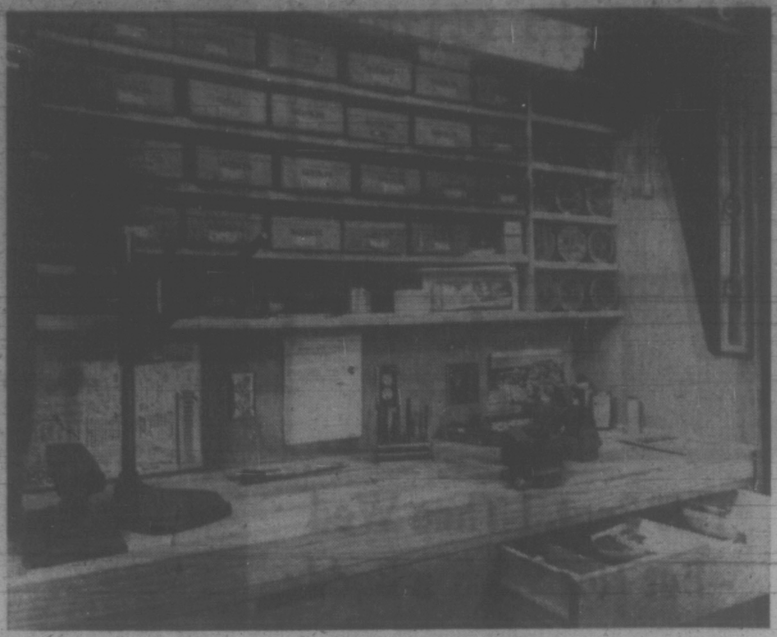
Women's Lib notwithstanding, every man should have a space that is all his own, for tools, equipment and supplies and the things needed for minor home repairs. The space can be in a garage or basement, large enough for a workbench, with good lighting and walls for shelves and for suspending tools on hooks or nails.

Above all, it should be "hands off" for every other member of the family, and not be a stopping place for shopping bags, sandy or wet towels, muddy shoes and the like.

Here is a bench, a masculine corner, that is so neat it invites use. The uniform boxes and cans made it possible to install shelves fairly close together without any waste space above, as could not have been done with assorted sizes and shapes.

These happen to be all cigar boxes, but they just as well could have been any set of identical boxes, plastic or cardboard. Labels identify the contents.

Another shelf section holds cans, on their sides, contents marked on the lids. This arrangement accommodates more cans than would be possible were they upright, and every one is right at hand.



Good organization eases repairs.

Novices Can Rise to Hot Cross Buns

By MARY MOORE

Our 1972 Hot Cross Bun recipe is similar to the 1971 version. To make sure that novices can follow this recipe and have success with unfamiliar yeast baking I farmed out the recipe to Carol. Carol is a good cook but had not made Hot Cross Buns before and tackled the assignment like a real trooper.

Special Note

Please take careful note of the test for "lukewarm" and instructions for putting buns to rise.

1972 HOT CROSS BUNS
(1 dozen large)

1 tbsp. (1 pkg.) granular yeast.
1 tsp. sugar.
1-3 cup lukewarm water (see below).
2-3 cup scalded milk (see below).
1-3 cup sugar.
¾ tsp. salt.
2½ tbsp. shortening.
2 beaten eggs — divided (see below).
1 tbsp. water.
1 cup plumped raisins (see below).
2-3 to 1 cup mixed peel.
About 3¼ cup unsifted all-purpose flour (divided—see below).
4 tsp. cinnamon.
1 tsp. cloves.

Plump the raisins by pouring boiling water over them to cover and let stand until needed.

Into large mixing bowl measure yeast, one teaspoon sugar and lukewarm water (temperature of your finger) and let stand 10 minutes. To scalded milk, add the one-third cup sugar, salt and shortening, stir then cool to lukewarm (temperature of your hand). Beat eggs, add 1 tablespoon water and measure out two tablespoons and reserve them for brushing tops of buns later.

Add lukewarm milk mixture to risen yeast liquid along with raisins (which have been drained and patted dry with paper towels), peel, remaining beaten egg mixture, three cups of the flour, cinnamon and cloves and beat to thoroughly mix. Cover with towel and plate and let rise until doubled in bulk. Carol put hers in the closed oven which she had preheated to 200 degrees Fah. for 3 minutes then turned off heat.

Knead Well

Punch down dough. Sprinkle board with remaining flour and knead dough 100 times or until most of the flour is incorporated. Shape into a twenty-inch-long even roll about 2" in diameter. Cut into twelve or fourteen even pieces. Shape each into smooth ball and flatten on greased cookie sheets, two inches apart. Flour leading edge of your lifter and cut deep crosses in top of each bun. Brush with reserved beaten egg. Let rise (under lamp or slightly heated oven) until well puffed and expanded — about one and one-half hours. Bake at 400 degrees Fahr. about ten to twelve minutes. Serve warm. If you have any left over these freeze well and can be reheated by splitting and toasting.

Note: If desired drizzle plain icing into straight lines where cross marks are.

One In Five Tots Unwanted In U.S.

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — One out of every five newborn children in the United States was unwanted, an official of the National Centre for Family Planning Services told a college audience here.

Dr. Bruce Axelrod told Lewis and Clark State College students that, "this is not a poor problem. This is not a welfare problem but cuts across all sociological levels of society."

The director of the organization's family planning association said there was a growing recognition of the right of individuals to voluntarily regulate the size of their families.

Craigflower's Pride

When formal dedication of Craigflower Manor takes place on Thursday morning, one of the proudest persons in the official party will be Mrs. G. A. Thompson.

Restoration of the manor has been the joint project of the federal and provincial governments. Officiating at the dedication ceremony will be Hon. Jean Chretien, Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development and Hon. W. C. Black, British Columbia's provincial secretary.

In the crowd assembled for the ceremony will be a great many men and women who have assisted in different ways in the restoration. None, however, more dedicated than Jean Thompson, whose unswerving interest and untiring efforts have never faltered.

Jean's love affair with Craigflower Manor started back in 1961 when she and her husband were looking for a new home. Someone told them that the manor, then gradually sinking into disuse, could be leased.

They talked it over, decided to take up the lease "with an option to buy," and a year later moved in.

At that time there was a 23-year old motel on the Gorge side of the manor. On the corner near the road a modern "dogs and suds" stand was in operation. Six momths later a gas station would go up near by.

While they considered ways and means of restoring the historic place, the Thompsons opened it to the public. Tney thought of turnig it into a medieval type of restaurant or a top-notch antique shop and discarded both ideas.

Always in the back of Jean Thompson's mind was the dream that "no matter what," Craigflower must eventually be preserved and restored "for the people."

Within year both she and her husband realized that because the manor was encircled by commercial ventures, it was not financially feasible for them to try and restore and maintain it themselves.

Only hope, as Jean saw it, was to have the property preserved as an historic site.

Either by good luck or good management, it was about then that renewed public interest became evident in 1956 findings of a Royal Commission on historic sites and monuments in which British Columbia historians, Dr. W. N. Sage and Dr. Willard Ireland presented Craigflower Manor as top priority in any proposed restoration for our province.

This public interest presumably nudged the national historic sites and monuments committee to take a second look.

And, that urged on by the provincial government, it finally declared Craigflower Manor an historic site.

That was in 1964. In the next three years' negotiations were concluded to purchase surrounding property and to phase out commercial interests.

Restoration began in 1967 and was pretty well concluded in 1970. However, dedication was delayed last year because it was not a centennial '71 project.

As Jean Thompson puts it "this is entirely a federal-provincial project aimed at preserving our heritage today and for the years to come."

On Thursday morning, as curator of the restored Craigflower Manor, Mrs. Thompson will be seated with other dignitaries on a special dais erected on the grounds for the ceremony.

She will listen to the words now, after 10 years, her of dedication with pride for dream has come true.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lot of people appear to have handled their Christmas card mailing in too great a hurry. The Vancouver post office reports that it ended the 1971 Yuletide season with 44,000 Christmas cards and letters undelivered because they lacked such vital information as street addresses, destinations and, in some cases, the names of the people they were intended for.

Gran Teaches Cree Tongue

EDMONTON (CP) — "Ni-to-te-mak ne-hi-ya-we-tan," said Anne Anderson.

That means "My friends, let's speak Cree."

It's a beautiful language, said the 66-year-old grandmother, who has been teaching it in classes in Edmonton since 1968. Now she has just completed her 11th language-teaching book, this time a dictionary of the Plains Cree Y dialect.

There are four dialects of Cree, including the L dialect used in Ontario, the R and the TH. However, the Plains Cree is the commonest now.

Melodious Sound

"And old lady once told me that Cree sounds like a little stream flowing over rocks, or the winds whispering in the pines. The voice rises and falls. It's very melodious."

The daughter of a Cree woman and a Scots-Canadian, Mrs. Anderson has spoken Cree since she was a child. But she stresses that those who hear it should learn to read and write it as well as speak it.

"I would like my blood-brothers and sisters to be able to write their own stories and books on it."

A self-taught linguist, she spends many hours "studying it in my mind, working out the roots and the backgrounds of the words."

Words have cultural connotations, she believes. And she disapproves of classes where the teachers are whites who have no background in the Indian culture.

Her mother was a full-blooded Indian, "but non-status as her father refused to sign the treaties with the white men." Her first husband was a Calahoo-band Indian. They lived for nine years in Oregon. She later married again and moved to Edmonton in 1968 when her husband became ill.

Some of her books, which she publishes herself through the sheltered workships for the mentally retarded, are directed toward children. Ther are several coloring books with only Cree words to describe the pictures.

Some of her books are being used on Plains Cree reserves and in schools in Montana, Minnesota, Manitoba and Saskatchewan as well as in Alberta. She also has had orders from the Indian affairs department and some of the universities in Eastern Canada.

When she first began her classes, he looked for Cree-language books in stores and was disappointed when she couldn't find any.

She eventually wrote to reserves, schools and churches and finally found a few written by missionaries in the late 1800s.

"It just showed how the poor Indian is forgotten and ignored by white society. At least, the early missionaries had tried."

"It's no wonder the Indian doesn't have a pride in his language and culture," she said.

"I know how it is. I grew up with the hurt of having my mother put down."

Her mother, who died six years ago at age 88, had insisted her children learn Cree as well as English.

Built on Verbs

"It's a language built on verbs," she said. The verb is constantly changing with each subject.

Many English words have no Cree equivalent, such as those for animals not native to North America, she explained.

But this is where an understanding of the culture is essential. For example, the word for lion, which in English is the king of beasts, had to be related to the Cree word for grizzly.

Mista-hiya is Cree for grizzly bear, meaning "the all-powerful animal, the greatest one." Mista-hiya kotuk uske, meaning "the all-powerful animal of another country" could be used for lion.

DAMP CAMPUS OPENS DOORS

An estimated crowd of 15,000 to 18,000 visitors made their wet way to the University of Victoria's Open House on the weekend.

In the battle for audience attention, the day went to the practical sciences, whose array of gadgetry was calculated to stir the heart of every young boy from two to 92.

As befits a coastal university, there was a selection of exhibits slanted towards marine studies. An experimental aquarium with rainbow, cutthroat trout and coho salmon provided a miniature marine environment for the public.

Staff gave a running commentary on how the fishes' surroundings could be changed by altering their artificial environment's temperature and depth. Results from these tests may help man in his fight to prevent marine deaths.

Complicated projects like a scaled-down cyclone separator which takes out dust from air and solids from liquid were exhibited by students obviously very much at home in this scientific age.

The French department ran a cafe complete with European-style checkered tablecloths in the Clearihue building lobby. The Russian department invited guests to type their names in cyrillic characters on a Russian typewriter.

But activities didn't end in the "classrooms." Students played soccer, basketball and rugby on the fields. And visitors viewed the McPherson library, the computer, centres, arts, science and education buildings on campus.

'Worried Sick' Mom Starts Safety Drive

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — An afternoon of being worried sick about the safety of her children started Catherine Stauffer on a campaign she hopes will end in improved school bus safety standards all across Canada.

Mrs. Stauffer lives on a farm near Woodstock, Ont. On the day in question, her four children and others were on a school bus coming home through a bad snowstorm.

"Everyone was all right, but when you think what might have happened, it's frightening."

Mrs. Stauffer talked to her local home and school group, and her school area now has an emergency weather plan operating, but she hasn't stopped there. She has approached the Consumers' Association of Canada and may try to involve the home and school group again to get stiffer regulations governing mechanical safety and driver training.

Needs Review

"The whole situation needs investigation and improving all around, the construction of the buses, keeping them in good condition.

"The drivers have to pass a bus driver's test, but there is no special training that's mandatory. They're not all trained in emergency procedures. There is often overcrowding on school buses, there are discipline problems.

"There are not enough clear-cut directions from boards of education to drivers. There should be more liaison between the departments of transport and departments of education.

"When you consider the accident potential in a bus carrying 40 to 50 children, it's frightening."

Mrs. Stauffer says she would also like to see the school bus patrol program expanded. In some areas, responsible students are trained to help maintain discipline in buses, to make sure traffic is stopped so that children can cross roads safely, to help young children on and off the bus.

An Ontario department of transport spokesman says drivers applying for a licence to operate a public vehicle school bus must have physical fitness certificates that are renewed every three years or every year if they are past 65. They may have to take their driver's test in a school bus.

Standards Set

Bus owners must file certificates of mechanical fitness for their buses twice a year.

As a result of an interprovincial transport ministers conference, the Canadian Standards Association has established standards for school buses that govern such things as lights and steering. They are not adopted by all provinces yet.

Mrs. Stauffer says the standards of safety beyond the basics often depend on the conscientiousness of owners, school boards or on pressure from parents.

She invites anyone interested in the problem or anyone with information that might be of use, to write to the CAC school bus safety committee, 100 Glucester Street, Ottawa, Ont.

In the meantime, she says she is pleased with the effectiveness of the emergency weather plan in her area and recommends other areas devise plans suited to them.

"We chose four of five people who could give us road information based on facts and not emotions. My husband has a trucking business. His drivers help and a township reeve, the veterinarian and the owner of a construction company — all people who are out early.

Conditions Bad

"If they think conditions are too bad for the buses, they call me, I call the principal, and the principal calls the bus owner.

Was Telephone Call Mistaken Hearsay?

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A hospital telephone operator dispatched a hearse to the home of an elderly widow, assuming the woman had died after an ambulance shortage made it impossible to respond to her two distress calls. But the widow was alive and after recovering at the hospital she returned home — in a taxi.

Scientists Go Ape

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A team of scientists here has promised to give a couple of apes anything they want — as long as they ask for it in correct Yerkish.

The language has been invented by researchers at the Yerkes hence the name regional primate research centre for a project in communication between men and apes.

Subjects of the experiment are an orangutan named Biji and a chimp named Lana. Over a period of four years they will be taught to gain rewards such as food, drink, music, trips to the monkey playground by pressing lighted keys on a large keyboard of symbols.

At first, a single correctly-pressed key will bring the reward. But gradually Lana and Biji will be expected to combine several different symbols, just as a child learns to form a sentence from words.

A computer system will record every response the two apes make on the keyboard and study them statistically for evidence of understanding.

The computer also will control vending machines. If Biji correctly asks for something to eat, or a blanket, for instance, the computer will allow the reward to be dispensed.

The project, headed by Dr. Duane Rumbaugh, a specialist in primate intelligence at Yerkes, is trying to find out definitely just how much capacity for language animals have.

Male Divorcees Suicide-Prone

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A man is twice as likely as a woman to commit suicide after his marriage breaks up because men undergo more emotional strain from divorce than women do, according to a psychiatrist with extensive suicide counselling experience.

Dr. Robert E. Litman of the University of Southern California, medical director of the Los Angeles suicide prevention centre, spoke at a symposium on suicide prevention sponsored by the university and the county medical association.

He praised the change in California's divorce law, which now grants divorces based on grounds of "irreconcilable differences" rather than requiring one of the partners to prove the other was at fault in breaking up the marriage.

The change eases the pressures on recently divorced men that drive them to suicide, he said.

Divorce is a greater upheaval for a man because it is usually the man that moves out of the home, Litman said. The wife may remain behind, in familiar surroundings, usually with the children and the comforts of her home, but the man has to leave and begin anew.

Under the old system of proving fault to obtain a divorce, it was usually the man who took the blame, he said.

"He felt as if he were being trampled under by wife, the courts and the lawyers, and in some cases felt like he might as well kill himself," Litman said.

You can have detailed instructions for two different kinds. One pullover is for size 38 and a combination of two easy - eye - catching patterns. The other is for size 10-12. Except for the collar, this has a lacy look. Both have short sleeves.

On the same pattern sheet are directions to knit a twinset for a 6-year-old girl. The pullover sports a ribbed neck, short sleeves and gay stripes around the waist.

Lula Leads Double Life

TORONTO (CP) — Lula Johns leads a double life.

For 9½ months each year she is a stenographer in a federal government office in Whitehorse, Yukon, whose business is to persuade companies setting up in the North to hire local people and not bring all their staff in from out side.

For the other 2½ months, Lula is cook and guide for big-game hunters.

Raised in Bush

Slender, attractive and 21, Lula is doing a swing through several cities as Miss Arctic Winter Games to publicize the second annual games to be held in Whitehorse March 6 to 11.

Lula says she learned her outdoor skills at her mother's knee.

"I was raised in the bush, born and raised in Beaver Creek. It has a population of about 200. It's a customs stop just at the Alaska border.

Outfitter Boss

"Mother trapped for a living after my dad died. After I went away to school I used to go camping during the summer as a way of life."

For several years she has worked with Belle Des Rosiers, an outfitter who takes hunters on two-and three-week hunts for big game. Most of them are after heads and hides as trophies.

"Most of the hunters are from the United States and Europe, we get very few Canadians.

"Grizzly, moose, caribou, sheep really draw the hunters. Beacuse the game laws are selective, the Yukon and Alaska are about the last places where you can get trophies."

Simple Herb Garden Spices Up Mealtime

The use of herbs as foods is not a new development as you might think from some current literature, for the word in the English language originally meant just any food or medicinal plant with a non-woody stem.

With the passing of year, herbs have become a class of plants used for flavoring of other foods, but with an increasing accent on their nutritional values.

While some European countries have conducted research into the active principles of herbs little has been accomplished elsewhere. The need for wider use of fresh herbs has nevertheless grown in the last 20 years probably as an outcome of processed, packaged foods, and meat products raised on what might be described as an artificial basis.

Today we use herbs freely, so we might as well grow as many for our own use as are possible. Very little space is needed if we grow only a half dozen of the best.

My choice of recommendations for today's planning of a spring herb garden — balcony planter tubs or sunny garden plot — may surprise you.

Land Cress, or American Cress, is easily grown from seed. One or two plants give abundant leaves for every-day use. In summer allow one plant to set a pod or two of seed, which will germinate on the spot to give young plants for overwinter picking.

Nasturtums (the dwarf have better flavor) are favorite flowering plants for quick growth. Young leaves have a delicious peppery flavor somewhat like the Land Cress, and are available just when the Cress may go out of production in late summer. For sandwiches and salads; a flower or two add their goodness and color appeal to salads.

The lowly Pot Marigold (Scotch Marigold, Calendula) has been used for centuries as a food colorant for butter, custards and cakes. The petals pulled from the flower are added to salads as an edible decoration, and young leaves add a tang to a bought lettuce salad.

Chickweed, that little weed so prolific in local gardens during March is full of the good things of the earth. Just when we need a spring tonic, there it is ready made for the pulling. With a good soil you will always have it without the trouble of sowing.

So long as we keep our gardens free from harmful spray material which may drift to our herbs, vegetables or edible "weeds," there is a source of food in a balcony tub or a garden plot to add interest and zest to everyday meals limited by budgetary ills.

All they need is a quick washing in water and drying in a clean cloth. They do not need salt and pepper to be palatable; in fact their use decreases the desire for these condiments.

As well as for instant eating, the plants mentioned are added to soups, casseroles and other vegetables near the end of the normal cooking period.

SOLUTION TUESDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Among the captains of industry who have been good bridge players was the late Charles M. Schwab, noted financier and steel magnate. He was president of the Whist Club of New York, played on its teams, and was ex-officio member of the committee that originated the first International Code of Contract Bridge Laws in 1932.

Schwab played regularly in the highest-stake bridge games on record, $1 per point in the United States, and approximately $2 per point at London's Portland Club.

Here is an example of his ability. The deal occurred in a team match. Schwab was the South declarer.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH
♠ A J 2
♡ A 8 4 3
◇ Q 10 3
♣ K 10 7

WEST
♠ 10 9 8 5 3
♡ Q 10 7 5
◇ 7 4
♣ 6 5

EAST
♠ Q 7 4
♡ K 9 6
◇ 8 6 2
♣ J 8 4 2

SOUTH
♠ K 6
♡ J 2
◇ A K J 9 5
♣ A Q 9 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
6 ◇	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

Schwab put up dummy's jack of spades in the opening lead, East covered with the queen, and South captured the trick with his king.

It was quite apparent to declarer that the loss of a heart trick would be unavoidable. Nevertheless, the chances of fulfilling the slam appeared bright, for if the six outstanding clubs were divided 3-3, or if either opponent held the doubleton J-x of clubs, then by simply cashing the king, ace, and queen of clubs, the loss of a club trick would be avoided.

At trick two a trump to dummy's queen was led, after which South cashed his ace of trumps. Schwab now stopped playing trumps, leaving dummy with the high ten, and East with the outstanding adversely-held trump.

Next came a club to dummy's king, after which a club was returned to South's ace. Then came the queen of clubs, West discarding a spade. South's remaining club was now trumped with the board's high ten of diamonds.

The ace of hearts was then cashed, and a second heart led, East's king winning. East returned a third heart, which South ruffed. He then picked up East's last trump, and claimed his contract.

Schwab played the hand correctly. If the adversely-held clubs were divided 3-3, then the defender (East) who had the outstanding trump would have to follow suit to the third club lead. And if the defender with the outstanding trump happened to have four clubs (As was the case) then he would be powerless to prevent South from ruffing his last club with dummy's remaining trump.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me: thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

PSALM 23.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Is Sugar a Dangerous Food?

Of late, a number of people have been having great fun, telling us that some food or other is dangerous to health and life, and we must stop eating it. The latest food to be attacked is good old sugar, which I have been ingesting for more than 80 years without suffering any injury that I can recognize. I was brought up in Hawaii, where I could go into one of Mr. Dale's sugar plantations and be given a length of sugar cane or a glassful of cane juice.

I have received the papers that have recently come out attacking sugar, and they have not frightened me. I am going to continue taking a little sugar on some of my foods.

It always seems a puzzle to me that people who can become very upset about a chemical for a certain type of food that they feel is very dangerous, may at the same time be smoking cigarettes, which have been proven to be harmful to people's lungs and other organs of their body.

A NEW SUTURE FOR SURGICAL USE

As most people know, the common suture material for wounds has been catgut. Now, I read that much study of a new synthetic chemically produced suture has satisfied many surgeons that it is not irritating to human tissues and is very strong. After a while it is absorbed. It looks now as if it could replace catgut. The material is called Dexon.

BREAST PAP SMEARS

Thousands of women are living in good health today because some years ago Dr. Papanicolao devised a method of microscopically studying the mucus taken from the neck of a womb. In this way he could recognize cancer cells long before a tumor appeared.

Now I read that Dr. Otto W. Sartorius, of Santa Barbara, Calif., is extracting breast fluid through a woman's nipples and is studying the cells in it microscopically. A recently designed breast pump obtained secretions in 72 per cent of the women tested and a microscopical study of these fluids showed whether or not a cancer was beginning in the breast.

Asks for your vote on March 11th for School Trustee in the Greater Victoria School District. Save your home from more taxes, because it is my opinion the defeat of the $412,000 referendum will not in any way decrease the quality of education in School District No. 61. Since 1960 the cost of education per pupil has doubled in Greater Victoria. Vote to have education at a reasonable cost, not at any cost. Elect Richards on March 11th, for School Trustee. HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc. for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call.

Too Late To Stop Quebec?

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Charon, a Parti Quebecois member of the Quebec legislature, said Saturday Quebec will separate and it's too late for the rest of Canada to do anything about it.

Mr. Charon, speaking on a panel discussion at Atkinson College, said response to French Canadian demands "always came too late" and English-speaking Canada should let Quebec go.

He said that by passing the War Measures Act during the Front de Liberation du Quebec crisis in October, 1970, the Trudeau government started a pendulum swinging toward Quebec independence.

Pauline Julien, a French Canadian singer and supporter of separatism who was jailed under the act, said one of its results was that many persons in Quebec now feel terrorism can be . . . a short cut to independence."

"Complete approval of the act by English Canada was the drop that made the water go overboard."

Burst Dam's Toll Climbs

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — The toll of known dead from the Feb. 26 flood in Buffalo Creek Hollow has risen to 103 and authorities say some 100 other persons are still missing.

Ten more bodies were found Sunday as National Guard troops used heavy equipment to comb the wreckage of 16 coal camps which were in the path of a torrent of water released when a dam of coal mine waste broke.

Guard officers estimated they have checked more than 70 per cent of the debris left in the wake of the flood down the 17-mile valley, but they declined to predict when the job will be completed.

Boat Rescued From Rocks

The Victoria troller Saturna Maid was towed into Oak Bay Marina Saturday afternoon by the marina's rescue boat after being blown on to rocks below the Victoria Golf Club.

The fishboat ran out of gas and southeasterly winds set her on the rocks at a point in the vicinity of Trial Island.

Fined $750

BURNABY (CP) — Hilliard Derouin, 37, of Burnaby, was fined $750 in Vancouver provincial court after pleading guilty on a charge of refusing to take a breath analysis test. Derouin admitted refusing to take the test when suspected of impaired driving. An impaired driving charge was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Coalition to Fight Gaglardi Power Grab

VANCOUVER (CP) — A coalition against Bill 49, the bill introduced in the legislature last week giving Rehabilitation Minister P. A. Gaglardii "absolute discretion" on welfare eligibility and rate schedules, was formed Sunday.

The committee directed the Vancouver Community Legal Assistance Society to take action before the B.C. Supreme Court on the principle that the legislature cannot give up its responsibility to legislate by handing over its powers to Gaglardi.

The committee said the battle will be based on four points: To stop passage of the bill; that welfare be guaranteed as a right, to be determined solely on the criteria of need; to have a definition of need included in the Social Assistance Act; and to have appeal board decisions binding on both sides.

The welfare appeal board ordered higher payments for a Vancouver family last year, but the increased payments were not made. The new legislation, introduced as Bill 49, makes it clear that the government is not bound by appeal board decisions.

b.c. briefs

Finding Challenged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Charles Fleming, the city's corporation counsel, has taken issue with provincial court judge Gerald Levey's finding that Vancouver's rental accommodation grievance board conflicts with provincial legislation.

In a report to go before council Tuesday, Fleming says that while the 1970 Landlord and Tenant Act may have some effect on the board's powers, it does not completely eradicate them.

Judge Levey, in dealing with three cases which came before him last month because they were continuing disputes, said the city bylaw under which the board operates is an "unlawful usurpation" of the legislature's authority.

Raceway Must Go

MATSQUI (CP) — Municipal council's development committee has ruled that Stampeder Motor Park, a motorcycle racing way near this Fraser Valley community, must be relocated before April.

The committee said the park must be moved to a location of more than 150 acres, and must be screened by trees to reduce the noise produced by the motorcycles.

Height Limit Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's director of planning and development will recommend to council that buildings along the Kitsilano waterfront be limited to a maximum 35 feet in height.

This would effectively limit all construction in the area to buildings of no more than three stories and could halt work on a 10-storey project started recently by Vancouver developer Ben Wosk opposite Kitsilano Pool.

Play Promoted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Students at Kitsilano Secondary School have asked city council for $75 to help offset the cost of entertaining the crews of freighters riding at anchor in English Bay for three hours next Wednesday.

The students have hired the Edgewater Fortune, a converted minesweeper, for the day to entertain men aboard the ships off Point Grey and promote their production of Annie Get Your Gun, scheduled for March 14 to 16.

Bennett Too Busy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett will not meet Vancouver city council representatives to hear an appeal that the province's per capita grant to municipalities be increased this year. L. J. Wallace, the premier's deputy assistant, said in a letter to council: "Because of the very heavy legislative duties of the prime minister it is not possible for him to receive a delegation from Vancouver city council at this time."

3-Year Program

PENTICTON (CP) — A three-year program to combat the non-medical use of drugs, sponsored by the South Okanagan Human Resources Society, has been approved in principle by Ottawa. The program will involve $80,000 a year for three years.

NO RAPID TRANSIT POLICY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford said at the weekend the federal government has no set policy on rapid transit.

Basford told a meeting called to discuss a proposed third crossing of Vancouver harbor that federal money used in other cities to finance rapid transit all was granted as loans to provincial governments.

"People say we favor rapid transit because several million dollars came from federal sources to build the Toronto subway system," he said.

"This is wrong. We just loaned the money to the Ontario government and it spent the money where it saw fit.

"This year British Columbia received $22.7 million it could have spent on rapid transit, but it chose not to," Basford said.

A public hearing on the proposed third crossing is scheduled for March 15 in Vancouver.

Hoods Killed Youth?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The mother of a 15-year-old Ladner boy, whose body was found shot and weighted down with cement here Firday, said Sunday her son had been trying to break away from a gang of juvenile hoodlums.

Mrs. Eileen Mawdsley said in an interview with Vancouver Province reporter Pat Johnson that her son Ross was waiting for admittance to Brannan Lake Boys' School, a Vancouver Island reformatory, after being convicted on a number of charges of car theft and vandalism.

She said he had dropped out of school in an effort to break away from the gang he had been associating with, and his death may have resulted from fear by some members that he would tell police about crimes committed by the gang.

BODY FOUND

She spoke to reporters at her home in Ladner a short time after police released the name of her son.

The boy's body was discovered in False Creek in the heart of Vancouver's industrial district Friday. Police said the body was weighted down with a block of cement and that the boy had been shot in the head several times before his body was dropped into the water.

Mrs. Mawdsley insists drugs aren't involved in her son's death. She said he had learned his lesson after spending some time in hospital two years ago after a bad LSD trip.

Mrs. Mawdsley admitted her son had several scrapes with the law in connection with charges of car theft and vandalism which resulted in the pending training school term.

"But he realized how he was hurting his mother and he was ready to accept his punishment and straighten out," said Mrs. Mawdsley's brother Jim Tupper.

Tupper, like most gathered in the Mawdsley household, was deeply disturbed over the unexpected death. "I'd like to

Yes, Traffic Was Flowing on Sunday

That was a road, that was. Engulfed in a torrent of water, Interurban Road in Saanich was just one of many roads in Greater Victoria made almost impassable by a weekend of non-stop heavy rain. The downpour which flooded many basements, was the wettest on record. (John McKay photo.)

Slides Block Roads, Rails Three Killed

Times-News Services

Three men died in a snowslide north of Hope Sunday as heavy rain hit southern British Columbia and Vancouver Island, blocking highways and rail lines.

The men, employees of Giant Mascot Mines eight miles north of Hope, about 100 miles northeast of Vancouver, were killed when their truck was hit by a snowslide on a mine access road running off the Fraser Canyon Highway.

The men were identified as Walter Russel Morphy, 51, of Rosedale; Stefan Mista, 46, of Yarrow, and Fred Joseph Wehner, 47, of Hope.

In Greater Victoria it was the heaviest March rainfall on record, with many areas swamped by more than 3½ inches in 36 hours. (See Page 19.)

BASEMENTS FLOODED

Roads became rushing streams as ditches overflowed, and hundreds of homeowners inundated municipal works departments with requests for help as their basements flooded.

Flat lands were turned into miniature lakes, and the Sooke Road was impassable for more than eight hours Sunday.

The Hope-Princeton Highway remained open Sunday night but the Fraser Canyon Highway was closed indefinitely to through traffic because of snowslides.

PASS CLOSED

Farther east, the Rogers Pass was expected to be reopened today after weekend closures.

Snowslides also affected rail travel, blocking both Canadian National and CP Rail lines through the Fraser Canyon. CN's line was blocked for about 14 hours Sunday and a CN passenger train rerouted over CP Rail tracks was further delayed by a slide which derailed two freight cars and blocked the CP Rail line overnight.

Extensive flooding was also reported in the upper Fraser Valley.

The weather office reported 2.45 inches of rain at Abbotsford in 24 hours and 2.80 inches at Hope in 18 hours.

Stormy weather kept the two-man submersible Nekton

TROUBLED PILOT NOT A NATIVE

KELSEY BAY (CP) — The pilot made a forced landing on a paved logging road in this Vancouver Island community and RCMP Constable Stan Nestibo greeted the five occupants.

"Where are we," asked the pilot.

"Kelsey Bay," was the response.

"Where's that?"

"Vancouver Island."

"Is that Canada or the U.S."

That's how Constable Nestibo describes the conversation of Friday, when pilot Ernie Lampert of Eagle River, Alaska, landed his twin-engine plane after dark, missing overhead wires, bunkhouses and stopping short of a large garage.

On Saturday, pilot Lampert made adjustments, took off on a clear stretch of logging road — and returned five minutes later with more engine trouble.

The language this time was more colorful, but less quotable.

The plane was still here Sunday night, while Mr. Lampert and his four passengers went to Campbell River, hoping to rent a car to drive to Seattle.

'Wave of Revulsion' Follows Belfast Blast

Times News Service

A wave of revulsion swept both Irelands today after the weekend bombing of a central Belfast restaurant crowded with shoppers, killing two and wounding 136 other people.

The Irish Republican Army, fighting to unite Ireland and to expel the British from Northern Ireland, denied it had anything to do with planting of the powerful explosive device.

The IRA blamed it on Protestant extremists to whip up public anger against the guerrillas.

But police in Belfast claim the bombing was done by IRA terrorists who planted the gelignite charge in the Abercorn restaurant.

A spokesman for Sinn Fein, the political organization of the IRA's Official wing, said in Dublin: "We have consistently condemned attacks upon civilian installations and we would very strongly condemn this one."

The blast shocked even the most hard-bitten communities of strife-torn Ulster and provoked a storm of protest from church and political leaders.

Many of the injured were maimed for life—including two sisters who had their legs blown off.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic appealed to the IRA to suspend its campaign of violence in Northern Ireland. But he made clear he was not accusing the underground organization of responsibility for the blast.

Lynch said the tragedy had filled all Irish people with horror and shame.

In Belfast, another bomb exploded in a parking lot behind a big movie theatre in central Belfast today, wounding about 20 persons.

The blast came in mid-afternoon behind the Ritz Cinema at the junction of Grosvenor Road and Great Victoria St., close to the Northern Ireland capital's main railway station.

People rushed screaming from the Ritz and two neighboring movie houses. Fleets of ambulances ferried away the injured, most of them suffering from shock and cuts from flying glass.

The blast blew in windows of the Europa Hotel about 100 yards away. The Europa is Belfast's newest and largest hotel.

Train Cars Dangle

GRAND'MERE, Que. (CP) — Two CNR crane crews dangled over a bridge followaway three freight cars that were working today to clearing a 17-car derailment Sunday at Grand'Mere, 85 miles northeast of Montreal. Police said one of the cars had slipped over the side of the bridge, rolled down a small embankment and "nearly went into the St. Maurice River," 50 feet below. No one was injured and the cause of the derailment is still under investigation.

Grass 'Impairs'

TORONTO (CP) — Some former users say marijuana can impair the ability to work effectively, a survey released Sunday claims. The survey, conducted by Narconon, a rehabilitation program for drug addicts, came one week after a study by the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation found that daily smoking of marijuana causes no adverse physical, psychiatric or social effects in the short term.

Yves Geoffroy Recaptured

MONTREAL (CP) — Convicted murderer Yves Geoffroy and Carmen Parent, his bride of 10 weeks, were arrested today in Barcelona, Spain, and Canadian and Spanish authorities now are working out details of their return to Canada.

Quebec Provincial Police said the arrests were made at noon, Spanish time, today in the Gran Villa hotel in Barcelona.

A spokesman for Solicitor-General Jeanne-Pierre Goyer said, in the first announcement of the arrests, that the couple was picked up during the weekend.

Mr. Goyer said in an interview here before travelling to Ottawa that he could not say "exactly" when the couple might be returned but police had assurances from Spanish authorities that they "won't be released before we explore all the legal possibilities."

Police said QPP Corporal Sylvano Tendi and Denis Giguere and an RCMP officer, as well as Barcelona police, made the arrests.

Geoffroy failed to return to prison here when granted compassionate leave after serving 14 months of a life sentence for strangling his first wife and setting fire to a bed on which her body was found, in an attempt to make her death appear accidental.

An autopsy showed later she was strangled.

MARRIED HIS MISTRESS

Miss Parent, Geoffroy's mistress, married him Dec. 24, the day he disappeared while out on a three-day pass from nearby St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

In Ottawa, an External Affairs Department spokesman said Canada and Spain have an extradition treaty dating back to 1978 which covers persons convicted of murder.

Miss Parent has been charged with making a false written statement to gain a passport for Geoffroy, providing a document she knew was false, making use of a document she knew was false and illegal possession of a passport.

The spokesman said these charges are not covered by the extradition treaty with Spain.

The spokesman said numerous possibilities were being studied but no request had been made as yet to the Spanish government for extradition of the Geoffroys, as far as he knew.

There was a possibility that Spanish law provided for deportation or persons using a false passport. There is such a provision in Canadian law.

Wind Frees Ferries

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — A change of wind and shifting ice early today allowed three Canadian National ferries to break free of heavy ice in the Cabot Strait where some 18 to 36 vessels were held immobile during the weekend.

Five icebreakers worked through the ice field, opening lanes for about 30 ships that required assistance. None of the ships was in danger.

A CN spokesman at North Sydney said the passenger-and-car ferry William Carson was able to make Port Aux Basques, Nfld., early today and was en route back to North Sydney.

The passenger-and-car ferry Ambrose Shea and the rail-car ferry Frederick Carter were reported en route to North Sydney after breaking free early today when winds changed to the west and the ice moved out.

The Ambrose Shea and William Carson had more than 130 passengers aboard when they became trapped Saturday.

40 Feared Dead After Explosion

From AP-REUTER

BARCELONA (CP) — Rescuers pulled 12 bodies from the debris of a 10-storey apartment house early today after an explosion collapsed the structure. Police feared 20 or 30 more persons were trapped in the wreckage.

The 10-year-old building in a hilly residential section blew up while most of its 50 residents were asleep. Many of the apartment dwellers were believed to be Latin Americans.

The explosion was traced to the fourth floor, and City Engineer Esteban Rifa said he believed a gas leak was responsible.

Three hundred police, firemen and students from Barcelona University struggled with the debris, looking for the victims.

The blast blew out the walls of the building, and authorities said all 10 storeys collapsed. Windows in nearby buildings were shattered.

Each of the 10 storeys of the building contained one apartment, with most of them housing a family of four or more.

CHILDREN FOUND

Bodies of several children were among the first recovered.

The building collapsed at about 1 a.m. after it was rocked by an explosion heard up to two miles away and which shattered windows within a radius of 200 yards.

One man was saved from the eighth floor by a crane. He was spotted clinging to a window in the back wall of the building— the only part left standing after the explosion.

The building split down the middle and crashed to the ground after the blast.

Last September, 1970, a nine-storey apartment building being built in Almeria collapsed when nearly completed, killing 15 workmen.

He said Sunday night that the initial results were too close to indicate a likely outcome.

He said the National Assembly will meet April 14 to discuss an interim constitution.

The president said these and other points were agreed upon in discussions he held with leaders of the National Awami party and the Jamiat al Ulema political party.

Bhutto and the Pakistan political leaders signed the agreement earlier Monday in Rawalpindi.

Indian Leaders Ask RCMP Be Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Indian leaders, angered by the accidental death verdict in the controversial death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt, said Saturday Attorney-General Les Peterson will be asked to lay charges against at least one of two RCMP officers involved in the case.

Clarence Dennis, a spokesman for the Fred Quilt Committee, said legal advisers have informed the committee that, based on evidence at an inquest into the death, there is enough evidence to lay a charge of manslaughter against one constable.

Mr. Quilt, 55, a member of the Stone band of the Chilcotins, died in hospital at Williams Lake Nov. 30 on infection from a perforated intestine.

An inquest jury ruled the death accidental, but others allege he was beaten two days before he died by two RCMP officers from the Alexis Creek detachment in Central British Columbia.

A man's shirt and undershirt stained with what is believed to be blood were entered as new evidence Friday as B.C. supervising coroner Glen McDonald proceeded with a review of the case on orders from Mr. Peterson.

Nixon's Goal Wasn't Peace: Pravda

MOSCOW — President Nixon went to China to exploit Peking's anti-Soviet policies, and not out of concern for peace in Asia, the Soviet Union's Communist Party newspaper said Sunday.

In the harshest and most authoritative comment yet published here on Mr. Nixon's trip, a commentator in Pravda gave a thoroughly negative interpretation of the Peking summit meeting.

By implication, at least, this kind of commentary bodes ill for Mr. Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union in May. Many Western diplomats contend, however, that propaganda will be forgotten when it comes time to do serious business with the Americans later this spring.

According to Sunday's Pravda, President Nixon's voyage did not alter the American policy of trying to maintain "supremacy" in Asia. In this regard, the paper said, U.S. policy has remained the same "since the time of General (Douglas) MacArthur."

Proof of this, Pravda said, was America's persistence in upholding all the old elements of U.S. policy — "aggression in Indochina, occupation of South Korea, military bases all around the periphery of the Far East and Southeast Asia."

Because these "remain unchanged," Pravda says, "one can suppose that China's anti-Soviet course pushed Washington into this new step (the Nixon trip) more than any concern about peace in that (Asian) region."

Consistent with the Soviet policy of playing down Mr. Nixon's trip, these harsh words appeared near the end of a 2,500-word review of world affairs written by Georgi Ratiani, chief of Pravda's American department. Nevertheless, they are a clear signal to the party workers who study Pravda closely that this is the line they should take on the Peking summit.

Though the Soviet papers have not published major commentaries devoted entirely to the new state of Sino-American relations, an accumulation of evidence — including Sunday's Pravda commentary — has now conveyed a general picture to careful Soviet readers.

That picture contains these elements:

—The Nixon trip was a hostile act to the Soviet Union, because it represented an American attempt to exploit China's anti-Soviet position.

—The trip produced more than was revealed in the communique (which has been fairly summarized but not yet printed here in full). Mr. Nixon's talks with Mao Tse-tung and Chao En-lai were held in utmost secrecy. By implication, the Soviet reader has been invited to conclude that Washington and Peking may have reached secret agreements, perhaps directed against the Soviet Union.

—Mr. Nixon's desire to visit China was connected with this year's presidential elections in the United States.

—By receiving Mr. Nixon as they did, the Chinese leaders have further demonstrated their disregard for the values which "good Communists" (those loyal to Moscow) should respect.

China has been more sharply criticized here than the U.S. since the end of the Peking summit. The Soviet press has not mentioned the theory — popular among Western commentators — that the Americans made significant concessions in Peking. Instead, the papers here suggest that Peking made all the concessions to the "imperialists."

This Boat, I Thee Wed —But Not With a Buddy

The perverse and beautiful thing about the human race, said he, tapping the dottle in his pipe, is its capacity for dreaming the impossible dream.

You'll forgive the old philosopher — won't you? — but that was the thought I brought away from a visit last week to the Vancouver Boat Show and the discovery that certain builders of small craft are still trying to sell their products on The Buddy System. It was, I need hardly add, the only thing I brought away.

So you've led a protected, sheltered life and haven't yet heard of The Buddy System? Then tip-toe quietly away before the idea starts to appeal to your better nature and your sweet, shining faith in the essential goodness of mankind. Because believe me, mate, The Buddy System is Russian Roulette played with boats.

It is all explained in one of the brochures given out at the show by a hard-selling yacht brokerage and, like most cases of unpremeditated homicide, it seems simple and innocent enough on the surface.

"You and your best buddy decide to purchase one of the great variety of power cruisers or sailing vessels that we offer for discriminating yachtsmen," the message goes. "Under The Buddy System you split the costs of purchase, operation, wharfage, monthly payments. Family Number One uses the boat one week, Family Number Two the next. For no more outlay than you intended you become co-owner of twice the boat you had in mind. Ask about our convenient Buddy System of financing . . ."

★ ★ ★

That was all I required to read before my head was fairly dancing with images of buddies slowly shoving other buddies beneath the harbor ripples, of shots and muffled screams in the soft summer nights, of cherished friendships dissolved in bickering, barratry and burial at sea.

Not once, but twice in the innocent days of my youth I shared co-ownership of sea-going craft, one a Bermuda-rigged Newfoundland dory, the other a submersible ketch of no recognized design, and saw the eternal flame of friendship cool, flicker and flutter to extinction. It may be fairly said that friends who share a boat need no enemies.

I would suppose that next to sharing a wife nothing is more calculated to lead to cold-blooded murder as readily as sharing a boat. If it were a new boat — "twice the boat you had in mind" — it might be an even deadlier arrangement.

There is, to begin with, that well-known, immutable law that decrees that a half-owner of anything will manage to wreck it.

Just the contemplation of buddying-up with a man as possessive as the average boat-owner and you can visualize every cruising ground as one unending series of reefs, shoals, deadheads, tidal waves and a wide assortment of the perils of the deep that await Family Number One.

I can hear myself, cast in this role, babbling. "Well, it's your week, buddy. You'll find her up on Race Rocks, just below the lighthouse."

Even if such a fate might be avoided a thinking man could anticipate the swift erosion of a lifetime of compatibility through those attitudes of proprietorship that are so characteristic of yachtsman, the kind of thing that transforms Caspar Milquetoast into Captain Bligh the instant he steps aboard anything afloat that measures over nine feet in length.

★ ★ ★

I keep thinking of my buddy Tom Ayres, a prince ashore, a martinet in command of his 21-footer. We've been bosom pals for years, but the moment I step aboard his face goes all cold and distant as he bends over the maze of charts he seems to require for a boat that draws 18 inches and grunts, "You can cast off the lines, Whatever-your-name-is."

Along with the visions of human assault and battery and the buddy ship slipping smoothly to the bottom I can imagine subtler consequences in the form of dialogue.

Here, for example, is the head of Family Number Two, taking over the bridge, as it were, for his week of ownership and, smiling much too broadly, remarking, "Galley's in a bit of a mess, eh, old buddy? Guess we ought to have a sort of agreement about not putting the empty clam-shells under the mattresses, eh, old buddy?"

Or the head of Family Number One, the type with a flair for mechanics who often spend an entire summer hunched over a motor, drawing back his lips in a ghastly grin and remarking, "Running a bit rough, isn't she, old buddy? I hear you've been pounding her full out to Long Harbor. Of course, that's your privilege old buddy, but . . ."

If it isn't that it will be the ladies, chuckling and adamant in their conflicting choices of blue polka-dots or green striped curtains in the cabin.

Either way lies the predictable path to mayhem, the logbook drenched in human blood, the gallant little ship sawed neatly in two amidships as the final settlement, the Buddy System on the rocks.

1 Dead 5 Hurt

One man was killed and five others injured in a grinding two-car collision at the corner of Fort and Oak Bay about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Ronald Morriss, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Morriss, 2720 Foul Bay, died at 9:10 a.m. after emergency surgery for head injuries at Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was a passenger in the car at left.

Injured were the dead man's brother, Alan, 17, with minor bruises; Mark McLeod, 18, of 2154 Windsor, head injuries; David Anderson, 17, of 2671 Dufferin, head injuries; Tim Soutiere, 19, of 1189 Roslyn, face cuts; and the driver of the car at lower left, Wayne Trueman, 25, of a downtown motel.

Anderson and McLeod are in good condition in hospital.

Soggy Sunday: It Was a Day To Muck About

By PAUL MOSS and PAT DUFOUR

It was the wettest weekend yet in Greater Victoria's continuing winter of discontent, and the weathermen say it was probably the biggest March downpour on record.

Incessant heavy rain, at times almost tropical in intensity, turned low-lying areas into lakes, swamped and closed roads, caused mudslides and washouts and left hundreds of homeowners struggling knee-deep in flooded basements.

Weatherman Allan McQuarrie said today comparative figures weren't immediately available, but added: "I guess you could say it was a record rainfall."

From mid-afternoon Saturday when the rain started, to early this morning, most of Greater Victoria had squelched and soaked under a minimum three-inch downpour.

Although the Gonzales weather station showed a mere 2.77 inches, at Tillicum it was 3.77 while the Dockyard area recorded 4.18.

But Sooke residents had it worst of all. There the weekend rainfall measurement was a massive 4.34 inches.

The Gonzales station recorded 2.35 inches in the 18-hour period from 10 p.m. Saturday to 4 p.m. Sunday, and more than an inch of that fell in the six hours from 4 to 10 a.m. Sunday.

Two or three feet of water on the Sooke Road, in the vicinity of Kangaroo Road, forced the road to be closed for about eight hours Sunday afternoon and evening.

At first traffic was able to use East Sooke Road as a detour route, but that road itself flooded until it became impassable by 7 p.m. Sunday.

So for three hours, until both roads were reopened at about 10 o'clock, Sooke area residents were cut off from Victoria.

Happy Valley Road was also flooded, and washouts or partial washouts affected several minor roads in the Sooke and Metchosin areas.

Overnight, St. Mary's Priory Hospital at 567 Goldstream was without heat as 18 inches of water in the basement made the furnace unusable.

Once again, Saanich was the core municipality to suffer most. Normally, Sunday emergency calls for the public works department are handled by Saanich police, but Mayor Hugh Curtis said a special switchboard was kept open all day Sunday and handled some 400 calls.

Record Rainfall Wrecks Roads, Creates Slides, Floods Homes, Cuts Sooke Off

Curtis kept a personal watch on the municipality's task force efforts throughout the day, and toured some of the trouble spots with Ald. Les Passmore and Ald. Edith Gunning.

Nine full crews were working at the peak of the crisis, clearing debris-clogged ditches and answering residents' calls for help.

Acting municipal engineer John Cowlin said "a whole string of houses" on Olivia Place, east of Shelbourne and north of Cedar Hill Cross Road, was affected by flooding.

"We dug down to the drain and broke it, and it was like letting water out of a bath."

Another badly-hit area was McKenzie at Blenkinsop, where some houses were marooned by miniature lakes. A spectacular washout on Royal Oak Avenue eroded the shoulder of the road, producing a hole "big enough to put a bedroom in," Cowlin said.

At Hartland Road, leading to the Greater Victoria area's garbage dumping grounds, a pump was kept working all Sunday night to prevent a stream washing away the road. A washout Jan. 21 swept away a 70-foot section of the road.

In the city it was "pretty grim," said city engineer Jim Garnett.

The largest storm drains — five and a half by three and a half feet — were absolutely full, with the result that an uncountable number of basements must have been flooded.

Both Victoria and Oak Bay received more than 100 calls from residents. Engineering officials agreed that drainage system worked well, but said there was simply too much water for them to handle.

Holdups Admitted By Young Gunman

An 18-year-old city man who admitted being a heroin user for more than two years pleaded guilty in provincial court today to a raft of charges, including two armed holdups last month.

Allan R. Francis, of 2735 Asquith, was remanded to Tuesday morning for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Francis admitted two store holdups in which he threatened female cashiers with a .22-calibre pellet gun, his face covered with a scarf.

He got $133 from Don's Food Market, 99 Menzies, Feb. 3, and $2 from Shelbourne Grocery, 2672 Shelbourne, Feb. 7. Francis also admitted breaking, entering and theft at two homes and a service station later last month, in which loot included $1,000 in jewelry, a $500 color television set and cash.

Constable Lou Truesdale noted Francis had been a popular athlete and student before his heroin addiction began 2½ years ago.

Judge William Ostler commended the officer for his sympathy, and noted the accused was already on probation for other offences when the February crimes were commited.

"It's simply a matter of heroin," the judge said, "when fear of prison is transcended by the agony of doing without the drug.'

HELLYER TO SPEAK HERE AGAINST TRUDEAU POLICIES

Paul Hellyer, leader of Action Canada and a former Liberal cabinet minister, will address a public meeting Saturday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior High.

Hellyer, member for Toronto Trinity, is expected to speak on legislation enacted by the Trudeau government in 1969 which "effectively precludes the establishment of official recognition of any new political party in Canada."

Developer Fears Big Financial Loss

An office and medical building proposed for downtown Victoria has been caught in the gap created by the city's plan to limit the size of new construction.

The six-storey structure is planned for the northwest corner of Blanshard and Humboldt facing the Queen Victoria General Hospital.

In a letter to city council, G. H. Wheaton Ltd. says it "could be subjected to a considerable financial penalty" if the construction plans are not company understands from completed.

The letter also claims the city officials that the building may be allowed despite the fact the plans run counter to the proposed zoning changes.

Measures to be adopted by council on Thursday allow city hall to withhold issuing building permits for a 30-day period while the new laws are considered by council.

The letter from G. H. Wheaton company says its project was "favorably received as being complementary to the hospital precinct and convenient to nearby high-density residential area as well as downtown."

The project did not receive a building permit but did get "approval in principle," the letter says.

"We now seek your confirmation of this approval, since the development would not be feasible under the proposed regulations."

The letter says the company has made commitments to developers and to consulting engineers.

Cramped Liberals May Quit Office

Liberal MLAs may move out of the Legislative Buildings next year if they don't get better office quarters, the government has been warned.

In a letter to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, party president Mel Courvelier says the party will be forced to look elsewhere for office accommodation unless improvements are made.

Among his complaints are "a shameful absence of privacy, telephone services, working space and visitor reception areas."

★ ★ ★

"Working space is so limited that if two MLAs sharing an office are both conferring with visitors, phrases, knees and ashtrays are so intermingled that total confusion is the inevitable result," the letter states.

"Visitors to our caucus room not only do not have chairs to sit on there is literally no place to stand out of the line of traffic. If you were to provide us with a chair there would be not place we could put it," Couvelier wrote.

★ ★ ★

Couvelier also complained that three telephones were inadequate to serve five MLAs and four staff members.

The facilities are being occupied by the Liberals for the first time following renovations to the second floor of the legislative building last year. Previously, only women MLAs had offices.

Pampered Painting Arrives Here Wednesday

Around-the-Clock Guard to Watch Masterpiece

Pampered in a heated van, heated and equipped with full temperature and humidity controls, one of the finest paintings in the world will arrive in Victoria Wednesday.

Colin Graham, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria director, said it is the most important and valuable painting to be exhibited in Victoria. It will be on view at the gallery until March 20, when it will go to the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Graham said that special guards would protect the painting 24 hours a day during its stay in Victoria. The painting will also be covered by special insurance.

El Greco's canvas "Saint Francis and Brother Leo Meditating" is one of the major masterpieces in the National Gallery at Ottawa. Its appearance in Victoria inaugurates a trans-Canada tour of a select groups of civic galleries.

Graham said the work is considered the finest of some 30 known versions of the theme. It was virtually unknown until it was sold about 1927 from the church of Cristo de las Aguas a few miles from the Spanish town of Toledo where the master worked during the main years of his creative life. It passed to a London dealer and was acquired by the National Gallery in 1936.

The work dates from the opening years of the 17th century when the artist was in the last decade of his life and at the height of his powers. It represents the great religious leader with Brother Leo, his favorite disciple, meditating on Mount Laverna in Tuscany, Italy.

El Greco was born on the island of Crete, studied under Titian in Venice, and then settled in Toledo. Famous during his lifetime, El Greco's reputation declined after his death and it was not until the early part of this century that critics began to realize that he is one of the major geniuses of European painting, of a stature equal to Valesquez and Goya.

A feature of the display will be the availability of "Acoustiguides," electronic devices containing a recorded talk on the painting which visitors to the Gallery may carry with them in viewing the work.

Myron Laskin, the National Gallery's research curator and expert on old master paintings, is coming to Victoria to lecture at the gallery Wednesday night, at 8:30, on El Greco's place in 16th century art. The lecture is open to the public without charge.

Waste Burning Being Pushed

MONTREAL (CP)—A new waste treatment plant being built on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River could put an end to all liquid chemical pollution in the Montreal area by 1974.

Builder and owner of the plant is Goodfellow Enterprises (Sarnia) Ltd., a newly acquired subsidiary of the Montreal-based chemical giant Canadian Industries Ltd.

Before CIL made the acquisition, Goodfellow Enterprises had pioneered a method in Sarnia, Ont., of burning liquid organic chemical wastes in a combustion chamber fueled by oxygen.

R. J. Runcie, president of Goodfellow Enterprises, said the first phase of the plant will be completed in May and an expansion slated for 1974 will enable it to handle all liquid chemical wastes from industries within 75 miles of Montreal.

Whether industries like it or not, they will have to use the plant or some other similar facility. Quebec's proposed legislation will require elimination of such wastes in an "approved" manner.

Victor Goldbloom, Quebec minister of the environment, said the legislation will call for specialized treatment replacing the traditional Quebec method of dumping wastes into water courses and dry land pits.

Despite the difficulties in assessing relative dangers of various forms of pollution, Dr. Goldbloom places water pollution second only to air pollution in his list of clean-up priorities.

"We can't specify that any plant. But if that company company producing industrial pollution must use the new can't set up its own private facilities at its plant, then obviously it would have no other choice than to use the approved facilities at the south shore plant."

Liquid organic chemical wastes are made up of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen in various combinations and proportions.

REARRANGES CHEMICALS

The combustion process developed in Sarnia rearranges the chemicals into harmless carbon dioxide and water vapor which escape up the treatment plant's smokestack into the atmosphere.

Within two years, the CIL subsidiary expects to start work on the far more complicated problem of inorganic wastes such as acids.

Mr. Runcie said the new plant will be able to handle 12 million gallons minimum yearly.

"This is what we estimate will be needed for the Montreal industrial region. However, it would be simple to expand this to 16 million or 18 million gallons in a matter of months."

By eliminating all liquid chemical wastes in the heavily industrialized Montreal region, the south shore plant, if successful, will have the effect of cleaning up to 75 or 80 per cent of such wastes in the province.

Pollution Fighters Listed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Information on more than 50 groups and organizations concerned with British Columbia's anti-pollution movement is contained in a 56-page booklet published recently for Labatt Breweries of B.C. Ltd.

The booklet assesses work done by various groups fighting pollution, provides names and addresses for spokesmen and outlines federal and provincial environmental legislation.

The company said Cherry Ferguson, a 23-year-old law student at Dalhousie University in Halifax, was author of the publication.

It lists B.C.'s environmental organizations under four headings and consists of 19 anti-pollution groups, 15 conservation groups, eight university-based academic groups, and 15 chambers of commerce, labor unions, industrial and other professional groups.

The project started as a result of a company decision in 1970 to donate money to help needy, unemployed students.

The booklet was distributed recently to all British Columbia members of the legislature and MPs, although it is not for sale.

Search for Plane

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — A ground and air search was launched Sunday night for a Calgary couple missing aboard a twin-engine aircraft near here.

The Piper Comanche, with pilot Claude Nabors and his wife aboard, radioed the control tower here that it was coming in for an instrument landing at 7:45 p.m., and then was not heard from again.

It was dark and snowing at the time, with a temperature of nine above.

RCMP began a ground search of the area and a Buffalo aircraft was sent out from forces base at Comox. The missing plane was on a flight from Whitehorse, Y.T.

Nabors is president of Nabors Drilling Co. in Calgary.

Hoods Killed Youth?

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — The mother of a 15-year-old Ladner boy, whose body was found shot and weighted down with cement here Friday, said Sunday her son had been trying to break away from a gang of juvenile hoodlums.

Mrs. Eileen Mawdsley said in an interview with Vancouver Province reporter Pat Johnson that her son Ross was waiting for admittance to Brannan Lake Boys' School, a Vancouver Island reformatory, after being convicted on a number of charges of car theft and vandalism.

She said he had dropped out of school in an effort to break away from the gang he had been associating with, and his death may have resulted from fear by some members that he would tell police about crimes committed by the gang.

BODY FOUND

She spoke to reporters at her home in Ladner a short time after police released the name of her son.

The boy's body was discovered in False Creek in the heart of Vancouver's industrial district Friday. Police said the body was weighted down with a block of cement and that the boy had been shot in the head several times before his body was dropped into the water.

Mrs. Mawdsley insists drugs aren't involved in her son's death. She said he had learned his lesson after spending some time in hospital two years ago after a bad LSD trip.

Mrs. Mawdsley admitted her son had several scrapes with the law in connection with charges of car theft and vandalism which resulted in the pending training school term.

"But he realized how he was hurting his mother and he was ready to accept his punishment and straighten out," said Mrs. Mawdsley's brother Jim Tupper.

Tupper, like most gathered in the Mawdsley household, was deeply disturbed over the unexpected death. "I'd like to

Yes, Traffic Was Flowing on Sunday

That was a road, that was. Engulfed in a torrent of water, Interurban Road in Saanich was just one of many roads in Greater Victoria made almost impassable by a weekend of non-stop heavy rain. The downpour which flooded many basements, was the wettest on record. (John McKay photo.)

Slides Block Roads, Rails; Three Killed

Times News Services

Three men died in a snowslide north of Hope Sunday as heavy rain hit southern British Columbia and Vancouver Island, blocking highways and rail lines.

The men, employees of Giant Mascot Mines, eight miles north of Hope, about 100 miles northeast of Vancouver, were killed when their truck was hit by a snowslide on a mine access road running off the Fraser Canyon Highway.

The men were identified as Walter Russel Morphy, 51, of Rosedale; Stefan Mista, 46, of Yarrow, and Fred Joseph Wehner, 47, of Hope.

In Greater Victoria it was the heaviest March rainfall on record, with many areas swamped by more than 3½ inches in 36 hours. (See Page 19.)

BASEMENTS FLOODED

Roads became rushing streams as ditches overflowed, and hundreds of homeowners inundated municipal works departments with requests for help as their basements flooded.

Flat lands were turned into miniature lakes, and the Sooke Road was impassable for more than eight hours Sunday.

The Hope-Princeton Highway remained open Sunday night but the Fraser Canyon Highway was closed indefinitely to through traffic because of snowslides.

Farther east, the Rogers Pass was expected to be reopened today after weekend closures.

Snowslides also affected rail travel, blocking both Canadian National and CP Rail lines through the Fraser Canyon. CN's line was blocked for about 14 hours Sunday and a CN passenger train rerouted over CP Rail tracks was further delayed by a slide which derailed two freight cars and blocked the CP Rail line overnight.

Extensive flooding was also reported in the upper Fraser Valley.

The weather office reported 2.45 inches of rain at Abbotsford in 24 hours and 2.80 inches at Hope in 18 hours.

Stormy weather kept the two-man submersible Nekton

TROUBLED PILOT NOT A NATIVE

KELSEY BAY (CP) — The pilot made a forced landing on a paved logging road in this Vancouver Island community and RCMP Constable Stan Nestibo greeted the five occupants.

"Where are we," asked the pilot.

"Kelsey Bay," was the response.

"Where's that?"

"Vancouver Island."

"Is that Canada or the U.S."

That's how Constable Nestibo describes the conversation, Friday, when pilot Ernie Lampert of Eagle River, Alaska, landed his twin-engine plane after dark, missing overhead wires, bunkhouses and stopping short of a large garage.

On Saturday, pilot Lampert made adjustments, took off on a clear stretch of logging road — and returned five minutes later with more engine trouble.

The language this time was more colorful, but less quotable.

The plane was still here Sunday night, while Mr. Lampert and his four passengers went to Campbell River, hoping to rent a car to drive to Seattle.

Yves Geoffroy Recaptured

MONTREAL (CP) — Convicted murderer Yves Geoffroy and Carmen Parent, his bride of 10 weeks, were arrested today in Barcelona, Spain, and Canadian and Spanish authorities now are working out details of their return to Canada.

Quebec Provincial Police said the arrests were made at noon, Spanish time, today in the Gran Villa hotel in Barcelona.

A spokesman for Solicitor-General Jeanne-Pierre Goyer said, in the first announcement of the arrests, that the couple was picked up during the weekend.

Mr. Goyer said in an interview here before travelling to Ottawa that he could not say "exactly" when the couple might be returned but police had assurances from Spanish authorities that they "won't be released before we explore all the legal possibilities."

Police said QPP Corporal Sylvano Tendi and Denis Giguere and an RCMP officer, as well as Barcelona police, made the arrests.

Geoffroy failed to return to prison here when granted compassionate leave after serving 14 months of a life sentence for strangling his first wife and setting fire to a bed on which her body was found, in an attempt to make her death appear accidental.

An autopsy showed later she was strangled.

MARRIED HIS MISTRESS

Miss Parent, Geoffroy's mistress, married him Dec. 24, the day he disappeared while out on a three-day pass from nearby St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

In Ottawa, an External Affairs Department spokesman said Canada and Spain have an extradition treaty dating back to 1978 which covers persons convicted of murder.

Miss Parent has been charged with making a false written statement to gain a passport for Geoffroy, providing a document she knew was false, making use of a document she knew was false and illegal possession of a passport.

The spokesman said these charges are not covered by the extradition treaty with Spain.

The spokesman said numerous possibilities were being studied but no request had been made as yet to the Spanish government for extradition of the Geoffroys, as far as he knew.

There was a possibility that Spanish law provided for deportation or persons using a false passport. There is such a provision in Canadian law.

'Wave of Revulsion' Follows Belfast Blast

Times News Service

A wave of revulsion swept both Irelands today after the weekend bombing of a central Belfast restaurant, crowded with shoppers, killed two and wounded 136 other people.

The Irish Republican Army, fighting to unite Ireland and to expel the British from Northern Ireland, denied it had anything to do with planting of the powerful explosive device.

The IRA blamed it on Protestant extremists to whip up public anger against the guerrillas.

But police in Belfast claim the bombing was done by IRA terrorists who planted the gelignite charge in the Abercorn restaurant.

A spokesman for Sinn Fein, the political organization of the IRA's official wing, said in Dublin: "We have consistently condemned attacks upon civilian installations and we would very strongly condemn this one."

The blast shocked even the most hard-bitten communities of strife-torn Ulster and provoked a storm of protest from church and political leaders.

Many of the injured were maimed for life—including two sisters who had their legs blown off.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic appealed to the IRA to suspend its campaign of violence in Northern Ireland. But he made clear he was not accusing the underground organization of responsibility for the blast.

Lynch said the tragedy had filled all Irish people with horror and shame.

In Belfast, another bomb exploded in a parking lot behind a big movie theatre in central Belfast today, wounding about 20 persons.

The blast came in mid-afternoon behind the Ritz Cinema at the junction of Grosvenor Road and Great Victoria St., close to the Northern Ireland capital's main railway station.

People rushed screaming from the Ritz and two neighboring movie houses. Fleets of ambulances ferried away the injured, most of them suffering from shock and cuts from flying glass.

The blast blew in windows of the Europa Hotel about 100 yards away. The Europa is Belfast's newest and largest hotel.

Train Cars Dangle

GRAND'MERE, Que. (CP) — Two CNR crane crews were working today to clear away three freight cars that dangled over a bridge following a 17-car derailment Sunday at Grand'Mere, 85 miles northeast of Montreal. Police said one of the cars had slipped over the side of the bridge, rolled down a small embankment and "nearly went into the St. Maurice River," 50 feet below. No one was injured and the cause of the derailment is still under investigation.

40 Feared Dead After Explosion

From AP-REUTER

BARCELONA (CP) — Rescuers pulled 12 bodies from the debris of a 10-storey apartment house early today after an explosion collapsed the structure. Police feared 20 or 30 more persons were trapped in the wreckage.

The 10-year-old building in a hilly residential section blew up while most of its 50 residents were asleep. Many of the apartment dwellers were believed to be Latin Americans.

The explosion was traced to the fourth floor, and City Engineer Esteban Rifa said he believed a gas leak was responsible.

Three hundred police, firemen and students from Barcelona University struggled with the debris, looking for the victims.

The blast blew out the walls of the building, and authorities said all 10 storeys collapsed. Windows in nearby buildings were shattered.

Each of the 10 storeys of the building contained one apartment, with most of them housing a family of four or more.

CHILDREN FOUND

Bodies of several children were among the first recovered.

The building collapsed at about 1 a.m. after it was rocked by an explosion heard up to two miles away and which shattered windows within a radius of 200 yards.

One man was saved from the eighth floor by a crane. He was spotted clinging to a window in the back wall of the building— the only part left standing after the explosion.

The building split down the middle and crashed to the ground after the blast.

Last September, 1970, a nine-storey apartment building being built in Almeria collapsed when nearly completed, killing 15 workmen.

Bhutto and the Pakistan political leaders signed the agreement earlier Monday in Rawalpindi.

Wind Frees Ferries

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — A change of wind and shifting ice early today allowed three Canadian National ferries to break free of heavy ice in the Cabot Strait where some 18 to 36 vessels were held immobile during the weekend.

Five icebreakers worked through the ice field, opening lanes for about 30 ships that required assistance. None of the ships was in danger.

A CN spokesman at North Sydney said the passenger-and-car ferry William Carson was able to make Port Aux Basques, Nfld., early today and was en route back to North Sydney.

The passenger-and-car ferry Ambrose Shea and the rail-car ferry Frederick Carter were reported en route to North Sydney after breaking free early today when winds changed to the west and the ice moved out.

The Ambrose Shea and William Carson had more than 130 passengers aboard when they became trapped Saturday.

Indian Leaders Ask RCMP Be Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Indian leaders, angered by the accidental death verdict in the controversial death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt, said Saturday Attorney-General Les Peterson will be asked to lay charges against at least one of two RCMP officers involved in the case.

Clarence Dennis, a spokesman for the Fred Quilt Committee, said legal advisers have informed the committee that, based on evidence at an inquest into the death, there is enough evidence to lay a charge of manslaughter against one constable.

Mr. Quilt, 55, a member of the Stone band of the Chilcotins, died in hospital at Williams Lake Nov. 30 on infection from a perforated intestine.

An inquest jury ruled the death accidental, but others allege he was beaten two days before he died by two RCMP officers from the Alexis Creek detachment in Central British Columbia.

A man's shirt and undershirt stained with what is believed to be blood were entered as new evidence Friday as B.C. supervising coroner Glen McDonald proceeded with a review of the case on orders from Mr. Peterson.

Nixon's Goal Wasn't Peace: Pravda

MOSCOW (WP) — President Nixon went to China to exploit Peking's anti-Soviet policies, and not out of concern for peace in Asia, the Soviet Union's Communist Party newspaper said Sunday.

In the harshest and most authoritative comment yet published here on Mr. Nixon's trip, a commentator in Pravda gave a thoroughly negative interpretation of the Peking summit meeting.

By implication, at least, this kind of commentary bodes ill for Mr. Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union in May. Many Western diplomats contend, however, that propaganda will be forgotten when it comes time to do serious business with the Americans later this spring.

According to Sunday's Pravda, President Nixon's voyage did not alter the American policy of trying to maintain "supremacy" in Asia. In this regard, the paper said, U.S. policy has remained the same "since the time of General (Douglas) MacArthur."

Proof of this, Pravda said, was America's persistence in upholding all the old elements of U.S. policy — "aggression in Indochina, occupation of South Korea, military bases all around the periphery of the Far East and Southeast Asia."

Because these "remain unchanged," Pravda says, "one can suppose that China's anti-Soviet course pushed Washington into this new step (the Nixon trip) more than any concern about peace in that (Asian) region."

Consistent with the Soviet policy of playing down Mr. Nixon's trip, these harsh words appeared near the end of a 2,500-word review of world affairs written by Georgi Ratiani, chief of Pravda's American department. Nevertheless, they are a clear signal to the party workers who study Pravda closely that this is the line they should take on the Peking summit.

Though the Soviet papers have not published major commentaries devoted entirely to the new state of Sino-American relations, an accumulation of evidence — including Sunday's Pravda commentary — has now conveyed a general picture to careful Soviet readers.

—The Nixon trip was a hostile act to the Soviet Union, because it represented an American attempt to exploit China's anti-Soviet position.

—The trip produced more than was revealed in the communique (which has been fairly summarized but not yet printed here in full). Mr. Nixon's talks with Mao Tse-tung and Chao En-lai were held in utmost secrecy. By implication, the Soviet reader has been invited to conclude that Washington and Peking may have reached secret agreements, perhaps directed against the Soviet Union.

—Mr. Nixon's desire to visit China was connected with this year's presidential elections in the United States.

—By receiving Mr. Nixon as they did, the Chinese leaders have further demonstrated their disregard for the values which "good Communists" (those loyal to Moscow) should respect.
